House Bars Powell From Taking Seat in Congress

Harlem Will Doubtlessly Re-elect Him

NEW YORK (AP) — Several Negro leaders say they are prepared to help elect Adam Clayton Powell to Congress again, as many Harlem residents reacted angrily to his exclusion from the House of Representatives.

An Associated Press sampling of opinion Wednesday night showed Harlem residents are ready to vote again for the man who has represented them for 22 years.

Cleveland Robinson, national director of the Negro American Labor Council, said: "The people are prepared to elect him again and again and again until men of narrow vision come to their senses." He issued a call for a rally for Powell next Sunday.

Hulan Jack, former Manhattan borough president, said, "We serve notice that we will renominate and re-elect him by a far greater vote than he has ever received."

'Much Farther'

Floyd McKissick, executive director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said, "The issue goes much farther than Powell. It goes to the question of whether black people are going to have the representative of their choice to stand and speak for them."

In Harlem's bar and grills, fish and chip joints and shoeshine parlors, Negroes said they would "vote for Adam anytime and anywhere."

"Why shouldn't I vote for Adam?" a woman asked in quiet anger. "He's done a lot for us here in Harlem. Where do you think we'd be today if we didn't have Adam."

One man said he would vote for Powell "for spite against the white power structure."

Another man said, "I'm glad this is coming to a head so I can vote for him again. The little people will show those white congressmen what we think of them."

Not Surprised

Despite the angry talk among Harlem residents, most Negroes said they were not surprised by the House action.

One man said, "The whole thing was anticlimactic. He lost everything when they took his chairmanship a few weeks ago."

Restaurateur Lloyd Von Blaine said, "The reaction will set in more widely after a day or two."

Decides Against Censure; Attorneys Threaten Court Action to Overturn Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has barred Adam Clayton Powell — its most controversial and flamboyant figure — but may have trouble making the ban stick. In the last of three House votes on the Powell issue Wednesday afternoon, congressmen decided by an almost 3-1 vote that Powell should not be seated in the 90th Congress. Earlier, the House had denied, by a close vote, a plan to seat the Harlem congressman but censure him.

While Powell relaxed at his Bahamian fishing retreat at Bimini, his attorneys termed Wednesday's action "unconstitutional" and raised the threat of a federal court suit to overturn it. The House itself may have to deal with the matter again, perhaps within two months. A special election will be held to fill Powell's seat and every indication is that he again will be elected to fill the post he has held for 22 years.

"It will come back to haunt the House," said Rep. Emanuel Celler, the venerable New York Democrat, after the House rejected 222 to 202 the recommendation of his select committee to seat the Negro Democrat with a stiff censure, a $40,000 assessment and the loss of all seniority.

The action also rejected leadership from both parties, who had backed the committee action and led to the final ouster, 307 to 116.

"If I were representing Adam Clayton Powell," Celler told

Union Agrees To Terms With Post-Crescent

Week-Long Strike Ends; Wage Hike In New Contract

Employes in the press-stereo department of The Post-Crescent plus maintenance men returned to work at 8 a.m. today after being on strike for one week. Contract terms worked out at a meeting with a federal mediator Wednesday afternoon were approved at a meeting of Local 298 of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union Wednesday night.

The contract provides basically the same terms as those agreed to with the Post-Crescent Craftsman's Union for composing department employes two weeks ago. The three-year pact provides for a 50-cent an hour package wage increase over the three years plus considerable liberalization of vacation benefits. The 40-hour

Soviets Reply On Willingness To Discuss Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today he has gotten personal confirmation from from Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin that the Soviet Union is willing to begin discussions with the United States on possible ways to limit the spread of both offensive and defensive missiles.

Johnson, holding his second news conference in four days, said he had written Kosygin on Jan 27 to propose that the two governments discuss a possible halt in the development of antiballistic defensive missiles

He said he had received a reply from Kosygin that "confirms the willingness of the Soviet government" to discuss possible ways to limit the arms race in both offensive and defensive weapons.

Jail for Hoffa Set Tuesday

Teamsters President Still Fighting, Names Successor

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Frank W. Wilson has ordered James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, to appear here Tuesday morning to begin serving an eight-year prison term for jury tampering.

Less than an hour before Wilson annourced his decision Wednesday Hoffa designated Frank E. Fitzsimmons, general vice president of the union since last July, as his successor.

Wilson's move came after he denied Hoffa's request for continuance of his $75,000 bail pending disposition of a new trial motion. Attorneys for Hoffa, who took over the 1.8-million-member labor organization after Dave Beck, long - time Teamsters president, was handed a 15-year sentence in 1958 for stealing union funds, said Wilson's order "more than likely" would be appealed.

No Delay Seen

However, when asked if the legal maneuver would again delay the start of Hoffa's sentence, P. D. Maktos, an attorney of Washington replied: "I doubt it."

Hoffa, 54, who also was handed a $10,000 fine at the end of his trial here in 1964, would have to serve one-third of the eight-year term before becoming eligible for parole. And the federal Landrum - Griffin Act would prohibit him from holding further union office after his release.

Although Wilson did not refer to them, his bail ruling also meant that three of Hoffa's co-defendants would have to begin their sentences.

They are Ewing King of Nashville, former president of Teamsters Local 327; Thomas Ewing Parks, 49, a Nashville funeral home employe; and Larry Campbell, 42, business agent of Hoffa's home Local 299 in Detroit. Each was sentenced to three years.

Violation of Act

All of the convictions grew out of Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial in Nashville. The conspiracy case, involving the alleged collection of more than $1 million from an employer in violation of the Taft-Hartley law, ended in a mistrial when the jury was unable to agree upon a verdict.

Wilson still has made no rul-

Light Damage To U. S. Ship

Shore Batteries Exchange Fire With Cruiser

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese shore batteries scored two hits on the U.S. guided missile cruiser Canberra during a ship-to-shore duel Wednesday, the U.S. command announced today, but the hits caused only light damage.

The American command said the shore batteries were silenced by fire from the Canberra's 8-inch guns and the 5-inch guns of two accompanying destroyers

The two enemy rounds made only one half-inch hole in the Canberra's deck and did minor damage to some nearby lifecrafts, the Navy said. No American casualties were reported.

The three U.S. Navy ships were attacking a Communist battery of 57mm guns 15 miles north of Dong Hoi, the major port in the southern part of North Vietnam. U.S. shells from three other Navy ships came within one mile of Dong Hoi, the American command reported.

Other Design

The Canberra is one of the U.S. Navy's two heavy cruisers which can fire supersonic guided missiles, but the missiles are designed to combat aircraft, not ground targets. The 17,500-ton Canberra is named for the Australian cruiser which was sunk with the Vincennes and the Quincy in the first battle of Savo Island on Aug. 9, 1942.

South of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, Viet Cong mortarmen kept up their attack on the big U.S. guns which began firing

Romney Outshone on Platform

GOP Snubs Preference Polls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney, tabbed in some polls as the leading Republican contender for the presidency in 1968, gained only a standoff with Republican leaders at a $1 million fund-raising dinner.

Romney, a top prospect for the 1968 presidential nomination, was outshone on the platform at Wednesday night's GOP gala performance by Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Reagan, a prospective California favorite son candidate aloof from Romney's potential bid for the nomination, easily won the applause meter contest with his appearance

Not far behind with the audience at the $500-a-plate dinner was Barry Goldwater, the 1964 presidential nominee, who apparently is still personally popular with the Republicans despite his disastrous defeat by President Johnson.

Goldwater acidly observed offstage that Romney would have a chance for the 1968 nomination "if he returns to the Republican Party."

This was a measure of Goldwater's chagrin at Romney's refusal to support him in the 1964 race.

While the Michigan governor continued to talk in vague terms of future positions on Vietnam, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was his old, aggressive self on that issue.

Looked on as Romney's chief rival for the GOP nomination, Nixon said in a televised interview that increased military pressure was the way of "escalating the peace."

In an informal meeting with newsmen at the home of Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., Romney provided only nonanswers to questions on national issues

Just back from a tour of western states, Romney told the banquet audience, "I've just found how the west was won: blood, sweat and avoiding press conferences."

He talked on economic subjects, saying Johnson was run-

State Official Complains of Interest Rate

MADISON (AP)—Department stores are collecting "hundreds of thousands of dollars of illegal interest charges," the state commissioner of banking told a legislative committee Wednesday.

William Nuesse said stores using revolving credit plans are charging 1.5 per cent interest per month. The commissioner said he believes this violates the state's usury law which places a maximum 1 per cent monthly rate and he is working on a court test of it.

"The use of the term service charge in my opinion doesn't change the practice one particle," Nuesse told the joint finance committee during a hearing on his department's 1967-69 budget.

Nuesse said the public would not have to pay the rate if it challenged the store's practice and refused to assume it.

"There isn't a store in the state that will enforce it if the customer complains," said Nuesse. "That's the truth."

'Love Thy Neighbor'

Students Protest MSU Policy in Neck of Time

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Something new came to Michigan State University's campus Wednesday night as an estimated 600 students staged a protest "kiss-in."

The demonstration in a dormitory lounge was aimed at what students described as increased sternness in regulations of public displays of affection at the university.

The demonstrators carried signs: "Make love not war," "Love thy neighbor," and "Lips of MSU unite." Puckered lips were the order of the day as male students and coeds took part in the protest.

The Michigan State News, a student newspaper, said the idea for the demonstration stemmed from a warning given by college authorities recently to a college couple engaged in a good night embrace in a dormitory longe

The proaffection demonstration Wednesday night lasted for an hour with no interference from faculty resident advisers in the dormitory.

No one seemed to know what had been proven, but both the male students and coeds appeared to have enjoyed the demonstrations.

More U.S. Force Means More Red Losses

McNamara Eyes Recent Death Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says Communist casualties in Vietnam have increased 40 to 50 per cent in the past three months because of intensified U.S. military action.

But he implied to newsmen Wednesday that new types of U.S. warfare in Vietnam — including mining of key North Vietnam rivers and ground and sea artillery bombardment of the North — do not represent an escalation of American efforts.

He said the new moves resulted largely from a cutback in bombing because of bad weather.

He offered the Communist casualties only in percentages, not specific figures.

The House was set to vote today on a bill providing $4.5 billion more for the intensified military effort this fiscal year. Little opposition is expected

The Senate passed a similar measure 89 to 2 Wednesday after hotly debating an amendment that urged no further expansion of the war while backing President Johnson's efforts to negotiate for peace.

Both the Senate and House versions would authorize funds for additional weapons and supplies to carry out the war The added $4.5 billion would bring to about $73 billion authorized U.S. defense spending for the current fiscal year.

Before passing the bill, the Senate voted 72 to 19 for an amendment by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that offered something for both supporters and opponents of U.S. policy.

Even Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., perhaps the most constant critic of U.S. war policy, voted for the amendment, although he and Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., cast the only votes against the bill itself.

The amendment, which expresses congressional intent to "provide all necessary support" while at the same time seeking "a negotiated settlement," was described by Mansfield as being in full accord with Johnson's policies.

Supporters of those policies feared the "negotiated settlement" phrase might be misinterpreted by the North Vietnamese as appeasement" "a dove policy," as Sen Norris Cotton, R-N.H., put it.

McNamara, talking to newsmen at the White House, said foul weather forced a reduction in air sorties against North Vietnam to a monthly level of 6,600 to 6,800 as compared with 12,000 last September.

McNamara cited evidence of North Vietnam's major efforts to move men and supplies into South Vietnam as another factor in U.S. artillery and mining activities.

Last Week's Toll Highest Of Asia War

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces in Vietnam lost a record 2,332 dead last week, the U.S. command's weekly casualty report said today

The total of enemy dead was 129 less than the total of 2,461 reported on Monday by South Vietnamese headquarters The two commands' totals of enemy dead rarely agree, and U.S. officers said the difference resulted because the American report is issued later, it contains more information, and evaluation methods are slightly different.

The U.S. report said 163 Americans were killed in combat last week and 919 were wounded, compared with 172 dead and 802 wounded in the previous week

The reported Communist loss of 2,332 compared with 2,029 the week before, the previous high for the war.

Unofficial figures show that until last week, the previous highest Communist death toll was 1,968 in one week of March last year

South Vietnamese casualties were listed as 286 killed and 45 missing, compared with 110 dead and 33 missing in the previous week The South Vietnamese do not report their wounded

Losses among other allied forces in Vietnam were reported to be 21 dead and 60 wounded, compared with 40 dead and 76 wounded in the previous week

The latest weekly totals brought the number of Americans killed in combat in the war to 7,688, by unofficial tabulation, and the number of wounded to 44,455

The American headquarters also reported that 1,000 more U.S. troops arrived in Vietnam during the week, increasing the total of American forces in the country to 415,000.

No increase was reported in other forces in the country.

Woman Seeks Reason Husband Yells in Sleep

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Could you enlighten me as to why my husband talks and sometimes yells in his sleep? He does it more as he gets older. His sleep is restless and broken. Physically he is in pretty good health for age 46.

He has a tendency to be a worrywart. Could nerves be involved? — Mrs. G. L.

Yes, nerves could be responsible. Likewise, being a light sleeper, he has limited intervals of the deep phase of sleep. His subconscsious mind remains at work, and since he is a worrier, unpleasant thoughts, events or hostile episodes can break through into his thoughts and cause nightmares.

Possibly a mild sedative might help him sleep more deeply. This need not be a barbiturate. Has he told his doctor about his problem?

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you have a booklet on these new buttons and bows they insert to prevent pregnancy? — Mrs. E.J.

No booklet. And that's the first time I've heard them called buttons and bows, but it's not a bad name. They come in a lot of different shapes and designs.

Technically they are I.U.C.D.'s or intra-uterine contraceptive devices. They are not new, though. Similar ones were used hundreds of years ago. Exactly why they prevent pregnancy is still not understood.

The devices must be fitted and inserted by your physician, and then should be checked periodically to be sure they have not slipped out of place.

They appear to work well for some women. Others don't like them or cannot tolerate them, so some women try them and then abandon them. My best answer is to leave it up to your own physician who can keep track of whether I.U.C.D. may be satisfactory for you.

Dear Dr. Molner: Years ago I har syphilis and was treated for it, but tests are always positive. Does that mean I have the disease? — P.D.

Assuming that you had proper treatment, standard tests may remain positive although you are clinically cured — you no longer are ill, and cannot give the disease to anyone else.

There are special tests which can be done to check on the usual procedures when they give positive results in spite of correct and adequate therapy. It is important to have a test of the spinal fluid as well as of the blood.

Dear Dr. Molner: I was much interested in the letter from Mrs. S.B. concerning age and cancer of the uterus.

I am 23 and have had a hysterectomy for the same thing, and feel very fortunate as my doctor feels that I am completely cured.

Had I waited until I was 30 to begin the smear tests, it would have been too late.

The Pap test is such a simple, painless procedure that I can't understand why every woman won't take 10 minutes once a year to have a smear. I did, and I was very, very lucky. — Mrs. K.C.

There's nothing to add to that.

Dear Dr. Molner: In reply to a query, you said that for a healthy man, frequency of sexual activity is not harmful to health or length of life. Does the same apply to women? — Mrs. C.S.

Yes.

Note to C.M.: I wouldn't risk guessing what those itching white spots are, but since they seem to have spread from husband to wife, I would not delay in consulting a dermatologist (skin specialist).

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handlinb.

Your Money's Worth

If You're Stockholder, Study Annual Reports

BY SYLVIA PORTER

We are now into the peak "annual report season." This year, an estimated 23 million of us who today own stocks will receive more than 100 million annual reports from 40-50,000 publicly-owned U.S. corporations.

But a shocking proportion of us will throw away these annual reports without even opening the envelopes. Many others will simply skim over the highlights. If you are among these millions, you are junking the single most important document on the financial health of your company, and your single best measure of how well (or how poorly) your savings now are invested. If you are also an employe of the company in which you own stock, your indifference is really inexcusable.

Why do so many stockholders, as many as 40 per cent according to one recent study, ignore this key document? What are corporations doing today to win stockholders' confidence in their annual reports and to make the reports more readable?

Changes Made

Only a couple of decades ago, the typical annual report did not contain even a table of contents to guide you through its maze of facts and figures. The typical report told the shareholder how the company did the previous year, but gave no figures for other years to help you measure its long-term trends. The undrained shareowner was at the mercy of the professional corporation statisticians and accountants and, as one Wall Streeter puts it, "considerable imagination went into the preparation of balance sheets."

Now this has changed dramatically. Virtually all major corporations today provide not only detailed indexes in their annual reports, but usually also a generous assortment of easy-to-read charts and summaries so you can judge at a glance your company's and its industry's progress. The crucially-important 10-year summary of financial highlights, rare 10-15 years ago, is now commonplace. A growing number of corporations are printing financial high lights on the covers of their annual reports, to lure more readers to look inside and delve further into their figures.

Accuracy Required

While in Europe, corporation financial reports frequently omit key figures, use outdated information or fudge statistics beyond any semblance of reality. In this country today's shareholder can, with few exceptions trust every fact, figure and footnote in every annual report he receives. Assuring the accuracy and completeness of financial reports are the stiff rules of the major U.S. stock exchanges. The rigid regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the strict auditing procedures of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. Virtually all annual reports now contain a "stamp of approval" of a reputable outside auditing firm or a statement by this firm that it takes issue with some aspect of the report—and why.

Today, even if you're an unsophisticated investor, your can see through most efforts a company may still make to obscure bad financial news. In the words of one expert: "when the President's letter to shareholders begins with '1966 was a year of adjustment for your company,' you can assume it was a bad year." Or you can simply turn to the record itself and judge.

The goals for annual reports finally are becoming readability, fairness, completeness, simplicity. And corporations are competing to disclose more rather than less information to explain rather than to cover up bad news.

Despite the progress, though, it's not easy (and never will be) to understand a corporation annual report. Thus, tomorrow's column will submit a glossary of key items, and the basic rules for interpreting them intelligently.

Little Chute Youngster Hit by Car in Village

LITTLE CHUTE — Kenneth Vanden Heuvel, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vanden Heuvel, 515 Van Buren St., escaped with bruises and abrasions after being struck by a car about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

According to police, the youngster was crossing Vandenbroek Street in the cross-walk when he was hit by a car driven by Mrs. Bernard Miller, 620 E. Main St., as she was turning left off Main.

The driver told police she was blinded by the sun and failed to see the child.

Rep. Patman Tyranizes House Banking Group

Texan Held Up as Another Example Of Misuse of Committee Powers

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — While the case of Adam Clayton Powell, deposed chairman of the House Labor Committee, grabbed the headlines, another and more fundamental attack on the powers of House committee chairmen to tyranize their committees is now at a climactic point in the House Banking Committee.

The target is the maverick

Novak

liberal Democrat, Wright Patman of Texas, whose often dictatorial control of the Banking Committee sparked a rebellion last year

Patman has already lost his old unilateral power to name subcommittees, order the printing of prejudiced committee studies, launch subcommittee investigations and subpoena witnesses. Now under attack by the insurgents, a group of four or five younger Democrats led by Rep. Thomas L. (Lud) Ashley of Ohio, is Chairman Patman's authority to hire staff at will.

Seek GOP Aid

With 19 Democrats on the Banking Committee, Ashley and his reform-minded supporters, including William Moorhead of Pennsylvania and Robert G. Stephens Jr. of Georgia are outnumbered by the stand-pat Democrats backing their chairman. Their ultimate weapon to force committee reforms and reduce Patman's power is to use the voting power of the 14 Republicans on the committee.

This was precisely the weapon Ashley and Moorhead used last year to compel the chairman to bring the controversial bank-merger bill to a vote in the committee.

Since then passions have been rising steadily within the Democratic majority. The matter came to a head in a caucus of the Democratic members three weeks ago. Ashley proposed a new committee rule which would have forced Patman to get majority approval of the entire committee. Democrats as well as Republicans, for important committee actions, including the issuing of highly controversial staff studies.

The "Ashley Rule" was beaten in the Democratic caucus. Instead, the Democrats adopted a novel committee caucus system, partly based on old and obsolete caucus rules of the Democratic Party in the House. Proposed by Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin, the committee's fifth-ranking Democrat, the caucus system requires Patman to get the approval of his own Democrats.

Revive Old Rule

When it was first brought up three weeks ago, the Ashley-ites suspected a trap. Under obsolete House caucus rules of the Democratic Party, all members theoretically can be "bound" to support the majority decision or lose all their seniority. The "binding caucus" is meaningless today.

And yet, a binding caucus was what Reuss was proposing. When the insurgents realized that this would force them to go along with chairman Patman whenever Patman could get a majority of the Democrats behind him, there was an explosion. Moorhead, backed by Ashley, demanded how it was that Reuss could suddenly produce a power relic discarded a century ago and apply it to a House committee.

The anger of the insurgents forced the other side to back down. As finally drafted, the new rules of the Banking Committee Democrats provide that insurgents may oppose majority caucus decision if they announce at the caucus that they will not be bound. In that case, the insurgents can demand a meeting of the full committee, where, with the help of the 14 Republicans, they can overturn the Democratic majority.

Responsible to Chairman

Whether it comes to that will depend on Patman's attitude toward the insurgents' demand for a reform of the committee's staff. The complexion of the staff, which is supposed to be available to all Democrats on the committee, has taken on the easy-money, anti-bank complexion of Chairman Patman. The 20-odd top staffers on the committee are directly responsible only to the chairman, and consequently are simply unavailable to do research for members like Ashley who don't agree with Patman.

The insurgents want to reorganize this whole committee staff, which is paid by funds voted to the committee, not the chairman. Having already curtailed the chairman's power in the area of new committee probes, the setting up of the new subcommittees and other actions traditionally within the chairman's sole discretion, the insurgents tasted blood. They won't be satisfied until they reorganize the committee staff. When that happens, the reform of the Banking Committee will surpass that of Adam Clayton Powell's old Labor Committee. Other standing committees, whose chairmen also are feeling the heat from rank-and-file insurgents, will be ripe for similar reforms.

Anatomy of Affliction

Surgery Used at Start Of Arthritis Treatment

DR. GLEN W. MCDONALD
U.S. Public Health Service
Written for Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgery plays an important part in the treatment of arthritis. Generally, surgery has been resorted to when the disease is far advanced, and when crippling and deformity have set in. Now, however, surgical techniques are being used very early in the disease.

This is the last of a series of articles on rheumatoid arthritis written by an official of the United States Public Health Service.

As a last resport, surgeons will sometimes deliberately fuse a joint if there is no other way to control pain. Function is lost in that joint, but the patient does get relief.

Where function is extremely limited, surgeons have had varying degrees of success in inserting artificial devices to take the place of normal joint components. In a different approach, the surgeon cuts through bone and ends up with something which looks nothing like a normal joint but which performs the same functions.

New Technique

In a technique now being evaluated, surgeons feel they may be getting at the root of the disease. The first part of the joint to be inflamed is the membrane lining, the synovium. As this membrane is not essential for the functioning of the joint, some surgeons are taking out the synovium early in the disease—sometimes at the first positive diagnosis of arthritis.

There is no quick and easy treatment for rheumatoid arthritis. When cortisone and ACTH were first discovered, they were thought to be the long-awaited cures, but serious side effects have limited their usefulness. The steroids still have a role in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, but they must be used in small doses under careful supervision. The drugs will control pain and inflammation, but without physical measures joint damage will progress.

Millions of dollars are spent each year on widely advertised products which promise relief from arthritic pain." It's much cheaper to take the more effective product, plain aspirin, which acts against inflammation as well as relieving pain.

Large Dosage

Doses of aspirin used for the treatment of arthritis are very much larger than those used for relieving headaches. The doctor has to push the dosage up close to the point at which unpleasant side effects are caused. Only he can decide where this point is. It differs with each patient, and takes times to work out for each individual.

Even when drugs don't live up to their promise in the treatment of arthritis, as with the steroids, they often contribute to knowledge of the disease. For example, use of cortisone and its derivations shed light on the inflammation process.

Many competent scientists are engaged in the search for new drugs for the treatment of arthritis. As investigators get closer to pinpointing the causes of arthritis, there is every reason to hope for an effective cure in the not too distant future.

Ease Life

Physical measures, which play so large a role in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, can also help make the patient's life easier.

Raising a chair's legs makes it easier for the patient to get in and out of his favorite seat; there is a way of pushing one's self out of the chair which won't hurt sore wrists. Housewives can be shown how to perform their tasks in a less tiring manner, and there are all sorts of appliances which help arthritics with limited function perform normal tasks.

A large part of treatment of rheumatoid arthritis is education of the patient and his family.

If you do have rheumatoid arthritis, find a doctor you like; you're going to be seeing a lot of him.

In the end, only the patient, by sticking to his exercises and other prescribed treatment, can prevent crippling and deformity.

Doctor, Not Hypnotist, Called Best Consultant for Dieters

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a friend who has lost 20 pounds and looks terrific. I asked her how she did it and she confided that she went to a hypnotist who sold her on the idea that certain foods such as candy, pie, cake, bread and potatoes are poisonous to her.

I am about 15 pounds overweight and I would just love to get myself down to a size 10 again. Do you recommend hypnotism? My husband is afraid of it but I say if it works, why not?

Your word is law in our house and my husband has agreed that what you say goes. Please say yes. — Hippy Helen Jane

Dear Hip: Hypnosis has helped some people lose weight but in the vast majority of cases it was a temporary loss. The sound and sensible approach is to see your physician, stick to his diet and vow to change your eating habits permanently.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am one of those so-called rude people who gets mad when someone dials the wrong number. Sometimes I become unladylike and I am not ashamed to admit it. Occasionally I swear, like last night.

Three times I was awakened out of a sound sleep. The last call was 3:30 a.m. Some drunk was looking for Ida. I tried to be patient. I asked him what number he was trying to reach.

Landers

The number was not even remotely similar to ours. I asked him to please check with information. Then he got nasty — said he was the one who was losing dimes and what was I so snippy about.

You said, Ann Landers, that people don't have one set of manners for daily use and another set for the telephone. Well, I disagree. Normally I'm a very gracious person but under the circumstances I had a right to be rude. Agree? — Not Sorry

DEAR NOT SORRY: Your reaction was a human one and while I am not condoning profanity I can certainly understand a short fuse at 3:30 a.m.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why is it that when men go out and get stiff everyone is concerned about the poor suffering wife? Does anyone ever stop and think why he does this? Well, I can tell you.—99 times out of 100 it's on account of her.

I have provided my wife with a mortgage - free home. She has every electric appliance invented in the last 50 years.

Yet she nags me from morning til night, calls me stupid, says her sisters' husbands treat them better than I treat her. The latest is that my eating habits made her sick to her stomach. It was the main topic of conversation at the dinner table last night — and right in front of the children.

Unfortunately I can't drink because it makes me ill. But I sure do understand why some men go out and get drunk. I wish I could — Abused

Dear Ab: Your marriage is in rocky enough shape without adding booze to the picture, my friend. You two need counseling. Check with your clergyman and the Family Service Association. Your marriage is on a collision course and you need ostside help desperately.

What is love? How does it differ from sexual attraction? Read "Love Or Sex and How to Tell the Difference," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Ways to support the Fox Valley Symphony Orchestra, and in particular the March 12 concert, were discussed by a group of women who organized under the name. 'Promotional Committee for the March 12 Concert'. Discussing ways of acquainting the public with the work of the area-wide musical group are, seated, Mrs. Charles Seaborne Jr., Mrs. Eugene Gassere. Mrs. Beck Fisher Jr., Mrs. John Maring, Mrs. Luther Rogers. Mrs. Robert Below, Mrs. John B. Menn and Mrs. Harold Adams. Standing are Mrs. E. R. Shannon, Mrs. Talbot Peterson, Mrs. Frederick Smith and Miss Florette Zuelke.

Women Undertake Symphony Support

At the start, they laughingly called it the 'rescue committee'. That's what it was, for the women who met to discuss the future of the Fox Valley Symphony Orchestra realized that unless the group obtained public support, its future was indeed bleak. Concentrating on making a single concert a success — from the viewpoint of audience numbers — it adopted the name 'Promotional Committee for the March 12 Concert of the Fox Valley Symphony Orchestra.'

A group of 15 women who feel strongly about the merits of a local symphony talked many times, trying to find the best way to let people find an enthusiasm for music and enjoy the advantages of a local orchestra, before disinterest causes it to disband.

The women felt that the problem was not in the ability orskill of the musicians, but rather in the fact that too few people had really taken the time to enjoy their concerts. unfamiliarity breeds disinterest. And so they sought ways to make people better acquainted with the orchestra and its work.

Supper Parties

The committee began by urging friends to invite people to supper before the 8 p m. March 12 concert at the Lawrence University Chapel. The suppers might be informal and easy to prepare, but, preceding a concert, were bound to be festive events.

Monday afternoon, the committee and those who plan dinner parties met with the symphony conductor, Karlos Moser, at a reception at the William Siekman home, 940 E. College Ave. Visiting and chatting about the symphony, and, incidentally, discussing their pre-concert plans, were Mmes. and Messers. Harold Adams, Gerald Aldrich, James Auer, Henry Bailey, Robert Below, Donald Beno, Russell Berryman, O. C. Boldt, John Breckshot, Harry Brown, J. J. Davis, William Ducklow, William Fieweger, Beck Fisher Jr., Robert Graef, James Grist, David Brunwaldt, Arno Hoering, James Hebbe, Harold Heller, Curt Knoke, LaVahn Maesch, John Menn, Talbot Peterson, Charles Seaborne Jr., Robert Sigman, Otto Schulz, Winton Schumacher, Darwin Smith, Thomas Stanton, Robert Strauss, Curtis Tarr, Ben Trevelyan, Paul Truttschel and Johannes Van Den Akker. Also planning parties before the concert are the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Dahl, Miss Shirley Gash, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. George Potter, Mrs. Mary Schoeneck, Dr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Warren and Miss Florette Zuelke.

Each of those planning a party has been encouraged to have friends do the same. The committee hopes that the ever-expanding circle will engender broadening interest in the work of the symphony and greater attendance at its concerts.

Committee members, who may in the future form the nucleus for a more permanent organization, are Mmes. J. Treat Thomas, Frederick Smith, Charles Seaborne Jr., Harold Adams, Luther Rogers, Beck Fisher Jr., John Menn, Talbot Peterson, Eugene Gassere, John Maring, Edward Shannon, Lorren Schroeder, David Grunwaldt and Robert Below, and Miss Florette Zuelke.

Symphony Stretches Area's Enjoyment of Musicality

BY SANDRA RADLOFF
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Putting straw and pouring water into a piano were done in a concert once — along with more conventional selections — by Karlos Moser, music professor and opera conductor at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. He is still intrigued by the question of whether this is a valid musical experience and still debates the subject, perhaps with some laughter, with his wife, also a musician. But things he delights in without question are reading through the score of a symphony like the pages of a novel, discovering a neglected 16th Century composition and conducting a rehearsal of the Fox Valley Symphony Orchestra every Monday evening — after a three-hour bus ride from Madison.

Mr. Moser began working in January, 1966, with the new community organization of 80 musicians. Some come from as far away as Oshkosh for rehearsals, held at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center. Participants include grade and high school music teachers, university professors of music and housewives who perhaps majored in music in college and welcome the chance to continue their interest. "Their faithfulness and talent please me," says the young professor.

Provides Outlet

"Everyone responds to music, but the values of music can't be explained in concrete terms. The purpose of a community symphony orchestra is to provide the consummation of undefinable music values to performers and listeners. There is nothing like a live performance!" Mr. Moser explains.

Focusing a community effort, the orchestra, he feels, provides an outlet for musical talent, a chance for high school and college graduates to continue their study of music. The opportunity of joining the orchestra encourages young talented students to practice.

Music the group is rehearsing for its third concert performance in spring ranges from a 1790 Franz Haydn symphony to one of the contemporary period, composed in 1925 by the late Serge Prokofiev.

Mr. Moser explains, "A professional musician feels he must encourage the performance of contemporary music. If we, who are in the position to defend it, do not perform it, composers will no longer create. This is balanced by the need to perform masterpieces of the past, for this music also will not live unless it is performed."

One of the duties of a professor of opera workshop is to produce for college students operas of historical interest, he says, and for this reason he recently conducted in Madison the orchestra for "The Good Girl", an Italian opera composed in 1760 by Piccinni.

First Interest

Having conducted, directed and produced operas at the University for six years, Mr. Moser welcomes the chance to return one day a week to orchestral conducting. his first interest. He explains that European conductors receive music experience at opera houses, accompanying ballet, coaching soloists and choruses and arranging and composing orchestral pieces.

In the U S., however, there are no opera houses and so conductors go to orchestral conducting first and later perhaps to opera, for instance, at a university. Because of the musical variety one experiences in opera, Mr. Moser feels this area provides a broad background for an orchestral conductor.

The conductor and his group plan annual spring and fall concerts scheduling 10 practice sessions for each performance The musicians disband for summer.

The group has also presented two concerts to area high schools. One of its plans is to hold a music contest for high school students The winner will be given the opportunity to perform with the orchestra.

More Concerts

A community that supports its orchestra can look forward to more concerts each season and perhaps to an opera or ballet group, which would then require a full-time conductor, says Mr. Moser. An orchestra is the foundation of this and should be the first music goal of a community.

Support involves contributions and, especially, attendance, for this justifies the efforts of conductor and performers and provides a climate for fulfillment of music values. Performance is not only a matter of enjoyment to the musicians, but also of pride and responsibility, Mr. Moser comments.

Opportunities for participation also exist for those who do don't play musical instruments. A ladies guild, librarians, publicity assistants and ticket salesmen are necessary. "Donating money is also a talent." he says.

Work 'Refreshing'

The professor finds working with a community group 'refreshing'. "There is no pressure of grades, and music is performed for its own sake. It's a pleasure to work with mature people." he says. Yet, this is balanced by the fact that at a university, one is free to attempt new ideas that community members would consider too extreme.

Mr. Moser enjoys "stretching the imaginations of performers" by introducing them to new works, sometimes ones that won't be performed in their concert.

After his arrival Monday afternoons for rehearsal he is entertained first by Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Smith, 402 Ninth St., Neenah, with conversation and dinner. The Smiths are among many friends he has made in the area. Mrs Smith plays a cello in the orchestra.

Strings Scarce

One of the problems of conducting a community orchestra involves the balance of instruments. Violin, viola and bass musicians are often scarce and more violins than any other instrument are required, usually eight to 10 compared with two oboists or two clarinetists.

Also, string instruments are the most difficult to play in the early stages of learning. "It's important for children to begin violin lessons before they're 12 years old if they're to play well, because then their bones haven't been permanently set yet " Area music teachers are encouraging children to begin lessons early. In this way, the orchestra and the community help one another.

Mr. Moser, born in Brazil of parents from Indiana and Ohio plays cello, violin and double bass, but his favorite instrument is the piano. Professional musicians keep music as a hobby too, he says. For evening entertainment he enjoys playing in small chamber groups. Gardening and reading are other hobbies, he adds.

'Reads' Scores

He recalls the words of T. S. Elliot that Shakespeare could be read as well as performed. This, he feels, is the same with music. "I am just as happy reading music scores as performing them. There is something of the beauty of music on the printed page."

An early teacher encouraged him to read scores. The puzzle and fascination of them, some written in 30 lines for orchestra, led him to the interest in conducting.

When he performed the 'straw and water' work, he says people in the audience were amused, confused, horrified and indifferent. But Mr. Moser enjoys surprises in music, both modern and old; for instance, the atonal composition of Arnold Schoenberg describing a clown going mad, or the highlights modern dance gives to music or the discovery of neglected works of the 16th and 17th Centuries, recreating lost works of art.

Mr. Moser hopes that the symphony will bring joy to all who love music and new understanding to those still unfamiliar with it.

Karlos Moser, a professor of opera workshop at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, reserves every Monday afternoon for a trip to Appleton to conduct the Fox Valley Symphony Orchestra. He began rehearsing with the 80 participants of the new organization in January and finds working with the community group 'refreshing'. His first stop on arrival is at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Smith, 402 Ninth St., Neenah, for conversation and relaxation. Mrs. Smith plays cello in the orchestra.

Reports on fund raising drives for the Family Service were given by Mrs. Frank Lehman, Mrs Joseph Shiff and Mrs. Carl Stumpf. Plans for a speakers committee and publicity were discussed.

President, Mrs. Johnson Expect First Grandchild

WASHINGTON (AP) — The First Lady says daughter Luci is pregnant.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson bubbled Wednesday at a Capitol luncheon about her pending grandmotherhood in May or June. Her press secretary later confirmed the remarks.

So far, neither Luci, 19, nor her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, has confirmed the expected birth of their first child. They live in Austin, Texas. They were married Aug. 6, 1966.

Breaks News

Mrs. Johnson broke the news in chit-chat at a luncheon given by Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., for about 20 women including Cabinet and Senate wives.

The grandchild would be President and Mrs. Johnson's first.

Nugent works for the Johnson family-owned broadcasting firm in Austin and has been attending the University of Texas.

Denies Report

Earlier Wednesday the White House denied a report that the top floor of Holy Cross Hospital in Austin would be used for the expected birth.

Until Mrs. Johnson broke the news the White House had consistently refused comment on whether Luci was expecting.

Mail 2,000 Invitations for Percy-Rockefeller Rite

BY MARGARET SCHERF

CHICAGO (AP) — Many prominent persons were hoping today to receive one of the cream - colored, engraved-by-Tiffany tickets to 1967's wedding of the year.

Some 2,000 invitations to the April 1 wedding of Sharon Percy and John D. Rockefeller IV are in the mail.

Not since Luci Johnson and Patrick Nugent announced their engagement has a young couple's marital plans aroused so much interest.

Unlikely Wish

Like the President's daughter, Sharon has expressed the hope that she and her fiance will be treated "just like any other couple."

Her wish is as unlikely to be granted as was Luci's.

"Instead of his and hers seats at the wedding, they'll have to have Democrats and Republicans," one of Sharon's friends said when the engagement was announced Nov. 29.

Elected to Office

Rockefeller, 29, nephew of Republican Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, recently was elected to the West Virginia Legislature as a Democrat.

Sharon, 21, whose father, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, is mentioned as a possible Republican contender for the presidency, says she has become a Democrat since her engagement.

"Love takes precedence over politics," her father commented when told of the switch.

A slender, wide-eyed extrovert with long, wheat-colored hair, Sharon presents striking contrast to Rockefeller, 6-feet-6½ inches tall and darkly handsome with brown hair and green eyes.

"She's an activist by nature," Rockefeller has said of his fiance.

Sharon chose the University of Chicago's Rockefeller Chapel for her wedding.

Her father is a graduate of the university and a board member. Rockefeller's great-grandfather provided the funds to found the university and to build the non-denominational chapel, dedicated in 1928.

Sharon will walk a 265-foot-long aisle to the altar, past 51 pews in which the 2,000 guests will be seated.

Because the Christian Science denomination, of which the Percys are members, has no set marriage service, the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer will be used. An organ and choir will furnish music.

A reception immediately after the wedding will be held in Ida Noyes Hall, a student center resembling an English Tudor manor house, across the street from the chapel.

One hundred guests have been invited to the traditional rehearsal dinner on the wedding eve given by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III, in the Arts Club.

Honeymoon in Orient

The couple will honeymoon in Hong Kong and Japan, where Rockefeller studied and taught for three years.

They will live in the $75,000, one-story red-brick house in a Charleston, W.Va., suburb which Rockefeller has spent $25,000 remodeling.

A married couple will serve as housekeeper and caretaker on the 16-acre estate.

The YMCA has announced two schedules for an eight-week home decorating class. Subjects to be covered are wall hangings, shadow box plaques, block printing pictures, antique picture frames and wood paintings.

The morning class, to begin March 9, will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. Thursdays. The evening class, to begin March 29, is planned from 7:45 to 9:45 p.m. Wednesdays. A tiny tot sitter service will be provided for morning sessions.

Caviar, Candles, Carnations Enhance New York Automat

NEW YORK (AP)—Would you believe caviar at the Automat? Well, would you believe quail in aspic? And nary a nickel put in a slot?

You better. because the Confrerie de la Chaine des Rotisseurs. a society of gourmets, held its annual dinner—all nine courses of it—at the Automat in the basement at Broadway and 37th Street

The 30 waiters hired for the occasion seemed on the skeptical side. Dressed in white ties. dinner jackets and white gloves. they filled up on corned beef and cabbage before serving the fancier fare to members who had taken over the Automat from its usual customers for the evening.

Waiters Push Trays

The waiters were the only ones who pushed trays along the cafeteria rail. and the first thing the countermen dished out to them was great dollops of $48 a pound caviar from Iran.

The Iranian caviar set the tone because the guest of honor was Mehdi Vakil. Iran's permanent representative to the United Nations. who was made a knight of the order.

Paul A. Spitler. a New York meat company executive. who is head of the North American section of the international organization. dubbed him with a golden broche—luxury version of the thing you barbecue meat on in your back yard.

Elegant Settings

The confrere supplied red damask cloths for the tables. red and white carnations and white candles in silver candlesticks. but the six forks. four knives and one spoon at each place were plain old-fashioned stainless Each diner also had six glasses for the wines which accompanied the meal.

It took three hours for the dinner which began with hors d'oeuvres of oysters. clams, crab. sturgeon. sausage in pie crust. and sweetbreads served from a special bar with champagne and aperitifs.

The sit-down meal began with caviar and progressed through consomme. salmon poached in white wine. beef roasted with truffles. braised endives. sherbet—to give diners strength to go on—quail in aspic. limestone lettuce salad. various cheeses and apple pie.

Special Precautions End Spread of Cold's Misery

It is inevitable winter colds may keep at least one family member home for a few days. or longer. Sneezes, coughs, aches and pains, possibly a fever — and a grumpy disposition — are all symptoms that can try the skills and patience of any home nurse. wife or mother.

Basic techniques and housekeeping measures have been found to help get patients out of bed faster and to keep the rest of the household healthier and happier. They're worth learning.

The common cold is very much a communicable disease. and special precautions are necessary to keep the rest of the family from "catching" it. Whenever possible. have the patient stay in a separate room. and keep family. pets and guests out.

This protects visitors from picking up germs — and the patient from acquiring a new variety, which may complicate his illness.

As with all illnesses. and to avoid further infectious complications. clean hands are most important for the "nurse" Using an antibacterial skin cleanser keeps hands as bacteria free as possible

Wash hands before and after attending the patient. Dry hands well with a clean cloth or preferably a paper towel. Keep fingernails trimmed and clean

Wash patient's dishes with especially hot water. Use a separate set of dishes for him or use disposable paper plates.

Keep soiled sickroom linens separate

Provide paper tissues for nasal and throat discharges. and a paper container for the soiled ones.

Observe all directions and labels on medicines and follow them exactly. Setting an alarm clock will help to remind you when the next dose should be given.

Keep a written record of medication given. It will be useful to your physician.

Consult a physician whenever a fever is present. when cold symptoms are severe or when they do not subside within a few days.

Try to keep cheerful. It is good therapy for the patient. and helps to keep up your own spirits.

Remember. also. "This. too shall pass" It may help you through a time when your husband's reaction to his case of sniffles makes the children's chicken pox seem trivial

Don't Scold For Your Mistake

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"Is it proper to take a card out of your hand before your turn to play?"

"West took the top clubs and led a low club to make me ruff. I took the top diamonds and led a third diamond. West followed suit, and East took a card out of his hand before I had played from dummy.

"I asked East if he promised to play his card (which I couldn't see) no matter what I played from dummy. He said something about saving time and put the card back in his hand.

"All of this made me feel sure that East was about to follow suit with a diamond, so I ruffed with dummy's low trump. East over-ruffed with the ten of spades and returned a trump, so that I eventually had to lose another diamond.

"I told East he should be ashamed of himself, but he just laughed and said that the ten of spades had been the card he had taken out of his hand. Should an opponent act that way to deceive declarer?"

East was out of line when he took a card out of his hand before it was his turn to play. Nevertheless South should keep quiet about this hand instead of making a fuss. His contract was unbeatable if he played the hand properly.

South should ruff the third diamond with dummy's ace of trumps. He next cashes the ace of hearts and ruffs a heart with the king of trumps.

Now South can surely ruff his last diamond with the six of spades. East can over-ruff with the ten of spades, but he cannot defeat the contract — no matter what he meant by taking a card out of his hand.

Objections Lifted on Industry Relocation To Greenville Site

Resolution Defeated Censuring County Corporation's Proposal

The Outagamie County Industrial Corp. won a major victory Wednesday night when the Appleton Council decided not to object to the group's proposal to relocate a local industry in Greenville.

By a 15 to 5 vote the council voted down a resolution, recommended Tuesday by the city attorney and board of public works which would have filed official objection to the corporation's plan.

According to law, the city had 45 days in which to object to the corporation's plan to assist the Wisconsin Wire Works in building a new plant in the Town of Greenville. The deadline for council action would have been Friday.

Original Stand

The board of public works had taken its original stand after it was agreed a new city industrial development committee should be appointed, and that an objection should be registered to relocating Appleton industries outside the city.

Walter Rugland, president of Aid Association for Lutherans and head of the County Industrial Development Corp., urged aldermen not to object to the Wisconsin Wire Works transaction.

He said the corporation, formed of Chamber of Commerce and Outagamie County officials, was organized to serve the entire county and the City of Appleton, too.

Rugland said the purpose of the corporation was to help firms with financing at lower than regular rates, thus encour-

Perjury Count Filed Against Appleton Man

Involved Earlier In Beating Case; Chicagoan Cleared

A perjury charge was brought against a 20-year-old state reformatory inmate and two charges were dropped against a Chicago man this morning in the case of the beating of an 80-year-old Appleton woman in her home Oct. 21.

The perjury charge was brought against Roland L. Roberts, 916 W. Winnebago St., who originally was charged with aggravated battery in connection with the beating of his former landlady, Mrs. Clara Gipp.

However, the battery count was dismissed Feb. 8 at the request of the district attorney's office after Roberts was given a series of lie detector tests at Green Bay. He did, however, plead guilty to a theft charge brought in connection with the taking of $13 from Mrs. Gipp's purse Oct. 21.

On Feb. 9, a John Doe hearing was held before Judge Gustave J. Keller. It was partially on the basis of the hearing that a warrant was issued for Robert J. Hein, 25, formerly of Appleton and now living in Chicago, charging Hein with aggravated battery and theft in the Gipp case. Authorities alleged he was Robert's companion in the Oct. 21 incident.

Roberts and Mrs. Gipp testified at the John Doe hearing, it was learned.

Hein was arraigned Feb. 17 in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 and was placed in the jail in lieu of posting a $2,500 bond set by Judge Keller. On Feb. 21, Hein's attorney, Allen Cain, asked for a preliminary hearing which had been set for this morning.

Hein has been in jail since Feb. 17. He was brought here from Chicago on that day after he waived extradition.

Richard Hamilton, assitant district attorney, said today, in asking for dismissal of the charges, that it was learned Hein was working in Chicago at the time the alleged beating of Mrs. Gipp occurred.

Hamilton explained that his office contacted Chicago authorities and "received sufficient verification that Hein was at work during the time of the alleged crime," which reportedly occurred about 6:30 or 7 p.m. Oct. 21.

Hein reportedly was working the 4 p.m. to midnight shift on that day.

The complaint prepared this morning by the district attorney's office, alleges that Roberts, who now is serving a term on parole revocation at the Green Bay reformatory, perjured himself at the John Doe hearing by stating that Hein was with him at the Gipp home.

This morning's complaint and warrant were issued after a conference with Appleton detectives, who have been investigating the case.

3 Boys Blamed For Fire Which Destroyed Barn

Fire Feb. 12 that destroyed a large barn and about 100 tons of hay on the Wilfred Van Handel farm south of Kimberly apparently was started by three youngsters, according to State Fire Marshal Earl Schwabe of Green Bay.

Schwabe and Outagamie County investigators concluded their study of the case Wednesday afternoon, it was learned.

The boys reportedly had started a fire in the barn earlier in the day, but thought they had extinguished the fire with snow. However, it apparently flared up early in the evening and totally destroyed the barn and its contents, authorities said.

The boys, whom authorities said started the fire, "unintentionally," included two 11-year-olds from Kimberly and a 12-year-old route 4, Appleton boy.

Sheriff Asks For Deputy

'Extra Man' Would Serve All Units as Vacation Relief

The Outagamie County Board's law enforcement committee late this morning moved to refer to the personnel committee a request by Sheriff Norbert Marx for a deputy sheriff to serve as "an extra man."

Marx said he was making the request after conferring with Board Chairman Sylvester Esler.

The sheriff said the man would work as substitute in each of the sheriff department bureaus during vacations and when regular men assigned to those jobs are ill. The extra man, as Marx termed him, would be trained in all phases of police work. Marx suggested the man be placed in pay grade 14.

The present full-time men, or specially-retained part-time personnel, now are hired to fill in during vacation periods, Marx said. He explained that part-time men no longer can be found and the full-time men have had to work too much overtime when they have had to fill in.

The personnel committee will meet next week.

In other action this morning, the law enforcement committee recommended steps be taken to hire a traffic patrolman to bring the traffic bureau up to the full 17-man strength, and approved the permanent appointment of George Hanlon as a sheriff's investigator. Hanlon successfully completed his probationary period, Marx said.

Amy Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, reacted with sound effects as she received her tuberculosis skin patch test Wednesday morning at Jefferson School. The testing program is part of the county-wide program being sponsored by the Outagamie County Tuberculosis Association. Positive reactions to the test indicate the individual has been exposed to the disease. Follow-up tests are made to determine if the case is active. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Appleton Council Supports Alliance of Cities Proposal

Passes Resolution Seeking Prompt Legislative Action on Tax Revision

The Appleton Council Wednesday night threw its support behind the Alliance of Cities drive to get the Wisconsin Legislature to provide a more equitable system for shared aids and tax distribution.

Mayor George Buckley introduced a resolution which petitions the legislature to give consideration to the cities' tax revision proposals. The vote was unanimous.

Appleton became the first city in the Fox Valley to adopt the resolution requested by the Alliance, a voluntary organization comprised of representatives of 19 of the state's most populated communities.

Expect Action

Other city councils are expected to act on resolutions next week at their regular meetings.

Copies of the Appleton resolution will be forwarded to Gov. Knowles and the legislature.

The Alliance decided to petition the legislature after the Senate considered an amendment which would delay the results of a study of the present tax distribution system until January, 1969.

Mayors and mangers of several cities had requested the governor to call a special session of the legislature this fall to consider urban problems, and the proposals to be presented by the Alliance.

The cities are complaining that two years — after the next general election — is too long to wait to do something about correcting the alleged tax distribution inequities which, among other things, encourage "tax islands" around cities.

Senate Votes

The January 1969 student deadline comes up for final Senate vote today or Friday according to Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, who tacked the extra year on to the study completion deadline.

Buckley said he was pleased with the council's action, pointing out that Appleton aldermen were aware of the "severe inequities in the present outmoded tax redistribution system which is hurting central cities."

Regardless of what study deadline the legislature sets, the Council Refuses Office For New Parking Ramp

Consultant's Recommendation Denied; Cost Estimates Established at $1,900

A recommendation to construct a manager's office in the Soldiers Square Park Ramp was struck down by the Appleton Council Wednesday night on a thin 11-9 vote.

The physical change in the ramp, more than half completed, was suggested by Richard C. Rich, Detroit, the city's parking consultant.

Rich said such a room would be needed for ticket-counting, auditing, storage and other purposes.

The council was informed it would cost about $1,900 for the office but this did not include the cost of plumbing for employe rest room facilities which would also have to be installed.

Change Recommended

The changes, according to Rich, are necessitated by the council's recent action in changing the ramp from a metered to a cashier-type structure.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) said the city should forget about the office room and have city hall personnel handle audits. He also questioned the need for lavatory facilities for cashiers and other employes.

However, Charles Magnette, director of inspections said if the office was constructed, the rest room facilities would be required by codes.

The council has been split ever since the changeover from meters to a cashier system was made a few weeks ago, the revision resulting in only one exit onto S. Oneida Street. The original plan also had a Lawrence Street exit but it will be barricaded when the structure is opened at the end of April.

Followed Instructions

City Planner Walter Rasmussen said he followed instructions of the council and obtained recommendations from Rich for the cashier system conversion.

The parking commission had recommended enclosing a 250 square foot area for an office as per Rich's proposal.

"Mr. Rich recommended this room and the commission felt it should be followed," Tews declared. "After all, two weeks ago there were 12 of you gentlemen who said we should follow the advice of the expert and that is what we did."

In other action, the council authorized preparation of job descriptions and pay ranges for cashiers, along with advertising for special equipment needed to operate the new type parking system.

The council also:

Discussing Personalities

County Committee Closes Meeting to News Coverage

A secret meeting was conducted this morning by the health, education and institutions committee of the Outagamie County Board.

Supv. Russell DeLaHunt (Kaukauna), committee chairman, requested that a Post-Crescent reporter leave the meeting "since personalities will be discussed."

The reporter refused to leave, citing Wisconsin government anti-secrecy laws, so DeLaHunt asked the committee for a unanimous vote so that it might go into executive session. Supv. Merritt T. Kavanaugh (Kaukauna) made the motion that the committee go into executive session and it was passed unanimously.

The secret meeting of the committee apparently involved Outagamie County Hospital matters since two members of the hospital board of trustees were present.

Attending the meeting from the board of trustees were Lloyd F. Taylor and Erich C. Wussow, both of Appleton.

Members of the health, education and institutions committee present, in addition to DeLa Hunt and Kavanaugh, were Supvs. Eugene Kloes, Herbert H. Helble and Arnold Welch, all of Appleton.

Freedom Bar Operator's Trial Reset

Trial for a 38 - year - old Freedom tavern operator has been rescheduled for July 10 in Outagamie County Court.

The new date was set after Judge Gustave J. Keller disqualified himself from the case involving Robert Ludwig, route 1, Kaukauna, charged with furnishing beer to five minors and allowing minors to loiter at Ludwig Lanes, a Freedom beer bar and bowling lanes. Ludwig is listed as agent for Ludwig Lanes, Ind.

Trial on the charge was to have been this morning. Judge Raymond P. Dohr was assigned to hear the case. Ludwig is free on $1,150 bond.

Ludwig was charged following investigation Jan. 27 by state agents and the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department. Authorities allege there were 33 youths, ranging in age from 15 to 17, loitering in the tavern the evening of Jan. 27.

Council Closes Meeting to Talk Contract

Personnel Chairman Advises Aldermen of Bargaining Progress

Another in a series of meetings closed to the press and public was held by the Appleton city council Wednesday night to discuss contract negotiations with Teamsters Local 563.

The council's personnel committee, headed by Ald. John MacDonald (7th), asked for the meeting to appraise aldermen of the bargaining situation. No union representatives were present.

Contract Expires

Teamsters Local 563 represents employes in the department of public works. The old contract expired Jan. 1.

There have been frequent meetings between union and city negotiators in hopes of arriving at a new agreement.

Robert Schlieve, representing the Teamsters, and Gerald Rusch, city personnel director, could not be reached for comment today. Schlieve was out of the city and Rusch was attending a labor seminar.

However, MacDonald said he felt progress was being made between the committee and union, and parties are apparently agreed a two-year contract will be acceptable.

More Compromise

Originally the union sought a one-year pact, but both sides have reportedly shifted positions for sake of compromise.

MacDonald said wages and fringe benefits are still at issue, but he thought the gap was narrowing.

Another meeting between Schlieve and the committee will be held tonight or Friday, it was learned.

A meeting of the union membership also has been called for sometime next week.

Bridge Study, Landscaping Get Funds

Two major actions related to implementing Appleton's central business district (CBD) plan won unanimous approval of the Appleton Council Wednesday night without a word of discussion.

Aldermen voted to:

—Have the board of public works conduct interviews and retain a firm to conduct an Oneida Street high-level bridge study which will cost at least $37,000.

—Accept the proposal of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce to pay for preliminary streetscaping drawings for College Avenue with provision that Nelson and Graves, Milwaukee, be hired to prepare the design.

Committee Approved

Both were recommended for approval by the council's street-sanitation committee which has been bearing the major burden of the planning for reconstruction of the downtown retail strip.

The bridge study is expected to pinpoint exactly where an overhead structure should be, along with giving cost estimates.

There is $17,500 in the 1967 budget for the study and the council has agreed that an additional $17,500 will be appropriated in 1968.

City officials are proceeding on the assumption that the study can be conducted for $35,000 but do not have a set figure.

No Date Set

It was not indicated when the board would start interviewing firms interested in conducting the study which may take several months.

Wolf Planners Agree To Survey for County

Newly Hired Hydraulic Engineer to Study Health, Sanitary Needs in Outagamie

Outagamie County this morning entered into an agreement with the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission on a reconnaissance survey of the health and sanitary needs of the county.

The survey will be conducted by a hydraulic engineer who will join the commission staff later this month.

The study, which is not intended to be an "in-depth study," will be undertaken at no cost to the county, according to commission executive director William E. Morris, "because such a study is related to the overall objectives of the commission."

Agrees to Work

Morris, who attended this morning's meeting of the county board's health, education and institutions committee, said in a letter to county executive secretary Alvin Woehler that he has "received a letter from the hydrologist indicating he is agreeable to conducting such a study."

The committee, in past meetings, has discussed the possibility that the county hire a full-time sanitarian who would perform such duties as the survey. However, Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath advised the committee that a county cannot legally hire a sanitarian. A Wisconsin Board of Health representative, who was attending today's meeting, questioned Ponath's ruling.

In his letter to the committee, Morris said "sanitation is another field and it requires special training of which he (the hydrologist) has limited knowledge, but no practical experience. I do agree with him when he says his engagement with the commission will afford him this experience. He concludes by saying he should be considered qualified and is most agreeable to conducting the investigation . . ."

Meet in April

The hydrologist will meet with the health, education and institutions committee in April to discuss the scope and range of the study.

Morris said, in his letter, that the survey would require 10 work days.

The formal request for the study to begin will be made in a letter to the commission, signed by members of the health committee.

The county has been under pressure in recent years to conduct such a survey, with particular emphasis on the Town of Oneida where Menominee Indians live in what have been called poverty conditions. The League of Women Voters has been in the forefront in pressuring for such a survey.

Wealthy Merchant First to be Arrested in Kennedy Probe

New Orleans District Attorney Promises to Dredge Out Plotters

By CHRIS ROBERTS

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Clay L. Shaw, wealthy retired director of the International Trade Mart, has been booked on a charge of "conspiracy to commit murder" in Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's first arrest in the Kennedy assassination investigation.

Shaw

"There will be more arrests, a considerable number of them," said Garrison, who has been conducting a probe of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy for the past five months.

Shaw, 54, a decorated Army major in World War II, was released on $10,000 bond after his arrest Wednesday night. His luxurious French Quarter home was searched for nearly three hours by Garrison's agents.

Boxes of Items

The dozen men who made the search carried away five cardboard boxes filled with various items, including books and a gun in a canvas case — a rifle or shotgun.

Shaw is ruggedly handsome and silver-haired. He brushed past newsmen without a word when he was released from central lockup after being booked, fingerprinted and mugged.

He was arrested in Garrison's office, where he had appeared for questioning, in response to subpoena.

Garrison has vowed to prove that a conspiracy conceived in New Orleans "culminated in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy" in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

Official Report

His claim contradicts the official report of the Warren commission, which said Lee Harvey Oswald, a former New Orleans resident, shot the President — and that it found no credible evidence that any one else was involved.

His booking did not specify whether Shaw was being charged with a conspiracy resulting in Kennedy's death — or with a conspiracy, not carried through, to commit the murder.

Asked about this, Garrison replied: "I don't want to get involved in semantics."

Garrison said he would file a bill of information against Shaw.

Under state law, a district attorney can bring a prisoner to trial under one of two methods, by filing a bill of information with a judge, or by a grand jury indictment.

In Washington, the Justice Department and the FBI declined comment on Shaw's arrest. Officials in Dallas said they knew nothing about the case.

Shaw Unnamed

Shaw's name does not appear in the records of the Warren commission.

The International Trade Mart, in an impressive 33-story structure at the foot of Canal Street, is a privately supported, nonprofit organization formed to promote trade through the Port of New Orleans.

After 18 years as managing director, Shaw retired Oct. 1, 1965, to pursue his personal interests and manage his real estate holdings.

Congress Again Refuses War Declaration

Military Spending Approved Without Reference to Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has once more passed up an opportunity to declare war in Vietnam.

Although some senators have called U.S. actions in Vietnam illegal in the absence of a formal war declaration, most remained silent on that point Wednesday when the Senate voted 89 to 2 to provide $4.5 billion more for the fighting.

Parliamentary maneuvering by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield forestalled the possibility the Senate would come to grips with the declaration of war issue through the authorization bill.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., had prepared amendments demanding a war declaration if U.S. troops in Vietnam passed the 500,000 mark or if U.S. bombing of North Vietnam continued.

Endorse Johnson

But Mansfield's maneuvering forced a vote on his alternate amendment calling for negotiations to end the struggle and generally endorsing Johnson's policies. It passed 72 to 19.

Administration officials have long been felt to believe that a formal declaration of war would create obstacles for U.S. efforts to limit the war and gain a negotiated settlement.

The Constitution gives congress the right to make a formal war declaration. But in the case of Vietnam, officials interpret congressional approval of the administration's Vietnam policy as sufficient authority to pursue the fighting.

As support for this reasoning the officials note the Senate in 1954 approved the Southeast Asian defense treaty 82 to 1. Then in August 1964, the Senate and House by combined votes of 512 to 2 adopted a resolution asserting U.S. readiness to use armed force if necessary to help South Vietnam in defense of its freedom.

Jury Selection Continues

Speck Trial Judge Loosens Tight Restrictions Over News Coverage

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Newsmen had a slightly freer hand today in covering the trial of Richard Speck, the 25-year-old drifter accused of murdering eight student nurses.

The trial judge, Herbert C. Paschen, relaxed his news-coverage restrictions Wednesday, thus complying with an order issued earlier in the day by the Illinois Supreme Court.

Speck's trial, which began Feb. 20, is still in its jury-selection phase and 167 persons have been questioned for possible service.

The first panel of four jurors — two men and two women — was accepted only Wednesday. Two women also were tentatively approved as a start toward completing the second panel.

New Rules

Judge Paschen's new rules now permit newsmen to obtain transcripts of the proceedings at any time and allow reporting of all events which occur in open court. However, the names of the prospective jurors may not be published until they are either excused or sworn and sequestered.

Prior to the Supreme Court's order, newsmen were not permitted to use transcripts during jury selection. They also were banned from reporting questions and answers in the questioning of prospective jurors.

On the panel accepted Wednesday are a housewife with a teen-age son, a retired contractor, a divorced mother of two young children and an ex-Marine who now is a factory supervisor.

Under oath, all four said they have no fixed opinion against Speck. They also said they are not opposed to the death penalty. The prosecution is asking for capital punishment for Speck.

The members of the panel will be sequestered in a hotel until the trial ends but they will not be sworn in until all 12 are selected.

Speck, who appeared to have recovered from a mild attack of gastritis, watched Wednesday's proceedings with apparent interest. He is accused of murdering the eight nurses last July in their Chicago townhouse.

The Supreme Court's order to ease news restrictions came on a 5 to 1 vote.

The dissenter, Justice Walter V. Schaefer, wrote in his opinion that he disagreed with both orders of the majority.

The defendant's right to a fair trial, he wrote, is the primary right involved.

"The right to a public trial," he said, "is a right guaranteed to the accused, not to the public."

Would-be Thief Didn't Know He was TV 'Star'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Charles Hamilton Rhinehardt's first television appearance cost him 30 days in municipal jail.

Rhinehardt, 19, Cincinnati, was convicted Wednesday of stealing a $2 shirt from a store equipped with closed-circuit television.

"I was watching a monitor at the rear of the store and saw him steal the shirt," Patricia Pharis, 19, an employe, testified at the trial.

"I didn't know I was on camera," Rhinehardt told the judge.

Kellett Bill, Shared Tax on Priority List

MADISON (AP) — Shared taxes, the presidential primary and the Kellett bill to streamline state government have been placed on a priority list for passage votes in the Senate within the next week.

Republican leaders were pressing for a showdown late today on their plan to create a task force for a two-year study of shared taxes and local government.

The Kellett bill was formally scheduled for its first floor test in the Senate next Tuesday. The plan to expand Wisconsin's presidential primary to include all national contenders was expected to undergo debate next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Senate Majority Leader Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, placed the three measures on his personal priority list Wednesday as the legislature moved toward its three-week recess starting March 10. Leonard also included a Republican bill for consumer protection, expected to emerge from committee today.

Democrats, outnumbered 21-12 in the Senate, were expected to fight last-ditch battles over the shared tax study, the Republican consumer plan, and the presidential primary proposal. The Kellett bill was expected to come under attack from all quarters.

Leonard originally slated the reorganization plan for a vote next Wednesday, but advanced it to Tuesday because of the tight timetable before the recess. The bill would reaarrange 86 state agencies into 26 major departments, including a controversial merger of conservation and water programs.

William R. Kellett of Menasha, head of the task force that wrote the bill, revealed a price tag of $66,000 on putting the proposal to work as he visited a closed-door Democratic caucus Wednesday to plead for support. He won no commitment.

The bill to set up the task force on shared taxes was first set for a vote Wednesday, but was moved back one day to allow time for Madison Mayor Otto Festge, head of a 19-city alliance, to make a last-minute appeal to Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The cities have asked for a fall session of the legislature to take action to revise shared tax formulas. The study now proposed would run until the 1969 legislature convenes and Festge is asking Knowles to call for periodic reports and recommendations as the task force proceeds.

The expanded presidential primary would remain in April and would embrace all persons considered national contenders for the nomination unless they swore they had no interest in the office. An 11-man bipartisan board would choose the names to go on the ballot.

The primary plan was recommended for passage by the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday on a 3-1 vote along party lines.

Lindbergh Flight to be Re-enacted

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Frenchmen will see history relived next May 21 when a tiny high-wing monoplane circles Paris' Eiffel Tower and flies on to land at Le Bourget Airport.

That's where Charles A. Lindbergh touched down May 21, 1927, after a 33½-hour, 3,600-mile hop from New York that set a record for nonstop solo flight and opened the world's eyes to the potentials of aviation.

The plane that will land at Le Bourget next May is an exact copy of Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" and the man who will fly it bears a physical resemblance to the slim airmail pilot who became overnight a world hero.

He is Frank Tallman whose claim to fame until now has been as a daredevil movie stunt pilot.

Tallman, who at 48 prefers to be known as a corporation president rather than a stuntman, is building the new "Spirit of St. Louis" in one of the Tallmantz Aviation, Inc., hangars at Orange County Airport 40 miles from Los Angeles. He says it is costing him $40,000.

$1,500 Yearly Tuition Asked For Non-Resident Students

MADISON (AP) — Proposals to hike out-of-state tuition at all of Wisconsin's public universities to a yearly minimum of $1,500 have been offered in the state Assembly in the wake of campus unrest and student protest.

The introduction of the two bills Wednesday would tack on additional $450 to the present $1,050 fee per year at the University of Wisconsin and more than double the $640 cost for non-residents at the nine state universities.

Seven Republicans, including Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich of Appleton, offered the proposals less than a week after the University of Wisconsin was the target of a four-day demonstration.

Effect of Protests

Froehlich said it was "hard to say" the effect the student protest resulting in the arrest of 19 persons would have on the lawmakers, but added:

"The chances of passing the bills are getting better all along."

Asked if the measure were purposely timed for introduction immediately after the protests and a controversy over the student newspaper, the speaker only said:

"We thought this would be a good time to introduce it."

The proposals are identical to ones offered during the 1965 session by Froehlich and Assemblyman G. K. Anderson, R-Waupaca listed as the main author on the new pair. Both were referred to the Assembly Judiciary Committee which Anderson chairs.

Fiscal Impact

The exact fiscal impact of the proposals has not yet been determined, but the same bills in the last session were estimated to bring in an additional $14.4 million for the biennium.

The recommended budget level for the two university systems during the next biennium is $291 million, about $96 million more than the current spending authority.

"The universities are asking for substantial increases in their own budgets," said Froehlich. "This will help pay for it."

University President Fred Harvey Harrington said Wednesday it would be a "couple of weeks, probably" before a report on the school's policy in keeping a "responsible intellectual and social climate."

Offensive Articles

The Assembly had ordered the report Tuesday following the student newspaper's publication of articles considered offensive by some lawmakers. Harrington declined to comment on the contents of the report.

"Obviously, I don't want to make a premature comment on this," Harrington said.

Miss Eileen Alt of Milwaukee, editor of The Daily Cardinal that printed the articles causing the tumult in the Assembly, resigned Wednesday.

She gave "medical and personal" reasons for her resignation after six weeks at the post, and denied she was under any pressure because of the articles and editorials.

Valley Co-ops Join Push for Chicago Market

Re-establishment Of Federal Milk Order Sought

Three Fox Valley Area dairy farmer cooperatives are among eight in Wisconsin and Illinois to petition the U.S. Department of Agriculture Wednesday to re-establish a federal milk marketing order for Chicago.

They are the Outagamie Producers Cooperative, Black Creek; Consolidated Badger Cooperative, Shawano; and the Lake to Lake Dairy, Manitowoc.

The proposed order would combine the Milwaukee, Madison and Rock River Valley orders into a single marketing area.

Request Hearing

A hearing on the proposal was requested jointly by the Pure Milk Assn., representing most dairy farmers in the Northern Illinois-Southern Wisconsin area, and the Association of Operating Cooperatives, representing seven other Wisconsin groups.

The proposed single market order would regulate the handling of milk in the Northern Illinois-Southern Wisconsin marketing area, including the area covered by the terminated Chicago order, and the territory presently covered by the Milwaukee, Madison and Rock River Valley orders. Also included would be McHenry, Lake Kane, Kendall and Will counties in Illinois.

The Rock River Valley order covers the Rockford-Freeport, Ill., and Janesville-Beloit, Wis., areas.

The Pure Milk Assn. based in Chicago, said the proposed order is designed to improve returns to all milk producers serving the enlarged market area.

A. L. McWilliams, general manager of the association, said this would be accomplished by insuring a fair and reasonable Class 1 price, minimizing the cost of operating and maintaining the market's necessary reserve and standby facilities, and distributing to all producers their fair share of the class prices established by the proposed order.

Other Wisconsin groups represented by the Association of Operating Cooperatives are Alto Cooperative Creamery, Alto; Antigo Milk Products Cooperative, Antigo; Wisconsin Dairies Cooperative, Union Center; and Hillpoint Cooperative, Reedsburg.

Council Zones Buffer Strip Over Petition

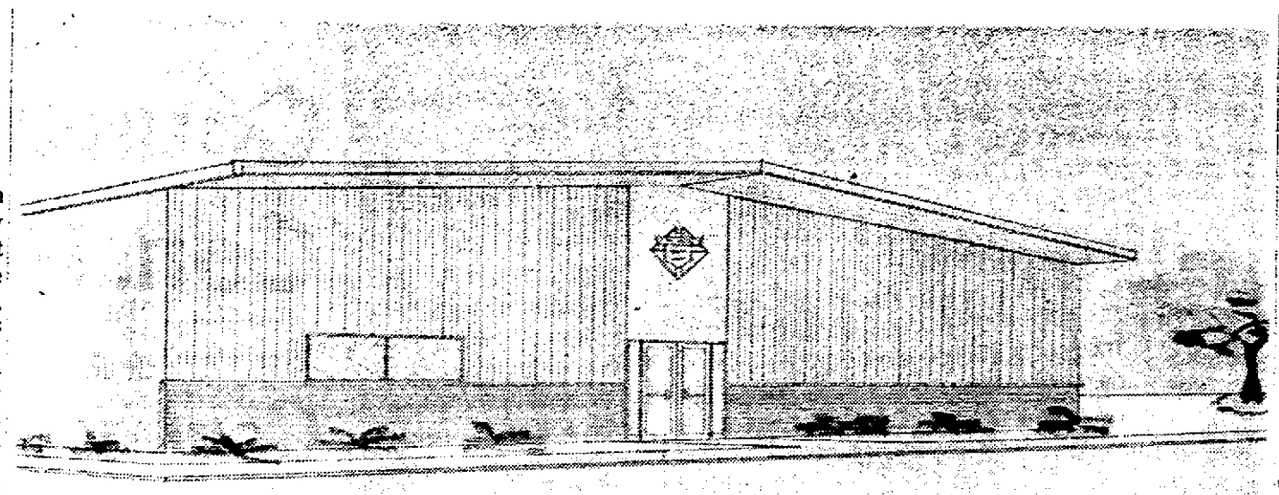
NEENAH — Some two dozen highly-vocal citizens, backed by 134 petitioners, who represent more than 80 per cent of the residents in the Southview Plat, failed to sway the councilmen's minds Wednesday night.

The council ended the long-debated "buffer zone" issue by a vote of 9-1. Ald. Thomas Ryan, Second Ward, sided with his constituents.

The action came after Ryan and six residents of the area blasted the city's plans to rezone a 16.32 acre strip of land east of Aylward Street from residential to light industrial.

The issue was introduced about 10 months ago when the Neenah Foundry approached the city and suggested a strip east of their plants be rezoned light industrial (I-1). The company would then purchase part of the area (5.44 acres) to use for an office building and parking lot.

The city contacted the owners of the property, the Broadview Co., which was represented at several meetings by William Giese, a Neenah attorney. Ald. Harold Young, member of the plan commission, said Wednesday the city wanted to buy only the land needed by the foundry, but the developers wouldn't sell. "The only way was to take the whole strip," he said.



This Artist's Sketch shows the front of a new Columbus Club proposed for a site in the 2200 block of N. Richmond Street. The building will cover an 80 x 82 foot area. Construction is scheduled to begin soon and it is hoped the facility will be completed next fall.

Start Construction Soon

K of C's Planning New Clubhouse in Appleton

Construction of a new clubhouse by the Columbus Club is expected to start soon on property in the 2200 block of N. Richmond Street.

Plans for the new building were approved at a meeting this month of the 600-member Father Fitzmaurice Council 607, Knights of Columbus. Carl Dohr, a director of the group, said members hope the new facility will be completed by fall.

Plans are for an 80 by 82 foot steel building. The club owns a two-acre construction site.

Although more than two-thirds the total floor space will be in the main floor, a 1,635-square-foot mezzanine is planned. The main hall will seat approximately 275 persons and a lounge area for dinners and social affairs will accommodate more than 80 persons.

A basement also is planned for the building and will be used for storage.

Grand knight of the council is Fred Biesecker. Members of the board of directors include Dohr, Gordon Seaver, Joseph Ferris, Thomas Schreiter, J. Joseph Cummings and John Lesselyong.

Neenah Council Greets 4-Year Mayor Term

Unanimous Approval Given, Referendum Made Possibility

NEENAH — A little-discussed move to up the mayor's term of office from two years to four years sailed through the common council without a dissenting vote but a hasty motion by one of the ten aldermen may have saved the final decision for the electorate.

An amendment to the charter ordinance which would put the next mayor of Neenah in office for four years passed unanimously a few minutes after it was formally introduced. The measure needed a two-thirds vote.

The change doesn't require a referendum, but one could be petitioned by seven per cent of the electors in the last gubernatorial election. City Atty. Charles Schaller said. However, a petition by the public would require a 60-day period and thus couldn't be presented to the voters this April.

Ald. Harry Miller, Fifth Ward, immediately moved the council put the issue before the public on April 4. He noted that unless the council took action, any public petitioned referendum would be delayed until after the spring balloting.

Schaller said the wording for the referendum would have to be worked out. He said the council could be presented with the proposed referendum at the March 15 session.

If the aldermen give their approval to the referendum, it will appear on the April 4 ballot along with the swimming pool question and aldermanic contests in six wards.

129 Junior Bowling Teams Enter Regional at Neenah

NEENAH — A total of 129 junior bowling teams will compete in the second annual Wisconsin Junior Bowling Association Region 9 Tournament Saturday and Sunday at Lakeroad Lanes.

Bowlers will compete in six divisions. They include bantam boys and bantam girls, 12 and under; junior boys and junior girls, ages 13-15; and senior boys and senior girls, 16, 17 and those 18 years of age as for last Aug. 1.

The first three winners in each division will bowl in the championship division of the Wisconsin State Junior Bowling Association Tournament at Green Bay in April.

Non-winners will again be eligible to bowl at the state tournament in the open division along with any other sanctioned AJBC bowlers who wish to enter.

Bowling at 10 a.m. Saturday will be 19 teams from Lakeroad Lanes and one from Fond du Lac.

The 1 p.m. shift will include 12 from Lakeroad, 10 from the 41 Bowl and one each from Fond du Lac and Oshkosh.

Two from Lakeroad and 20 from three Oshkosh establishments will roll at 4 p.m. Saturday.

The 10 a.m. Sunday shift is made up of three teams from the Oshkosh YMCA and 20 from Sabre Lanes.

Twelve from Kaukauna, eight from Fond du Lac and four from Oshkosh will take part at 1 p.m. Sunday while the 4 p.m. squad includes 13 from Fond du Lac and three from Kaukauna.

Miss Alice Otto, Route 1, Neenah, a director of the Wisconsin State Junior Bowling Association, is tourney director.

Adult volunteer scoremarkers are needed. Interested persons can contact Mrs. Carol Olson, vice president of the Twin City Junior Bowling Association, or Harold C. Mulvey, secretary-treasurer.

Councilman Raps League Mayor Stand

NEENAH — Ald. Lyle Ernst, Ninth Ward, lashed out at a League of Women Voters' proposal for council-manager forms of government in the Twin Cities.

Ernst took issue with the LWV stand, made public in late January, citing the group's decision hadn't been backed up by enough information.

He said the LWV's statement that "after extensive study, the League has concluded that an appointed administrator would best carry out the policies made by our elected representatives" didn't give the basis for those conclusions. . .

Mrs. Michael Sacher, representing the League, had read the proposal at the Feb. 15 council meeting.

Ernst said he couldn't accept the recommendation of the LWV as a reason for voting for the council-manager form any more than he could follow the recommendations of any other pressure group.

He stated the mayor-council setup was also a professional form of administration. Ernst claimed there was no greater democratic process than "electing the council and the mayor."

He felt additional personnel would be needed under the manager system and noted the average tenure of city managers was about five years and some 100 vacancies now existed for such posts throughout the country.

Swimming Pool Issue Ready for Referendum

NEENAH — The $650,000 indoor-outdoor swimming pool complex at Washington Park Wednesday night was readied to go to the public for approval on April 4.

The council passed the preliminary bond issue and the wording for the referendum question without a dissenting vote.

If the electorate approves the pool plans, the matter will not have to go back to the council, City Atty. Charles Schaller said.

The referendum question will read: "Shall the city issue general obligation bonds for an amount not exceeding $650,000 for the purpose of constructing and equiping an indoor-outdoor swimming pool."

Car Stolen As Owner Watches

OSHKOSH — A thief stole the car of an Appleton man late last night from the Menasha Corp. parking lot, sped away on U.S. 41 as the owner watched, broke off two guard rails and a stop sign as he left the highway and finally smashed the car into a tree in Neenah and fled on foot.

Anthony Seidl, 718 Lawrence St., Appleton, went to the Neenah police station at 11:07 p.m. to report the theft of his car, a late model. He said he had left the keys in the ignition. He told police he saw the thief speed away to the north on U.S. 41.

As the thief left U.S 41 on State 114, a state patrolman saw the car skid and clip off two guard rails and a stop sign. The state patrolman gave chase.

Before he could catch the driver however, he crashed the car into a tree in the 100 block of Lorraine street and fled. James Mahnher, 150 Lorraine St., called police and said he saw the accident and saw the man flee.

The car received an estimated $350 in damage to the left side.

Over $400 Damage Set In 3-Car Accident

KAUKAUNA — Damage was estimated at over $400, but no one was injured in a 3-car accident near 331 W. Third St. about 4:14 p.m. Monday, according to police.

A car being driven east on Third by Wayne Sumnicht, 31, 414 Klein St., and a car being driven west on Third by Eugene Delcare, 44, 412 W. Eighth St., sideswiped causing the Sumnicht car to slide into a legally parked car owned by Bernard Vander Steen, 33, 1300 Orchard Drive.

Air Wisconsin Request to be Reconsidered

Nenah Council To Review Support For Mail Carrier Bid

NEENAH — The Neenah council will take another look at backing a request from Appleton's Mayor George Buckley to throw support behind Air Wisconsin's bid as a contract carrier for air mail.

Ald. Lyle Ernst, Ninth Ward, asked for reconsideration of the council action which declined to support the Appleton-based airline.

He said the council acted "hastily" at the last meeting and felt there wasn't sufficient information upon which to base a decision.

Ernst said, "Appleton deserves our support" and noted the "neighbors to the north cooperate with us and they deserve some cooperation."

Support of Air Wisconsin's bid to handle the service would in no way bind Neenah to use the facility, Ernst stated. The company wouldn't be subsidized but rather it would work through contracts only.

He said the use of the facility would be determined by posted authorities.

Ernst noted the city should determine if it should have an alternate mail carrier in case of an airline strike at North Central or a decrease in service at the Oshkosh airport in the future.

Since Ernst wasn't present at the last council meeting when the vote was taken, he couldn't move for reconsideration of the issue. However, Ald. Stanley Drews made the motion the health and welfare committee take up the question anew.

The vote for reconsideration was 6-4 with Alds. Donald Gomoll, Harry Miller, Paul Mueller and Thomas Ryan dissenting.

aging them to stay or locate in the county.

The city, according to Rugland, was approached last summer by the Wisconsin Wire Works which wanted to buy some property on the southside in an area being proposed as an industrial site by a realtor.

City officials, according to Rugland, told the firm it could not extend municipal utilities when they would be required so the firm started looking outside the city.

Anxious to Help

Rugland said the corporation could not tell industries where to locate in the county but that his group was anxious to help the city and was "not out to pirate any industries from the city"

"I urgently ask you to vote against this resolution," Rugland declared, adding that it would create problems, along with creating an image that a city versus county feud existed.

Rugland said if the council did not want to vote to defeat the resolution, it should refer it back for further study. Under the latter the 45-day objection period would have automatically expired.

Asks Cooperation

At one point, Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president, suggested that if the Outagamie County group would withdraw its notice for the time being, the city would then be in a position to withdrawn any objections.

However, Rugland said he did not have any authority to make a withdrawal.

At one point, both Alds John MacDonald (7th) and George Schwartzbauer (10th), who opposed the resolution and sided with Rugland's group, considered asking for an automatic referral.

Schwartzbauer said he would not want to see the county group proceed through default (automatic referral of the resolution back to the board of public works) and he feared Wisconsin Wire Works might move out of the state if it did not build on the site selected out in the county. Schwartzbauer said the area would then lose jobs.

Consider Appleton Sites

During a question period Rugland emphasized his group was not working for locating industry in any given area. He said Appleton sites would be given consideration as well as those around the city out in the county.

Ald Glenn Thompson (13th) told the council it should adopt the resolution objecting to the county group's action and said machinery had been established in recent weeks to make land in the city available to Wisconsin Wire Works.

"I would like to have the opportunity to sell them (Wire Works) on staying in the City of Appleton," Thompson declared

Resolution Opposed

MacDonald, who said he strenuously opposed the resolution, told the council he didn't want to serve on any city industrial committee "If this is the way you're going to treat industry."

Referring to the drafting of the resolution and recommendation of the attorney and board of public works, MacDonald declared, "I think it is a spiteful act and the delay in bringing this to the council at this time was deliberate."

Pointer injected that he, as an alderman, wanted to "sell the City of Appleton first to any and all industries"

And Ald Clifford Radder (16th) remarked, "If the county corporation is interested in the city — then why wasn't the City of Appleton chosen as the site for the new plant?"

City Forgotten

"It looks like Mr. Rugland and his associates have forgotten the city and gone out to help only the county," Radder added.

Both Alds. Walter Kalata (2nd) and Norman Beyer (20th) said they thought the resolution should be defeated, claiming it would then set the stage for "a fresh start" to work with the county, and get industry into Appleton.

"We have to get along with the county," Beyer, a former county board member, added.

Five Approve

A two-thirds vote of the council was needed to adopt the resolution. It received only five affirmative votes while 15 were cast against it.

The state law which permits corporations such as the Outagamie County Industrial Development Corp. to operate has a clause which says that any industrial development agency is prohibited from entering into a transaction which results in moving a plant from a municipality to another location in the county, unless the municipality waives objection.

No information was given on the status of the plant relocation or reports of other plants locating in the Town of Greenville, an area selected for development of an industrial park by the county corporation.

There may be further trouble ahead for the corporation, depending on what attitude the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) takes. The IRS has been ruling against such corporations, declaring their projects are not entitled to tax-exempt privileges A court test involving a similar Milwaukee County development group is pending.

In other action, Mayor George Buckley appointed the following aldermen to the city's new industrial development committee: MacDonald, Kalata, Beyer, John Steidl (19th) and Al Stoegbauer (4th).

plan, prepared by Harland Bartholomew and Associates, St. Louis, construction of a bridge over the Fox River at Oneida Street drew high priority.

Unofficial estimates from various sources put the cost of the bridge at $6 million or more. At this point such a project would not qualify for federal aid so the city would have to bond for the project — providing its financial condition can take the load.

Urgent Need

The Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce previously recommended the study be undertaken this year.

Construction of the bridge is urgently needed, according to the St. Louis planners, who said it would be a main carrier of traffic to and from Appleton's central business district.

Reports have indicated traffic loads on the Memorial Drive and College Avenue bridge are attaining proportions which point up the urgency for the Oneida Street bridge construction.

The city purchased two properties from the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. last year for bridge right-of-way. Since then it has been learned that only one may be needed so the other is being rented on a year-to-year lease basis.

Tie in Project

Landscaping and streetscaping of nine blocks of College Avenue will tie in with the reconstruction program now underway

Experts have advised the city if the avenue is to be streetscaped it should be done right — or not at all. Cost estimates have ranged from $70,000 to $90,000.

—On the motion of Ald. Paul Klemmer (11th) referred back to committee a recommended CATV ordinance approved by the council's street-sanitation and public safety committees.

—Reconsidered action taken at a previous meeting, and referred back to committee a proposal to fill in the ravine in the 10th Ward in conjunction with the proposed installation and eventual extension of Cherry Court.

Jose Greco's Dance Artists Bring Spirit, Color of Spanish Festival

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — The spirit and color of a Spanish folk ballet festival adorned the stage of the Oshkosh Civic Auditorium Wednesday night

Renowned dancer Jose Greco and his company appeared as an attraction of the Town and Gown Blue series

What could have been a redundant series of heel-pounding dances with flamenco-style guitar accompaniment and appropriate "oles" was instead a thoughtfully-planned, well-balanced and expertly-executed program that maintained interest — an accompanist aided by an attractive troupe of skillful artists

Spotlights Youth

Greco, born in Italy of Spanish-Italian parentage, made his mark as a great dancer years ago, and now has turned over the spotlight to several younger dancers, saving just one solo for himself. His reputation preceded him, and his appearances on stage (in seven of the 16 dancing numbers) were testimonies to the accuracy of this reputation. Greco's fluency of movements spurred his company to even more spirited performances in the dances in which he appeared

But, as any established star who has endured for many years, must, Greco must keep an eye over his shoulder on who might be the next No. 1 There are several candidates in his group.

Among the males, Luis Rivera's "Danza de la Vida Breve" (Dance of the Brief Life), indicated that here is a talented young dancer His solo had a reciprocal effect The audience enjoyed it, thus rewarding Rivera with warm applause, which the artist, in turn, appreciated— if his broad smile was any indication.

Antonio del Castillo also presented an exciting solo, "Por Soleares"

Exciting Dance

Special guest artist Teo Santelmo's exciting "Alegrias Flamenca" was the highlight of the female performances — perhaps of the entire show. Miss Santelmo, a dark beauty who stood out no matter how minor her role, was nearly flawless in her physically-draining flamenca, in which she was joined by Paco Doniz, Paco Alonso and Castillo [illegible] guitarists Ricardo Modrego and Juan Jimenez

Modrego was also featured in a guitar solo, which bore melodic resemblances to "Malaguena" in parts.

The female lead was Nana Lorca a lyrical graceful veteran of many stages.

The entire proceedings, however, were "stolen" twice by Carmen and Justo Quintero, a team billed as "Los Salaos" Intended as the light touches of the evening, the couple was required to perform extremely difficult maneuvers, particularly Carmen. She is a tiny bundle of energy who uses her dark eyes to comic advantage. She is one of those artists whose mere entrance on stage causes spontaneous smiling in the audience

While dealing in traditional dances, Greco's troupe exhibited choreography which seemed as fresh as any seen today. A tribute to the program's smoothness was the quickness with which the two and a half hours passed.

Make Colorful Decorations To Hang in Your Bedroom

BY CAPPY DICK

A colorful abstract decoration to hang on the wall of your own room is today's fun-project. It is made of pieces of fancy gift wrapping paper such as is used during the holiday season.

Figure 2 shows the possibilities. The pieces of paper are pasted to a panel of poster board. They are arranged to overlap and are placed in a variety of positions so the completed design appears to be a hodgepodge of patterns.

Actually, the placing of the pieces should be planned in advance of the pasting. With the aid of a pencil, the proposed location of each piece should be indicated so you know which are to go this way and which are to go that way.

Colorful Abstract

Having prepared the roughed-out design, proceed to cut the various pieces to fit (Figure 1), then apply paste to each and stick it in place.

Apply a border of colored mending tape. Hang the picture on the wall with a regular picture hook.

Words Often Misused: Both a LEGENDARY story and a MYTHICAL story are fictitious, but the former is contrasted with HISTORICAL and the latter with ACTUAL. "The fistic exploits of John L. Sullivan have been so embroidered and exaggerated that they are LEGENDARY." "That hero is purely a MYTHICAL character."

Often Mispronounced: Koala (bearlike animal). Pronounce koe-ah-la, in THREE syllables, with accent on the second syllable.

Often Misspelled: Imbroglio: observe the "g" which is silent in the pronunciation.

Synonyms: Feast (noun), festivity, carnival, carousel, revelry, jollification, merrymaking.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's Word: AGGRANDIZEMENT: act or result of being made great in power. "The king sought only the aggrandizement of himself and his family."

Meets Odds-Defying Pennings Quintet Friday

Xavier Opens Bid for State Title

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Appleton Xavier's basketball Hawks, who have powered their way back to Milwaukee's Arena for the state Catholic tournament after a 1-year absence, will collide with the odds-defying Squires from De Pere Pennings at 2 p.m. Friday.

The odds said the Squires wouldn't beat an evenly-rated foe, Premontre, for the third time in the same season — but Pennings did in last week's regional tourney opener. The form chart also favored Marinette Central Catholic — a traditionally tough tourney team — over Pennings in last Saturday's finals. . .but again the Squires surprised.

Now, the odds say that powerful Xavier (21-1) will beat Pennings (13-10) for the third time this season and for the 13th consecutive time in their series. But the Hawks are understandably wary.

Xavier will seek to counter Pennings' newly-minted confidence with the momentum of a 14-game winning streak, a winning tradition and a fierce desire to regain the state crown it last won in 1963.

Three Straight

The Gene (Torcy) Clark-coached Hawks haven't lost a state tourney opener since 1962, when they were measured by Eau Claire Regis in their first state appearance ever. Since then, Xavier has won three straight state-meet inaugurals, the latest of which was a 1965 victory over Madison Edgewood.

In four Milwaukee Arena tourneys, Xavier has achieved an over-all 8-4 record.

The curent Hawks are in better tournament shape than their '65 predecessors, who lost in the semi-finals to Milwaukee Marquette. The star of the 1965 Xavier team, Tom Rankin, was hampered by an injury. Also, that squad lacked the bench strength of the 1967 unit.

This will be the first state tourney trip for the Don La Violette - coached Squires since 1960. Only two members of the Hawk cast have ever participated in a state tourney game. Two years ago, Gene Jack and Tom Heinritz — the sophomores — saw brief action and scored two points each.

Xavier, Eau Claire Regis (19-3) and defending champion Milwaukee Messmer (18-4) are rated the title favorites. No team has repeated as champion since 1958-9 when Racine St. Catherine achieved the feat.

One other matinee is on tap Thursday besides the Xavier - Pennings opener. At about 3:45, Regis takes on Kenosha St. Joseph (14-3).

Meets Newman

Friday night, Messmer meets Wausau Newman (15-7) at 7 p.m., while Milwaukee Marquette (18-4) duels Prairie du Chien Campion (10-12) in the wind-up. The latter is coached by former Menashan Clem Massey, while one of his close friends, John Glaser, directs Marquette.

If the Hawks win their opener, they'll face the Newman-Messmer winner at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. If Xavier loses Friday, it will meet the Newman - Messmer loser at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Xavier was extended in both of its league meetings with Pennings. The Hawks beat the Squires, 64-54, at home and edged Pennings, 59-55, at De Pere. The games were typical of Pennings' conference losses. All but one (a 50-33 drubbing at Marinette) were of the narrow variety.

Dale Smith, Dave Doro and Mike Doeren give Pennings' excellent height in the front line. The rebounding battle between Smith (who has averaged about 15 a game) and Xavier's Dan Hardy (an average of 14) could be a resounding one.

Doro leads the Squires in scoring, having placed fourth in the league, with 231 points for fourth place. Smith scored 200 and Doeren 178. Doro's season-long average is 15.4.

Sophomore John Albers and Rod Van Dyke are Pennings' starting guards. Albers and company did quite a defensive job on Marinette's "Rocky" Slawinski — stopping the FVCC scoring king virtually cold.

Jack, a brilliant outside shooter, has totaled 383 points, for an average of 17.4. Fitzgerald, a talented junior with a number

Vike Matmen To Compete in League Meet

Nightingale Will Defend His Title At Cedar Rapids

A wide-open race is expected for the team title in the Midwest Conference wrestling meet Friday and Saturday at Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Ia., according to Ron Roberts, Lawrence University coach.

Roberts sees no fewer than four teams, including his own Vikings, battling it out for the crown.

"A lot depends on the teams that get the good draws and seedings," Roberts said.

Lawrence will have one defending champion in the meet, Jerry Nightingale at the 152-pound mark. Nightingale won at 137 pounds last year and has a 14-1 record this season. His only loss was to Bill Dorsey of Milwaukee Institute of Technology and he has since reversed that decision in a tournament.

Two other Lawrence grapplers, Rich Agness and Bill Mittlefehldt, were runnersup in last year's conference meet. Roberts has high hopes of both doing well in this tourney. Senior Gerry Gatzke was third in the conference meet as a sophomore and will carry the Lawrence colors in the heavyweight division.

Clifford to Compete

Dave Toycen, one of the top wrestlers on the Lawrence team, has not recovered from an injury and will miss the meet. Jerry Clifford, who has an 8-1 dual record, will replace Toycen at 137 pounds.

Roberts figures that Knox, Cornell and St. Olaf will be the other contenders for the team title.

Six individual champions, including two top finishers in last year's national NCAA small college meet, will be in action.

Top returnees are Cornell's Lance Smith, at 115, and Coe's George Dyche, at 167, both of whom were in the top four at the NCAA meet. Dyche also was named a Little All-America wrestler.

Other returning champions are Nightingale: John Sharpe of Grinnell, 145; Rich Paasch of Monmouth, 191; and Jim Melville of Knox, 152.

Cornell, which has won the title 21 out of 24 years, was second to Grinnell last year.

Game Starts at 8 p.m.

The starting time for the Brillion-Hilbert sub-regional championship game at Shiocton Friday night has been set for 8 p.m.

Neenah Cagers Place Fourth in Final Ratings; Xavier Ranks Eighth

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Explosive Milwaukee Lincoln and pressure-proof Alma have swept top honors in the final Associated Press Wisconsin high school basketball poll of the season.

Lincoln, defending state champion, was the unanimous choice of state sports writers for the No. 1 spot in the "Big Ten."

Alma, a semifinalist in the state tournament a year ago and unbeaten in 19 games this season, was selected for first place in the "Little Ten," the rankings for the state's smaller schools.

The Rivermen were almost ousted from the top by high scoring Wausaukee, which finished second in the balloting, a mere four points off the pace.

Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for each second place vote, etc.

Lincoln was third in last season's final poll, placing behind Madison East and Green Bay West. Both East and West were dumped from the state meet at Madison in the opening round while Lincoln rolled to the title.

Scattered Support

East had been 10th in the "Big Ten" last week but lost to Beloit last Friday night and dropped from the rankings. West got only scattered support and finished far out of the top ten.

Behind Lincoln (17-1) in the balloting was the only team to overcome the Comets this season— 1965 state champion Monroe (17-1).

The Cheesemakers, who beat Lincoln by a basket while Lincoln star Clarence Sherrod was out of the lineup, could get a chance to meet the Comets at full strength if both teams make the mid-March trip to Madison.

Rounding out the "Big Ten" were Racine Park (17 - 1), the power of the Big Eight Conference, Neenah (17 - 1), a team that lost two heartbreakers at the Madison games last season, and Wausau (16-2), the champion of the Big Rivers Conference.

Platteville (18-0), the only unbeaten major power, finished sixth while Whitefish Bay (17 - 1), the Milwaukee Suburban Conference power was seventh.

Appleton Xavier (21 - 1), gunning for the state Catholic title this weekend, finished eighth while Eau Claire Regis (19-3), another Catholic crown contender, joined the poll in place of East, taking ninth place.

La Crosse Central (16 - 3), a loser to Eau Claire North and Jim De Cremer last Friday night, toppled from eighth to 10th place in the final balloting.

Behind Alma and Wausaukee in the "Little Ten," were Hillsboro (17-1), and Lake Mills (18-1). Grafton (17-2), a state meet semifinalist last season, finished fifth, just nudging out Wabeno (17-0), one of only four unbeaten teams in Wisconsin.

South Wayne (18- 1) was seventh. Wineconen (15-2), eighth. Royall (17-2) ninth, and Glidden (18-1), a loser in its final regular season game, took 10th.

Chisox Rookie Wears Cast

Injury to Hamper Williams' Bid For Regular Job

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Walter (No-Neck) Williams, Chicago White Sox rookie outfielder reported at the club's official spring practice start Wednesday with a cast from wrist to elbow on his left arm.

The injury came when the rookie was hit with a pitched ball early in January in Puerto Rican League play.

Manager Eddie Stanky said the injury would hamper the chances of Williams stepping right into a regular outfield job as expected.

Dr. Joseph Coyle cut the cast away immediately Wednesday, but said it would be a week before Williams' left hand would be ready for playing purposes. Williams bats and throws right-handed.

Williams came from the St. Louis Cardinals as part of a trade for catcher Johnny Romano last December.

Expansion Few Years Away According to Baseball's Eckert

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The baseball playing population is growing so fast that major league expansion may be only a few years away, says Commissioner William D. Eckert.

"More boys are playing ball than ever before," the commissioner told newsmen Wednesday.

But new clubs will be added "only on a sound basis," Eckert said. He spoke after a spring meeting of the Baseball Executive Council.

"When there are enough players, along with sufficient public demand and enough park facilities, there will be an expansion," Eckert said.

Preliminary plans call for two additional clubs in each league.

A dozen cities want teams in the majors, he said. He did not name them.

Discussing expansion possibilities, the council decided to work increasingly with universities, high schools and amateur organizations to develop more players.

More Latins

Another flow of players, it was said, comes from Latin America. The commissioner said this influx is increasing rapidly.

The council established two Cy Young Awards. The baseball writers organization will select the best pitcher in each league rather than one for the two as heretofore.

The council asked the baseball scheduling committee to study a request to change the World Series schedule so series would start on Saturdays rather than on Wednesdays.

Discussion of players' requests for minimum salary increases from $7,000 to $12,000 was deferred. Club owners are studying the requests.

Al Dorow Named Backfield Coach At Michigan State

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Al Dorow, former star Michigan State University and professional quarterback, has been named MSU defensive backfield coach by Coach Duffy Daugherty.

Dorow, who starred as quarterback of Biggie Munn's first undefeated MSU team in 1951 and went on to a pro career with the National, American and Canadian Football Leagues, has been an assistant coach for the past two years.

Neenah, Oshkosh Favored In AHS Regional Openers

Defending Champion Rockets Duel Terrors; Indians Battle Menasha Cagers Friday Night

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Neenah and Oshkosh appear likely to decide a WIAA (Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association) regional basketball championship for the second straight year.

The Rockets (17-1) and the Indians (13-5) are clearly favored to score opening-night victories Friday over Appleton (11-7) and Menasha (6-12), respectively, in the AHS regional.

A year ago, the Rockets stopped Oshkosh, 76-64, in the Neenah regional finals enroute to a state tournament berth.

Chances are, neither Neenah nor Oshkosh will be caught looking past their first night's foes, however. The Mid-Eastern Conference champion Rockets face a tough-at-home Terror quintet, which has won six of nine Seims-gym starts, including triumphs over Manitowoc and Green Bay West, co-champions of the Fox River Valley Conference. Two of AHS' three home defeats came in close decisions against Fond du Lac and Sheboygan North.

Wins 3 of 4

OHS will face a maturing Menasha club, which won three of its final four Mid-Eastern Conference engagements.

The regional foursome will be "splitting" its tournament for the second consecutive year. At 6 p.m. Friday, Menasha takes on Oshkosh. After the game, the gym will be cleared, and a new crowd will be admitted for the 8:30 p.m. AHS-Neenah clash. This set-up permits many more followers of a particular team to see a game.

The regional title will be decided at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

The tourney-experienced Rockets, have roared to 16 straight victories and to the No. 4 ranking in the state. They have displayed the ability to win the close ones (five of their wins have been by margins of four points or less), and at other times, have shown a penchant for running up big totals (they scored 189 points in the final two conference games.)

Doug Martin, in his second year as the venerable Ole Jorgensen's successor at Neenah, has directed the Rockets to 24 wins in their last 27 starts. Two of the defeats came in overtime at the 1966 state tournament, and the other was a 90-76 loss to Wausau in the second game of the current season.

In a previous visit to the Terror court this season (in December), The Rockets brushed aside AHS, 79-57, with a minimum of difficulty.

AHS partisans point out that one of the major reasons for the one-sidedness of the proceedings was George Hoffman's misfortune in accumulating three fast fouls in the first quarter. He scored only one field goal. It has frequently been a case of "as Hoffman goes, so go the Terrors" this season. In most of the AHS wins, Hoffman has been "on."

Win 8 of 13

The Terrors, go into the tourney backed with the tradition of never having played a bad opener under the direction of veteran coach Dick Emanuel. AHS has won eight of the 13 tourney openers in the Emanuel era, and the five losses — four to Oshkosh and one to Kimberly — were all by narrow margins, including last year's 3-overtime defeat at the Indians' hands.

The Emanuel-coached Terrors also have a perfect record (3-0) against Neenah in tourney play. The most recent tourney duel between the Fox Cities rivals came in 1965 when AHS won, 68-59. AHS also beat the Rockets in the '64 regional and in the '58

Banquet Set Dec. 5

Football Hall of Fame Admits 10, Including Cecil Isbell and Neale

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl (Greasy) Neale, one of the game's great innovators in his career as college and professional coach, and nine former players have been named to the National Football Hall of Fame for 1967.

Chester J. LaRoche, president of the National Football Foundation, in making the announcement Thursday, said the electees would be inducted at the 10th annual Awards Banquet Dec. 5.

The players honored include six linemen and three backs. They are: Slade Cutter, Navy, tackle; Nathan Dougherty, Tennessee guard; Joel Hunt, Texas A&M back; Wear Schoonover, Arkansas end; Paul Schwegler, Washington tackle; Herb Stein, Pittsburgh center; Francis (Whitey) Wistert, Michigan tackle; Cecil Isbell, Purdue back, and Abe Mickal, Louisiana State back.

LaRoche said the Hall of Famers were chosen not only for football performance but for leadership and citizenship.

Neale, saluted as a college coach whose love for the game was second to none, beat out a pair of later day strategists in the balloting — Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Charles (Bud) Wilkinson of Oklahoma.

Spends 25 Years

Neale, an all-around player at West Virginia Wesleyan, spent 25 years as a college coach, serving at Washington & Jefferson, Wesleyan, Marietta, Virginia, West Virginia and Yale. He later went to the National Football League where he guided the Philadelphia Eagles to the championship.

While at Washington & Jefferson, his team battled heavily favored California to a scoreless tie in the 1922 Rose Bowl game.

He is credited with instituting the man-to-man defense in 1916, the triple pass in 1917, the fake reverse in 1922 and the pitch-out series later.

The backfield selectees include two of the game's outstanding passers in Isbell and Mickal and a gifted breakaway runner in Hunt, who scored 128 points in a single season in 1927.

Mickal was a triple threat on the LSU powerhouses of the 1930s. Isbell led the College All-Stars to a 28-16 victory over the Washington Redskins in 1938.

The linemen, with the exception of Dougherty, who was one of the South's standouts in the 1905-09 era, performed in the 1920s and early 1930s.

Virginia Tegen Rolls 567 Set; Alice Patterson Crashes 555

Dorothy Hanson rocked a 265 game and a 582 series to grab the bowling spotlight in the Women's Classic League at the 41 Bowl Wednesday night.

The high game was the third-best recorded by a woman in league action on Fox Cities lanes this season. Only a 267 by Betty Butler and a 266 by Vi Werth are above the 265 mark.

Virginia Tegen was runnerup in the Classic loop with games of 194 and 223 for a 567 series.

Alice Patterson socked games of 197 and 209 for a 555 series to pace the Valley Fair Women's League at Sabre Lanes Tuesday. In Wednesday night's Sabre Jets League Alice Brandel rolled a 192 game and 520 series.

Dolly John smacked a 543 series, including a 206 game to take honors in the Lucky Strike League at the 41 Bowl last night. Sharing honors was Dolly Fredrickson with a 208 game and 531 series.

Diane Arent fired a 196 game and 532 series and Alfreda Meyers had a 534 series to lead the Four-for-Fun League at Hahn's Wednesday afternoon.

In the Wednesday Night Ladies League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes, Ellie Walker hit a 200 game and Vernadine Welch had a 517 series. Vernadine had a 191 game with the high series and other honor scores included Marie Reybrock 502 and Ardine Weyenberg 191-516.

Mary Parker's 202 game topped the Marathon Girls League at the 41 Bowl last night.

Dorothy Kerrigan had a 199 game and 515 series to lead the way in the Alley Cat League at the Village Lanes, Little Chute last night.

Mae Schommer smacked a 191 game and 509 series and Rosie Greiner had a 193 line in the Ladies League at Gene's Lane, Freedom.

Karen Probst slammed a 208 game and Joan Giesen and Marion Westenberger each rolled series of 505 to divide honors in the Sherwood Ladies League at Michiels Bowl. Joan had a 191 game and Marion had a 192.

Other Sherwood honor scores included Mary Weyenberg 190 and Delores Duthievic 200-504.

Neenah and Oshkosh '5s' Are Favored regional which was played on the Terror floor.

This, incidentally, is the first time since 1961 that AHS will be host for a regional meet.

AHS' most recent regional crown came in 1965, the third in the Emanuel regime. Menasha also won a regional title in '65. Oshkosh will be looking for its first regional crown since '63, while Neenah will be trying for its second straight.

Appleton's main upset hopes, outside of precedent, rest with their solid defense. Enroute to a fourth-place FRVC finish (they were in title contention until the second last game), The Terrors allowed an average of only 49.9 points per game.

AHS' defensive prowess will be strained to the maximum by the hot-firing Rockets, all of whose starters are scoring threats. Gary Losse sets the pace with a 19.4-point average (349 points in 18 games). Larry Handler has scored at a 16.7 clip, and Dan Jankowski (the most sizable Rocket, at 6-foot-3) is tallying at a 14.4 pace.

Jim Fetters (8.9) and Al Ross (8.3) are close to double figures.

Losse scored 26 points against AHS in December and Handler was next with 17. Bob Simon led Appleton, with 17 points.

Hoffman, Simon and Tom Hintz are averaging in double figures for AHS. Hoffman s 12-game average is 13.1 (236 points for 18 games), while Simon has a 12.4 rate (223) and Hintz 10 (a total of 180). Other likely AHS starters are Art Zuleger and sophomore center Tom Jones.

Better Than Expected

Oshkosh and Menasha have both done better than expected. Starting from a 1-letterman (Bob Kleinschmidt) base, the Don Erickson-coached Indians climbed into the thick of the FRVC title fight, finishing third and posting a 13-5 record overall. Led by Kleinschmidt and Jon Weber (6-5) the Indians will have a big size advantage on Menasha. Weber scored at a 19.3 pace in the FRVC.

The Barry Ewald-coached Bluejays started without a letterman and with little height (6-1 John Robinson is the tallest starter). They improved gradually, losing a number of close decisions, before finishing in 3-for-4 style.

Steve Jansen (9.8 average), Kevin Conway (9.6) and Robinson (9.4) are the leading scorers for the Jays, who, in most games, have gone to the slow-down style of ball to counteract opponents' height advantages.

of shots in his repertoire, is averaging an even 17 points per start on a total of 374. Heinritz' sum of 268 points averages out to 12.2. per contest.

Totals 176 Points

The battling Hardy has an aggregate of 176 points, while the smooth-operating Terry Graff has tallied 105.

Slated for probably frequent relief duty are top soph reserves Brad Graff, Tom Thomson, Mike Clark and Bill Fullarton.

Xavier, this season, came close to its own all-time Fox Valley Catholic Conference scoring record by putting 1,010 points on the board in 14 games. The 1962-3 Hawk record is 1,087.

For the league season, Xavier averaged 72.1 per game, while its over-all scoring pace is 72.2. Pennings' point average for FVCC play was 58.5.

During league action, Pennings' defensive record was a shade better than the Hawks' — 55.4 to 56.5. But, for the entire campaign, Xavier's tough defense (predominatly a zone) has allowed only 54.2 points a game.

Gerri Bellile Rolls 555 in Couples Loop

Gerri Bellile fired games of 203 and 217 for a 555 series to lead the women keglers in the Lutheran Couples League at the Hortonville Lanes.

Joe Reynebeau had a 590 series while Norm Reybrock hit a 234 and 569 set to lead the Cigarette Couples League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes.

Other honor scores included John Vande Burgt with a 580 set and John Schlitz with a 553.

George Deeg had a 234 game and Shirley Joecks cleaned up the 67 split to highlight action in the Nutty Couples League at the Village Lanes, Little Chute.

John Jansen's 566 series led the Western Couples League at the 41 Bowl.

Lois Gonnering rolled a 199 game for top count in the Animal Couples League at Gene's Lanes, Freedom.

Lew Alcindor Tops Scoring

Four Players All Averaging Better Than 29 Per Game

NEW YORK (AP) — Lew Alcindor of UCLA has taken over the lead in the tightest major college basketball scoring race in the last 15 years.

The 7-foot-1 sophomore star of the No. 1-ranked Bruins moved from fourth place to first by scoring 98 points in two games for a total of 688 and an average of 29.91 a game, according to statistics released today by the NCAA Service Bureau.

The next three scorers also have averages of better then 29 points — Jim Walker of Providence, 29.84; Elvin Hayes of Houston, 29.20; and West Bialosuknia of Connecticut, 29.18.

Mal Graham of New York University, last week's leader, scored 68 points in three games and dropped to fifth with a 28.7 average. Graham suffered a recurrence of an ankle injury in a game Monday night and is through for the season.

Alcindor's 61 points against Washington State last Saturday was the most for a major college player since Oscar Robertson scored 62 for Cincinnati against North Texas State in 1960.

Hoosiers Keep Cool In Winning Key Tilts

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Coach Lou Watson figures his Hoosiers are keeping their cool better than he is — and that's the secret to Indiana's cliff-hanger basketball victories and first place in the Big Ten standings.

"The kids don't necessarily get keyed up as much as I do on the bench," says Watson. "We're not good enough to blow anybody off the court, but my kids have hung in there and won the games."

In the Hoosiers' drive for the conference crown, hanging in there has brought a two-point victory over Michigan, a two-point triumph over Northwestern, a one-pointer over Minnesota and a one-pointer over Ohio State — all on the road.

That's half the Hoosiers' eight Big Ten victories settled by a total of six points.

"These are balanced ball players who play situation by situation," Watson says, "and it doesn't bother them much what the score is or how much time is left."

The Hoosiers will have to hang in there some more before they can run up the championship flag and become the first Big Ten school ever to have a cellar team one year and take the title the next. Indiana and Purdue were tied for last place in 1965-66.

Indiana faces Illinois, an easy conquest in the team's first encounter, at Champaign Saturday and Michigan and Purdue at home next week to finish the season.

Watson says he approaches the games one at a time, and is not counting any championship yet.

As for the ways his Hoosiers have knocked off opponents — a field goal or a free throw in the last seconds — Watson sighs:

"I guess I'm getting used to it."

He didn't mention it but his club hasn't been able to carry their narrow successes into overtime games. They lost both their overtime games this year —by a point to Iowa and by one point to Ohio University—both at home.

Mixed Funspiel Sponsored by Waupaca Curlers

WAUPACA — The Waupaca Curling Club will sponsor its annual Mixed Funspiel this weekend.

Twenty-three rinks from Wisconsin and one from Minnesota are scheduled to enter the mixed curling event. Cities expected to be represented are Appleton, Wauwatosa, Madison, Clintonville, Two Rivers, Stevens Point, Green Bay, Milwaukee, Brookfield, Portage, Medford, Waupaca and Mankato, Minn.

Curlers will take to the ice at 7 p.m., Friday and the championships will be decided on Sunday afternoon.

State Class A Badminton Slated Here This Weekend

The Appleton Badminton Club will play host to the Wisconsin State Class A Badminton meet Saturday and Sunday at Madison Junior High School.

Tourney play begins at 8:30 a.m. Saturday morning and will continue all day until matches have reached the semi-finals.

Competition resumes at 9 a.m. Sunday. The meet is open to the public.

Entries have been received from 140 persons who plan to participate in men's and women's singles; men's, women's, and mixed doubles; and men's and mixed veteran's doubles events.

Appleton will have 10 entrants: Amy Durdell, Mary Heinecke, Gary Lemery, Rudolf Matas, Bob Rahr, Elaine Warner, JoAnn and John Zimmerman, and Ken and Leta Masaros. Neenah entrants include Marge and Win Day, Joan Kalfahs, and "Starkie" Swenson. Andy and Dorothy Wittman will represent Menasha.

'Gloves' Heavyweight Seeking Unusual Goal

By KEN HARTNETT

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Clay Hodges, the national Golden Gloves heavyweight crown finally tucked away, says he hopes someday to be a professional—but boxing won't be the profession.

The handsome heavyweight wants to go to law school.

Hodges, 25, back for his third crack at the elusive title, finally nailed it down with a right uppercut to the jaw of the already reeling Tom Gamble, Salt Lake City, Utah, in the second round of their championship bout Wednesday night.

The punch had a delayed effect. Seconds after it landed, Gamble pitched forward and it was all over.

Hodges, an English major at Long Beach, Calif., State, was runnerup for the title last year. The year before he lost a disputed decision in the Los Angeles regionals to eventual champion Jerry Quarry, now a promising professional.

Pan-Am Games Next

Hodges, like nine other winners in Wednesday night's finals, will represent the United States in the Pan - American games. He'll also be out after a berth on next year's Olympic team.

The Olympics is also the goal of Paul Bad Horse of Los Angeles, a surprise winner over Art Alderete, Salt Lake City, in the middleweight division.

"I want to be the first Indian to win the Olympics in boxing," said Bad Horse, a full-blooded Indian.

Bad Horse was one of two boxers to pull major surprises. The other came in the light heavyweight division where Grady Bredzeal, Los Angeles, outpunched 1966 runnerup John Griffin, Cleveland, in a bloody windup.

Solid Performance

Jesse Valdez of Fort Worth, Tex., one of the most impressive boxers in the tournament, took the 156-pound title with a thorough pasting of Ed Betson, Streator, Ill.

Pat O'Connor, Minneapolis, a game 147-pounder won a popular but close decision over Jesse Lopez, Las Vegas

Ring - wise Willie Richardson, Detroit, outpointed the sharp - hitting Frank (Paco) Flores, Salt Lake City, in the battle for the 139-pound title.

Quiencelan Daniels of Detroit, who formally bowed to the audience before and after his fights, won the 132-pound title and a chorus of boos after outclassing Joe Espinoza, Roswell, N.M.

Brooks Byrd, Roswell, N.M., was a convincing winner over light-hitting featherweight Tom Cisneros, Omaha, in the 125-pound title bout and Earl Large, Roswell, won a close but clear verdict over Sam Goss, Elizabeth, N.J., in the 119-pound division.

Rolland Miller, Minneapolis, won his second title in three years hammering Walt Henry, Buffalo, N.Y., in the 112-pound division.

Russian Pair Wins World Skating Title

American Brother, Sister Team Ends Up in Third Place

VIENNA (AP) — Ludmilla Belousova and Oleg Protopopov proved convincingly that the Fountain of Youth is in Leningrad, U.S.S.R.

The Soviet Mr. and Mrs. team —he is 34 and she is 31—held off a flock of youngsters to win the 1967 World Pairs Figure Skating Championship Wednesday night.

It was their third straight world title and they did it in a near-perfect display of conservative teamwork on ice.

The U.S. brother and sister team of 18-year-old Cynthia and Ronald Kauffman of Seattle, Wash., finished third, the same as they did last year.

The pairs title was the first to be decided here. Tonight the second is at stake—in ice dancing—and defending champions Diana Fowler and Bernard Ford of London are the overwhelming favorites to win again.

Skated Cautiously

The Protopopovs skated cautiously and classically to the music of Tschaikovsky, Liszt, Massenetit and Saint - Saens, sharp comparison to the night before when they went through their compulsory figures to jazz music.

The Protopopovs left second place to Margot Glockshuber, 17, and Wolfgang Danne, 26, of West Germany.

In men and women's competition, the last two of six figures will be completed today.

The women's event is all but wrapped up by defending champion Peggy Fleming of Colorado Springs, Colo. The petite miss has already opened up a 50-point lead over her nearest competitors—Valerie Jones of Toronto, Canada, and 1966 runner-up Gabriele Seyfert of East Germany.

The men's competition is tight with 1966 runner-up Wolfgang Schwarz a few slim points ahead of his Austrian countryman, Emmerich Danzer, the defending champion.

America's Scott Allen, of Smoke Rise, N.J., is in third place, followed closely by the North American champ Donald Knight of Canada and the U.S. champion, Gary Visconti of Detroit.

Clinches Ivy Crown and NCAA Berth

Princeton Overcomes Penn Stall, 25-16

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

That old devil, stall, is back in the news in college basketball today.

In an effort to upset the nationally fifth-ranked Princeton Tigers, Penn held the ball for 11½ minutes at one time before going down to defeat 25-16 Wednesday night. The home court victory gave Princeton the Ivy League championship and a berth in the NCAA championship tourney opening March 11.

Once-beaten Toledo also qualified for the NCAA tournament by beating Ohio University 93-90 to win the Mid-American Conference title. South Carolina upset third-ranked North Carolina 70-57 and eight-ranked Tennessee was hard pressed to defeat N.C. State 65-62 in overtime.

15th in Row

Southern Illinois, the No. 1 small college team in The Associated Press poll, made it 15 in a row enroute to the NIT postseason tourney by downing Southwest Missouri 93-66. Villanova, also NIT-bound beat Seton Hall 83-65 for its fifth straight and 10th victory in its last 11 games.

However, Syracuse, another NIT-invitee, was upset by Niagara 71-59 and Holy Cross surprised Connecticut, in the NCAA tourney, 70-61. Two other NIT-bound teams split. St. Peters of New Jersey was upset by Long Island University 69-61 while Rutgers overcame Lehigh 67-55.

"We did it to win," said Dick Harter, the Penn coach, after the Quaker stall in Princeton's Dillon Gym, scene of a similar stall by Dartmouth several weeks ago which the Tigers finally won 30-16.

Ahead at Half

Penn led at the half 9-8 and it was not until seven minutes had elapsed in the second half that Gary Walters' field goal from the corner put Princeton ahead for good at 16-14.

South Carolina used a deliberate 2-1-2 zone defense to defeat North Carolina at Columbia, S.C. The Gamecocks held the Tar Heels scoreless from the field for 9½ minutes during one span.

Bill Justus' two free throws in the last seven seconds of the extra period assured Tennessee's squeaker over N.C. State at Greensboro. Ron Widby paced the Vols with 23 points in the game that ended 53-53 in regulation time. Joe Serdich led the Wolfpack with 18.

Pete House Leads Vikings Into MC Test

Seeks to Retain 2 Championships This Weekend

Pete House, junior captain of the Lawrence University swim team, will be out to defend his two individual titles in the Midwest Conference meet which is set for Friday and Saturday at Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Ia.

The Vikings, coached by Gene Davis, completed their regular season with a 3-6-1 record in dual meets.

House holds two conference records. Last year, when the meet was held at Lawrence, House swam the individual medley in a record time of 2:09.5 and also set a league mark of 49.5 in the 100-yard freestyle.

The Lawrence medley relay team also holds the conference record of 3:56.8.

In addition to House, other Vike entrants are Ken Melnick and John Isaac in the breaststroke, Hugh Dennison and John Sanders in the backstroke; Toc Mitchell, distances, Carl Liebich and Steve Graham, sprints; and Vern Wilmot, diving.

Cornell is favored to win its third straight team title. The Rams have one defending individual champion, backstroker Craig Whitney, returning. Carleton, Monmouth and Beloit are considered the strongest challengers to Cornell.

Class B Test In Menasha Starts Friday

MENASHA — Three games Friday night will launch play in the St. John Athletic Association Class B basketball tournament.

Opening night pairings are Lox Club, Combined Locks, vs. Appleton Trophy at 7 p.m., Green Bay Reliance Printers vs. Andy's Library, Oshkosh, at 8 p.m. and Butch's Pizza, Kimberly, vs. Miller's Texaco, Beaver Dam, at 9 p.m.

Three more are scheduled Saturday night, with six Sunday afternoon and evening. The finals are slated March 12.

Twenty-six teams entered the meet but two were assigned to Class C because they were deemed too weak while two others were boosted into Class A. Four others were ordered to cut their rosters before the first game.

The entry deadline for the Class C tourney is Friday noon.

WSU-O Unit Plans 80-Mile Dribble to Sheboygan

OSHKOSH — Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh plans to dribble a basketball from Oshkosh to Sheboygan Monday.

The trip will be made in recognition of the WSU-O basketball team meeting Lakeland College for the NAIA District 14 representative in the national meet at Kansas City, Mo.

William Broten, Menomonee Falls junior, social chairman, said the fraternity is doing the 80-mile dribbling stunt to demonstrate student support and enthusiasm for the Wisconsin State University Conference basketball champions.

The 50 to 60 members of the fraternity will alternate dribbling on foot to Sheboygan. Each will dribble a mile. Robert M. Kolf, who recently announced his retirement as athletic director, will pass the ball to the first dribbler at 8 a.m. in front of Albee Gymnasium.

Wields 'Dick Stuart Model' in Drill

Mantle's First Attempt At 'Great Experiment' Success Despite Glove

BY DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Great Experiment is off to an early start at the New York Yankees' spring training camp. . .and Mickey Mantle already is one up on Dr. Strangeglove.

Mantle, determined to make the grade as a first baseman after 15 seasons in the Yankee outfield, jumped the gun Wednesday at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and scooped up about 30 ground balls with the big mitt.

He came through with a perfect fielding average, then scored with a quick quip when asked what type of first baseman's glove he was using.

"It's a Dick Stuart model," replied the 35-year-old slugger without cracking a smile. The reference was to the journeyman first baseman, now with Los Angeles, whose defensive shortcomings earned him the nickname Dr. Strangeglove.

Early Workout

Mantle, who wasn't expected to begin working out at first base for several days, persuaded coach Frank Crosetti to tap grounders his way. "I've got to learn sometime," Mantle said.

Afterward, he admitted being "a little uncomfortable out there, at first. I kept feeling that everybody in the stands was waiting for me to miss one.

"I want to make it. If I can do it, there'll be all strong arms in the outfield and it could give me a year or two more as a player than I'd have had as an outfielder. I've got eight days and the 30 exhibition games to find out if I can do it."

The Yankees, starting from scratch after last year's cellar finish in the American League, hope Mantle, whose succession of injuries have curtailed his maneuverability and weakened his throwing arm, can master the new position and free slick-fielding Joe Pepitone for center field service.

Stuart Hurt

While Mantle broke in his new glove at the Yankees' camp, Stuart sat out Dodger drills at Vero Beach, Fla., with an ankle injury. Stuart's right ankle, hit by a pitch during batting practice Monday, hemorrhaged Wednesday and the nine-year veteran is expected to be sidlined a few more days.

Pete Richert, Washington's winningest pitcher last year, was another early casualty. The hard-throwing left-hander came up with knotted muscles in his pitching shoulder. He'll undergo heat treatments and speical exercises to correct the condition.

Pitcher Milt Pappas ended his week-long holdout and signed with Cincinnati for a reported $32,000. . .about the same he received last season while posting a disappointing 12-11 won-lost record with the Reds. The right-hander was seeking a $5,000 raise.

Meanwhile, Frank Robinson, whose trade to Baltimore for Pappas last winter backfired on the Reds, trotted through his first workout with the world champions and expressed satisfaction with his progress in recuperating from a knee operation.

Six Weeks Till Opener

"If this was opening day, I wouldn't be satisfied," said the American League's MVP and Triple Crown winner. "We still have six weeks before opening day, however, and today I'm satisfied." Robinson underwent surgery last November to remove cartilage from his right knee.

The Boston Red Sox squelched rumors that they were interested in trading former AL batting king Carl Yastrzemski while the San Francisco Giants said they weren't trying to deal for Cleveland's Rocky Colavito, who is holding out against a 25 per cent pay cut.

"You couldn't get a guy like that out of the American League right now," said Giants President Horace Stoneham. "There are too many clubs over there that would grab Colavito if Cleveland tried to get waivers on him."

Pin Tournament Begins March 31 In Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — The 21st annual Kaukauna Bowling Association tournament will get under way March 31 and run through April 30, according to Robert Ribarchek, association secretary.

Bowlers from Sherwood, Kimberly, Little Chute, Kimberly, Freedom and Kaukauna are members of the Association. Bowling will be in Class A or B for the team event, the former for teams averaging 800 or more pins and the latter 799 or lower average. Keglers may also enter the all-events in both the handicap and scratch divisions.

Deadline for entering is March 18 and entry forms are available at member bowling establishments. Scratch for the events will be 200 with handicaps computed on a 75 per cent basis, using last year's average. A maximum of 50 pins handicap will be allowed.

Team bowling will be held at Bowling Bar, Kaukauna while singles and doubles will be rolled at Verbeten's Lanes. All prize fees for the event will be returned 100 per cent and the tourney is sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress.

Pianist Robert Below To Give Ravel Program

Lawrence Faculty Member to Present Recital Sunday in Memorial Chapel

An all-Ravel program is planned by faculty pianist Robert Below for his recital at 3 p.m. Sunday at Lawrence University's Memorial Chapel.

Below

The program marks Below's third appearance here this season. Earlier, he played a solo recital and was guest artist with the Lawrence Symphony Orchestra in a performance of the Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini, by Rachmaninoff.

Sunday's program will trace Ravel's piano music from the year 1895 to 1911.

Scheduled for performance are the Pavane pour une Infante Defunte (1899); Jeux d'eau (1901); Sonatine (1905); Menuet Antique (1895); Menuet sur le nom d'Haydn (1909); Valses Nobles et Sentimentales (1911); and Gaspard de la Nuit (1908).

Below has been a particularly active recitalist in his three seasons at Lawrence. The youthful assistant professor of music has played four solo programs on the faculty series, in addition to the orchestral appearance. A year before his appointment, he was a guest on the Conservatory Special Events series.

In the three-year span, he also has made five other concert appearances of note, including one at the University of Louisville, two at University of California campuses, one with the Waukesha Symphony, and another as organ recitalist at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Menasha.

Below's choice of an all-Ravel program spotlights one of the 20th century's outstanding piano legacies. The French composer's crisp keyboard style, his delicate sense of proportion and broad melodies have earned a special niche in the Gallic musical tradition.

Principal Work

The style is aptly portrayed in Gaspard de la Nuit, the principal work on Sunday's program. Set to three poems of French writer Aloysius Bertrand — Ondine, La Gibet, and Scarbo — Gaspard shows Ravel's strong sense of pictorial imagination at its best.

The Pavane, Jeux d'eau, and Sonatine, all early pieces, reflect an enormous popularity, while the Valses nobles - eight of them — are reminiscent of Johann Strauss and forerunners of Ravel's well-known La Valse.

The Mourners on the American side of the Berlin sector are more apprehensive than sad as they wait anxiously for the coffin on the other side of the barrier to be carried to the waiting one on their side. This is an ingenious escape routine in the cloak and dagger movie "Funeral in Berlin," now playing at the Appleton Theater. A sequel to the "Ipcress File," stars of this film are Michael Caine as the British intelligence agent Harry Palmer and Oscar Homolka as the Russian officer, Col. Stok.

'Rodgers and Hart Today' On Stage '67

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channels 11-6-9) — "Rodgers and Hart TODAY" on ABC Stage '67 presents the irresistible music of Richard Rodgers, and the ingenious lyrics of Larry Hart with a bunch of pop artists giving the songs a beat that is very much of today. The songs are divided into sections: "Friends and Lovers," "Places and Things," and "Songs of Advice. Hope, Wisdom, etc." They are interpreted by Petula Clark, Count Basie, the Doodletown Pipers, Peter Gennaro, the Mamas and the Papas, the Supremes and Bobby Darin, the host. Director Bill Davis keeps things moving well.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — Jimmy Dean gives an ingratiating performance on Daniel Boone, playing a man much like Daniel: a tall, good-natured woodsman. Only Dean is also an escaped fugitive. He insists he is innocent of murder, and Boone (Fess Parker) is inclined to believe him.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — Dinah Shore is be-minked in Minsk as Coliseum presents Part One of "The Moscow State Circus." She is hostess, introducing six acts, which include Popov, the world-famous clown, Cossack riders, gymnasts and an animal trainer.

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7-12) — My Three Sons has a delightful episode in which the school is sponsoring a father-daughter, mother-son dance. So Chip arranges for a mother for the evening, while Fred MacMurray acts as father for a fatherless girl.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — Love comes to Mr. Spock, the unemotional one, on Star Trek. Of course, it takes something like some spores with power to do the trick, although Jill Ireland, his love interest, has some power of her own. The crew of the Enterprise has landed on a planet from which they are to move the population because of a deadly gas.

8-10:15 (Channels 2-7-12) — "Bye Bye Birdie" is repeated on The Thursday Night Movies. The film version of the Broadway hit is less successful than the play, mainly because emphasis is shifted from Dick Van Dyke, in the role that brought him stardom, to Ann-Margret.

* * *

8:30-9 (Channels 4-5) — Dragnet 1967 introduces Merry Anders as policewoman Dorothy Miller, a role she will be playing from time to time, as Jack Webb and Harry Morgan investigates the claw hammer murder of an elderly landlord. A men's "hair stylist" provides the clue that sends them to Arizona and a young punk killer.

Girl's Death at Green Bay Ruled 'Accidental'

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY —The gunshot death of Cathleen Potoczek, 18, Monday afternoon was ruled accidental, Green Bay police said Wednesday.

Autopsy and polygraph results have cleared the girl's boyfriend, John Bengston, 19, formerly of Ishpeming, Mich., of any suspicion in the shooting of the girl in his apartment.

Capt. Jerome Queoff, detective division, said Wednesday authorities are also certain the wound suffered from a single shot from a .22 calibre revolver was not self-inflicted.

"There was no reason for it. And, based on the results of the autopsy and polygraph tests, we have no reason to doubt the boy's (Bengston's) account of the shooting," Queoff said.

Need Action Against Old Laws

Mayor Maier Brings Crusade for Tax Distribution to Appleton

For a man who says he's not out to win any popularity contests — Mayor Henry W. Maier if Milwaukee appears to be outsmarting political pollsters.

His crusade for tax distribution reform was welcomed with open arms in Appleton Monday as he spoke to the Chamber of Commerce Forum at the Conway.

Maier pointed an accusing finger at Gov. Warren Knowles for failing to take action to help Wisconsin's 20 more populated cities.

"I know that my position and that of the Alliance of Cities is not popular with some people," Maier said during interviews.

"However, I am dedicated to helping solve the problems of cities and united action is needed to get the governor and leaders in the legislature to do something about antiquated laws relating to tax distribution, shared state aids, annexation laws and others."

He said that with increasing property tax loads, cities are faced with a "sink or swim situation."

Probably one of the strongest points Maier made during his three-hour visit here was the so-called "tax islands are leaching on the cities".

Among Maier's candid replies and observations:

—"You can write all you want to and ask the governor to take some leadership in behalf of the cities but all he wants to do is conduct studies until after the 1968 election."

—Inflation hits units of local government harder than any other segment and raising the property tax is not the answer.

—With the Town of Two Creeks in Manitowoc now getting two new utilities — costing more than $100 million — the amount of utility tax the community will receive "will be enough to provide everybody there with two swimming pools, along with lighting up the pastures."

—Every citizen and businessman should be concerned with the problems facing the city on tax distribution, supporting the crusade for legislative reform on a nonpartisan basis.

—The area from Milwaukee to Green Bay someday will represent one complete urban sprawl.

—Cities like Green Bay and Appleton, which are undertaking downtown rejuvenation projects, will be in a better position to cope with the competition of the shopping centers — many located in "tax islands" — while making downtown the main attraction for the region.

—His only political ambition is to stay on as mayor of Milwaukee "because it is a great city and I want to help keep it that way."

Large Saving Seen By Reorganization

Post Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Kellett Commission plan for the reorganization of state government could save Wisconsin at least $3 million a year, according to "conservative" estimates of the state Department of Administration.

In a fiscal note prepared for the 1967 Legislature after more than a year of work by the Temporary Commission on the Reorganization of State Government, the state agency cites unspecified experts on government who claim that such reorganization proposals will result in fiscal savings ranging from 2 to 10 per cent a year.

Aided by Department

The 2 per cent figure, they point out, would result in a savings of about $3 million a year to the state's treasury.

The commission was headed by retired industrialist William R. Kellett of Menasha, and was greatly aided throughout its deliberations by the Department of Administration.

The fiscal note is generally regarded as a friendly one, representing the involvement of the Department in the planning process of the proposal which would reduce the number of state agencies from more than 90 to about 20, through consolidation, reorganization and elimination.

The plan has been vigorously opposed by the affected agencies, notably the Conservation Department and allied interest groups.

The savings will result, according to the fiscal note, from the elimination of overlapping and duplicated services without affecting the quality of governmental programs, by the consolidation of existing administrative costs in management processes and in equipment costs, and by the utilization of duplicated program staff personnel to reduce demands resulting from workload pressures and from program improvement.

Experts Agree

"Most experts agree that such efforts could achieve from 2 per cent to 10 per cent efficiencies in operations for those agencies and programs affected by the reorganization," the note says.

The $3 million estimate of savings was computed on a basis of costs directly related to state operations affected by the proposals.

About two thirds of the cost would come directly to the state general funds, according to the calculations, and about one third would revert to segregated funds for special programs.

Cost increase caused by the reorganization proposals would be due primarily to hiring staff personnel not now on state payrolls, and would cost about $66,000 in the first year of operation, according to the estimates.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, March 2, the 61st day of 1967. There are 304 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1836, Texas adopted a declaration of independence at a special convention at Washington-on-the Brazos. Later in the same month a republican constitution was adopted and the following year the independence of the Republic of Texas was recognized by the United States, Great Britain, France and Belgium.

On this date:

In 1776, American Marines first engaged in battle when a force of 268 marines captured Ft. Montague, New Providence, in the Bahamas.

In 1853, the Washington Territory was organized.

In 1861, Dakota was organized as a territory.

In 1945, American forces reached the Rhine River in Germany.

In 1949, "Lucky Lady", a B50 bomber, made the first nonstop around-the-world flight in history.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower nominated Charles Evans Whittaker to be an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Five years ago — President John F. Kennedy announced the United States would begin a series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere over the Pacific in late April.

One year ago — The United States said a hydrogen bomb was lost in a B52 accident over Spain, triggering a massive search effort.

Wrightstown Teacher Group Is WEA Affiliate

WRIGHTSTOWN — The school district's education association has been recognized as the local Wisconsin Education Association affiliate by the WEA's executive committee.

Despite Legislative Approval

Parochial School Bus Amendment Referendum Deemed as Uncertain

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The outlook for the parochial school bus amendment to the state constitution in an April referendum is highly uncertain in spite of the easy approval of the measure in two succeeding sessions of the state legislature, one of the principal backers of the controversial measure believes.

"There will be much activity on both sides of the question and I cannot make an estimate of the probable outcome," said Donald Rush, registered legislative agent of the Provincial Conference, which represents the Roman Catholic Church on Wisconsin legislative matters.

Rush and the conference have sponsored repeatedly an amendment to make private and parochial school children eligible for riding in public school buses at public expense. The State Supreme Court has held such services is not now permitted under the constitution.

Referendum Question

This is the question that will be on the Wisconsin ballot Tuesday April 4, and will bring the constitutional change if it is given a numerical majority of votes:

Shall the constitution be created so that the legislature may provide for the safety and welfare of children by providing for the transportation of children to and from any parochial or private school, or institution of learning?

The "safety and welfare" theme has characterized the arguments of the supporters of the change in recent years, after many previous attempts that were lost when opponents charged the campaign was designed to provide tax support for religious schools.

Lutheran Support

Legislature hearings this year on the question were not as noisy and lively as in other sessions. Catholic spokesmen had the support of some Lutherans, but other Protestant representatives opposed the measure that would affect up to 111,000 Wisconsin elementary and high school children, according to official estimates.

Rush said his organization is not assuming victory in the referendum on the basis of the easy legislative endorsement of the amendment, including two successive unanimous votes in the state Senate. "I know there are some senators who intend to vote against the proposition on election day," he said.

Feature Contemporary Music At Lawrence Benefit Recital

A recital of contemporary music, featuring works by Lawrence Conservatory faculty members and students, is planned for 8 p.m. Friday in Harper Hall at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music sorority, is sponsor of the benefit recital. Tickets are available from members of the organization and at the University Box Office.

Four student composers will have their works performed. They are John Hall, Eagle River, who will play an original organ score: Susan Gillerman, St. Louis, Mo., whose song for tenor will be sung by Kort Ploshay, Hinsdale, Ill.; Michael Fisher, West Bend, whose songs for baritone will be presented by Dale Duesing, Milwaukee, and Stephen Drews, whose flute sonata will be played by Linda Neau, Kenosha.

Robert Below, assistant professor of music, will have his flute sonata performed by Mary Finnigan, Crystal Lake, Ill.

Sorority members will be joined by the men of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, professional music fraternity, in presenting a group of choral works by Zoltan Kodaly, Aaron Copland, Peter Mennin and Paul Creston. The chorus conductor will be Dr. Edgar M. Turrentine, associate professor of music.

Purpose of the musicale is to further the performance of contemporary American music, and to offer a performance opportunity for student and faculty composers.

Money derived from last year's benefit ticket sale was used to buy a violin for a developing orchestra in La Serena, Chile.

Consolidated Major Coated Paper Printer

Report 13 Per Cent Increase in Sales Over 1965 Level

Special to The Post-Crescent

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — Consolidated Papers, Inc. continued as the largest producer of coated printing papers in 1966, the firm said in its annual report which was released today.

Company president George W. Mead. II said, "Again in 1966, we furnished more coated printing paper to America's printers and publishers than any other manufacturer, shipping 364,130 tons, a new record. Our 11 paper machines which manufacture coated paper ran at seven-day-a-week capacity throughout the year, a fact which contributed heavily to our good earnings."

(Consolidated had previously reported in a preliminary statement record sales of $119,185,354, an increase of 13 per cent over 1965 sales of $105,146,778. After tax, earnings were up 32 per cent to $10,622,457 compared with $8,035,804 recorded a year ago, the previous record year. Per share earnings were $4.17 against $3.15 earned in 1965.)

The report noted progress in the company's $40 million capital improvement program, the largest in the firm's history. Mead said the $28 million kraft pulp mill at Wisconsin Rapids, major component of the program, is near schedule in construction.

Strong Sales

Another capital improvement project nearing completion is a $3 million plant addition at Stevens Point to produce carbonless paper.

Turning to the coming year Mead said, "The year 1967 cannot be forecast with any accuracy at this early date, but major developments begun in recent years should start to bear fruit this year and be soundly established by the end of the year. Earnings for 1967 will be influenced by crosscurrents so that the outcome cannot be predicted. Sales of papers in rolls both to publishers and through merchants to web offset printers are exceptionally strong. Prices, particularly in the enamel paper area, are firm and we expect continued seven-day-capacity operations. We therefore anticipate some increase in gross sales for 1967."

U. S. Plywood, Champion Paper Reveal Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Champion Papers Inc. and U.S. Plywood Corp. merged Tuesday into a $1 billion forest products firm to be known as U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers, Inc.

A Champion spokesman said that Karl R. Bendetsen, Champion chairman, about 10 other key executives and some other personnel will move from Hamilton, Ohio to New York next month to complete the merger.

Some functions of the new corporation will remain at Hamilton, however, and the work force there is expected to be increased, the spokesman said.

Bendetsen will become chairman of the new firm, with offices in the U.S. Plywood Building in Manhattan.

In an action not connected with the merger, Champion announced that its New York-based district sales force and export group will move into new offices in a building under construction on Park Avenue.

Stock Market Resumes Gains

Winners Outnumber Losers by 2-1; Trading Moderate

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed its advance as trading moderated early this afternoon.

The list remained well ahead, with gainers outnumbering losers by better than two-to-one.

The winners were a well balanced mixture of blue chips and more speculative issues, profits were taken on some recent wide gainers. Some of these issues, like IBM, weathered early losses and wiped them out.

The market lacked any new impetus such as the money easing measure announced by the Federal Reserve Board a couple of days ago when it lowered bank reserve requirements.

Airlines, aerospace stocks and selected issues were prominent among the list of favorites.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.84 at 848.33.

AP Average Up

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.4 at 316.2 with industrials up 1.9, rails up .8 and utilities up .7.

Douglas Aircraft advanced more than 2 points and McDonnell Co. well over a point in further response to formal approval of their merger by the two boards.

AVCO, down about 2½, as the most active issue, ran into some very sharp profit taking following its spurt of 3½ Wednesday as the big board volume leader.

Solid investment demand was reflected by extremely active dealings and 1-point gains by two of the bluest blue chips, American Telephone and Standard Oil (New Jersey).

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Wisconsin's Health

One in Five Deaths in State Results From Home Accident

BY E. H. JORRIS M.D.
State Health Officer

Another compilation of useful information about Wisconsin's health is being released by the Statistical Services and Vital Statistics Divisions of the State Board of Health This is a booklet titled "Fatal Home Accidents, 1965."

Accidents of all types took the lives of 2,239 persons in our state in 1965. Nearly half of these, 1,050, died in motor vehicle accidents, but one of every five deaths was a result of a home accident. There were 459 fatal home accidents in 1965 and half of these involved persons who were aged 65 or over. Five of every six fatal home accidents in this age group are due to falls Among all ages falls account for more than half of all home accident deaths.

Widowed men aged 65 and over have a fatal home accident rate more than three times higher than married men. Widowed women aged 65 and over have a fatal home accident rate between two and three times higher than married women. Single persons aged 65 and over have mortality rates for home accidents that are between those of the married and widowed groups.

Possible explanations for the differences are that married persons can care for each other to some extent and help each other avoid accidents. There is a possibility that loneliness may contribute to carelessness. Widowed persons may be forced to make rapid adjustments to changed living arrangements. The former division of household responsibilities suddenly ends and the surviving spouse may attempt to do more than he or she is capable of doing.

The risk of accidental death in the home is also high among infants and pre-school children, under 5. Suffocation, fire, and falls were the most frequently mentioned causes of death in this age bracket.

The 15 to 24 age group is by far the safest so far as home accidents are concerned, with less than 2 per cent of the fatal home accidents. But this group accounts for almost one-third of the motor vehicle fatalities.

January, with its ice, snow and attendant hazards, is the worst month of the year for home accidents and 1965 was no exception. There were 52 fatal home accidents in January, 1965 and during the other months of 1965 the number was relatively uniform with 31 as the lowest monthly total and 44 as the highest.

While this annual report is a useful reference its greatest contribution may lie in the inherent reminder of the dangers above the average home. Safety consultants emphasize that nearly all fatal home accidents, in Wisconsin and elsewhere, could have been prevented if people had taken more care.

Mississippi Pollution Called Threat to Health Of Humans, Water Life

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)— Pollution of the upper Mississippi River and its tributaries in the Minneapolis area "has created a health hazard" and is threatening fish and other aquatic life, a federal anti - pollution expert said Monday.

"The water pollutions problems are so great the old saws of state rights, federal rights and big city rights become meaningless," said Murray Stein, chief enforcement officer of the U.S. Water Pollution Control Administration.

Stein spoke at a news conference in a prelude to today's second session of an enforcement conference on pollution.

House Bars Powell From Taking Seat in Congress

Harlem Will Doubtlessly Re-elect Him

NEW YORK (AP) — Several Negro leaders say they are prepared to help elect Adam Clayton Powell to Congress again, as many Harlem residents reacted angrily to his exclusion from the House of Representatives.

An Associated Press sampling of opinion Wednesday night showed Harlem residents are ready to vote again for the man who has represented them for 22 years.

Cleveland Robinson, national director of the Negro American Labor Council, said: "The people are prepared to elect him again and again and again until men of narrow vision come to their senses." He issued a call for a rally for Powell next Sunday.

Hulan Jack, former Manhattan borough president, said, "We serve notice that we will renominate and re-elect him by a far greater vote than he has ever received."

'Much Farther'

Floyd McKissick, executive director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said, "The issue goes much farther than Powell. It goes to the question of whether black people are going to have the representative of their choice to stand and speak for them."

In Harlem's bar and grills, fish and chip joints and shoeshine parlors, Negroes said they would "vote for Adam anytime and anywhere."

"Why shouldn't I vote for Adam?" a woman asked in quiet anger. "He's done a lot for us here in Harlem. Where do you think we'd be today if we didn't have Adam."

One man said he would vote for Powell "for spite against the white power structure."

Another man said, "I'm glad this is coming to a head so I can vote for him again. The little people will show those white congressmen what we think of them."

Not Surprised

Despite the angry talk among Harlem residents, most Negroes said they were not surprised by the House action.

One man said, "The whole thing was anticlimactic. He lost everything when they took his chairmanship a few weeks ago."

Restaurateur Lloyd Von Blaine said, "The reaction will set in more widely after a day or two."

Decides Against Censure; Attorneys Threaten Court Action to Overturn Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has barred Adam Clayton Powell — its most controversial and flamboyant figure — but may have trouble making the ban stick. In the last of three House votes on the Powell issue Wednesday afternoon, congressmen decided by an almost 3-1 vote that Powell should not be seated in the 90th Congress. Earlier, the House had denied, by a close vote, a plan to seat the Harlem congressman but censure him.

While Powell relaxed at his Bahamian fishing retreat at Bimini, his attorneys termed Wednesday's action "unconstitutional" and raised the threat of a federal court suit to overturn it. The House itself may have to deal with the matter again, perhaps within two months. A special election will be held to fill Powell's seat and every indication is that he again will be elected to fill the post he has held for 22 years.

"It will come back to haunt the House," said Rep. Emanuel Celler, the venerable New York Democrat, after the House rejected 222 to 202 the recommendation of his select committee to seat the Negro Democrat with a stiff censure, a $40,000 assessment and the loss of all seniority.

The action also rejected leadership from both parties, who had backed the committee action, and led to the final ouster, 307 to 116.

"If I were representing Adam Clayton Powell," Celler told

Soviets Reply On Willingness To Discuss Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today he has gotten personal confirmation from from Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin that the Soviet Union is willing to begin discussions with the United States on possible ways to limit the spread of both offensive and defensive missiles.

Johnson, holding his second news conference in four days, said he had written Kosygin on Jan. 27 to propose that the two governments discuss a possible halt in the development of antiballistic defensive missiles.

He said he had received a reply from Kosygin that "confirms the willingness of the Soviet government" to discuss possible ways to limit the arms race in both offensive and defensive weapons.

Jail for Hoffa Set Tuesday

Teamsters President Still Fighting, Names Successor

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge Frank W. Wilson has ordered James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, to appear here Tuesday morning to begin serving an eight-year prison term for jury tampering.

Less than an hour before Wilson announced his decision Wednesday Hoffa designated Frank E. Fitzsimmons, general vice president of the union since last July, as his successor.

Wilson's move came after he denied Hoffa's request for continuance of his $75,000 bail pending disposition of a new trial motion. Attorneys for Hoffa, who took over the 1.8-million-member labor organization after Dave Beck, long - time Teamsters president, was handed a 15-year sentence in 1958 for stealing union funds, said Wilson's order "more than likely" would be appealed.

No Delay Seen

However, when asked if the legal maneuver would again delay the start of Hoffa's sentence, P. D. Maktos, an attorney of Washington replied: "I doubt it."

Hoffa, 54, who also was handed a $10,000 fine at the end of his trial here in 1964, would have to serve one-third of the eight-year term before becoming eligible for parole. And the federal Landrum - Griffin Act would prohibit him from holding further union office after his release.

Although Wilson did not refer to them, his bail ruling also meant that three of Hoffa's co-defendants would have to begin their sentences.

They are Ewing King of Nashville, former president of Teamsters Local 327; Thomas Ewing Parks, 49, a Nashville funeral home employe; and Larry Campbell, 42, business agent of Hoffa's home Local 299 in Detroit. Each was sentenced to three years.

Violation of Act

All of the convictions grew out of Hoffa's 1962 conspiracy trial in Nashville. The conspiracy case, involving the alleged collection of more than $1 million from an employer in violation of the Taft-Hartley law, ended in a mistrial when the jury was unable to agree upon a verdict.

Wilson still has made no rul-

Light Damage To U. S. Ship

Shore Batteries Exchange Fire With Cruiser

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese shore batteries scored two hits on the U.S. guided missile cruiser Canberra during a ship-to-shore duel Wednesday, the U.S. command announced today, but the hits caused only light damage.

The American command said the shore batteries were silenced by fire from the Canberra's 8-inch guns and the 5-inch guns of two accompanying destroyers.

The two enemy rounds made only one half-inch hole in the Canberra's deck and did minor damage to some nearby lifecrafts, the Navy said. No American casualties were reported.

The three U.S. Navy ships were attacking a Communist battery of 57mm guns 15 miles north of Dong Hoi, the major port in the southern part of North Vietnam. U.S. shells from three other Navy ships came within one mile of Dong Hoi, the American command reported.

Other Design

The Canberra is one of the U.S Navy's two heavy cruisers which can fire supersonic guided missiles, but the missiles are designed to combat aircraft, not ground targets. The 17,500-ton Canberra is named for the Australian cruiser which was sunk with the Vincennes and the Quincy in the first battle of Savo Island on Aug. 9, 1942.

Romney Outshone on Platform

GOP Snubs Preference Polls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney, tabbed in some polls as the leading Republican contender for the presidency in 1968, gained only a standoff with Republican leaders at a $1 million fund-raising dinner.

Romney, a top prospect for the 1968 presidential nomination, was outshone on the platform at Wednesday night's GOP gala performance by Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Reagan, a prospective California favorite son candidate aloof from Romney's potential bid for the nomination, easily won the applause meter contest with his appearance.

Not far behind with the audience at the $500-a-plate dinner was Barry Goldwater, the 1968 presidential nominee, who apparently is still personally popular with the Republicans despite his disastrous defeat by President Johnson.

Goldwater acidly observed offstage that Romney would have a chance for the 1968 nomination "if he returns to the Republican Party."

This was a measure of Goldwater's chagrin at Romney's refusal to support him in the 1968 race.

While the Michigan governor continued to talk in vague terms of future positions on Vietnam, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon was his old, aggressive self on that issue.

Looked on as Romney's chief rival for the GOP nomination, Nixon said in a televised interview that increased military pressure was the way of "escalating the peace."

In an informal meeting with newsmen at the home of Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., Romney provided only nonanswers to questions on national issues.

Just back from a tour of western states, Romney told the banquet audience, "I've just found how the west was won—blood, sweat and avoiding press conferences."

He talked on economic subjects, saying Johnson was run-

State Official Complains of Interest Rate

MADISON (AP)—Department stores are collecting "hundreds of thousands of dollars of illegal interest charges," the state commissioner of banking told a legislative committee Wednesday.

William Nuesse said stores using revolving credit plans are charging 1.5 per cent interest per month. The commissioner said he believes this violates the state's usury law which places a maximum 1 per cent monthly rate and he is working on a court test of it.

"The use of the term service charge in my opinion doesn't change the practice one particle," Nuesse told the joint finance committee during a hearing on his department's 1967-69 budget.

Nuesse said the public would not have to pay the rate if it challenged the store's practice and refused to assume it.

"There isn't a store in the state that will enforce it if the customer complains," said Nuesse. "That's the truth."

'Love Thy Neighbor'

Students Protest MSU Policy in Neck of Time

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Something new came to Michigan State University's campus Wednesday night as an estimated 600 students staged a protest "kiss-in."

The demonstration in a dormitory lounge was aimed at what students described as increased sternness in regulations of public displays of affection at the university.

The demonstrators carried signs—"Make love not war," "Love thy neighbor," and "Lips of MSU unite." Puckered lips were the order of the day as male students and coeds took part in the protest.

The Michigan State News, a student newspaper, said the idea for the demonstration stemmed from a warning given by college authorities recently to a college couple engaged in a good night embrace in a dormitory longe.

The proaffection demonstration Wednesday night lasted for an hour with no interference from faculty resident advisers in the dormitory.

No one seemed to know what had been proven, but both the male students and coeds appeared to have enjoyed the demonstrations.

More U.S. Force Means More Red Losses

McNamara Eyes Recent Death Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says Communist casualties in Vietnam have increased 40 to 50 per cent in the past three months because of intensified U.S. military action.

But he implied to newsmen Wednesday that new types of U.S. warfare in Vietnam — including mining of key North Vietnam rivers and ground and sea artillery bombardment of the North — do not represent an escalation of American efforts.

He said the new moves resulted largely from a cutback in bombing because of bad weather.

He offered the Communist casualties only in percentages, not specific figures.

The House was set to vote today on a bill providing $4.5 billion more for the intensified military effort this fiscal year. Little opposition is expected.

The Senate passed a similar measure 89 to 2 Wednesday after both debating an amendment that urged no further expansion of the war while backing President Johnson's efforts to negotiate for peace.

Both the Senate and House versions would authorize funds for additional weapons and supplies to carry out the war. The added $4.5 billion would bring to about $73 billion authorized U.S. defense spending for the current fiscal year.

Before passing the bill, the Senate voted 72 to 19 for an amendment by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that offered something for both supporters and opponents of U.S. policy.

Even Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., perhaps the most constant critic of U.S. war policy, voted for the amendment, although he and Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., cast the only votes against the bill itself.

The amendment, which expresses congressional intent to "provide all necessary support" while at the same time seeking "a negotiated settlement," was described by Mansfield as being in full accord with Johnson's policies.

Supporters of those policies feared the "negotiated settlement" phrase might be misinterpreted by the North Vietnamese as appeasement" "a dove policy," as Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., put it.

McNamara, talking to newsmen at the White House, said foul weather forced a reduction in air sorties against North Vietnam to a monthly level of 6,600 to 6,800 as compared with 12,000 last September.

McNamara cited evidence of North Vietnam's major efforts to move men and supplies into South Vietnam as another factor in U.S. artillery and mining activities.

Last Week's Toll Highest Of Asia War

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces in Vietnam lost a record 2,332 dead last week, the U.S. command's weekly casualty report said today.

The total of enemy dead was 129 less than the total of 2,461 reported on Monday by South Vietnamese headquarters. The two commands' totals of enemy dead rarely agree, and U.S. officers said the difference resulted because the American report is issued later, it contains more information, and evaluation methods are slightly different.

The U.S. report said 163 Americans were killed in combat last week and 919 were wounded, compared with 172 dead and 802 wounded in the previous week.

The reported Communist loss of 2,332 compared with 2,029 the week before, the previous high for the war.

Unofficial figures show that until last week, the previous highest Communist death toll was 1,988 in one week of March last year.

South Vietnamese casualties were listed as 286 killed and 45 missing, compared with 110 dead and 33 missing in the previous week. The South Vietnamese do not report their wounded.

Losses among other allied forces in Vietnam were reported to be 21 dead and 60 wounded, compared with 40 dead and 76 wounded in the previous week.

The latest weekly totals brought the number of Americans killed in combat in the war to 7,683, by unofficial tabulation, and the number of wounded to 44,455.

The American headquarters also reported that 1,000 more U.S. troops arrived in Vietnam during the week, increasing the total of American forces in the country to 415,000.

No increase was reported in other forces in the country.

Claims Rights Denied

Cite Shawano Officials In $100,000 Law Suit

A 34-year-old Neopit man last February was denied public accommodations, didn't have a fair and impartial hearing and didn't have counsel to advise and defend him, according to a $100,000 damage suit filed Tuesday in Federal Court, Milwaukee.

The alleged violation of constitutional rights was filed on behalf of Kenneth Dick by Shawano attorney Jack J. Schumacher. Dick was sentenced to Waupun State Prison Feb. 22, 1966, after a trial in which, the complaint alleges, Shawano County Judge Kenneth Traeger acted as prosecuting attorney and judge.

According to the complaint, Dick was arrested in Neopit on a charge of public intoxication, was taken to Shawano Municipal Hospital where he was examined by a doctor, and then to the Shawano sheriff's department and was ordered to appear before Judge Traeger the next day

Prison Sentence

Dick was sentenced to the state prison after being found guilty of the public intoxication charge and of being a repeater He remained at Waupun until July, 1966 when petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed and the Wisconsin Supreme Court remanded Dick to the Shawano County sheriff for further proceedings.

At his new trial Aug 11, 1966, the charge against Dick was dismissed upon a motion by the Shawano County district attorney on the grounds of lack of proof Judge Traeger presided at the retrial

Named as defendants in the federal lawsuit are: Shawano Municipal Hospital, Dr D A Jeffries, Shawano, Fred Lemhouse, Shawano County sheriff, Undersheriff Carl L Krueger, and Capital Indemnity Corp., a Madison bonding firm

Judge Traeger is named in the complaint but isn't listed as a defendant Jurists usually are immune from court proceedings which directly involve their work.

The judge, interviewed Wednesday morning by telephone, was unaware of the complaint filed in federal court.

He said, "I couldn't make any comment on it at this time because I'm not aware of what it is. I know of no precedent for this and I don't know that it's been filed."

He continued, however, "Dick had been drinking for about a week and he fell over on the street in Neopit." The judge said Dick was taken to the hospital where a doctor determined the Neopit man was intoxicated The court action followed

"In sending him up," Judge Traeger said, "I failed to properly go over the thing in detail to make a good record I didn't let it out as I should have"

Dick was sent back for a retrial and his case was dismissed after more than three months in prison

The complaint prepared by Schumacher alleges Judge Traeger notorized the complaint filed by the undersheriff. The judge also issued the warrant against Dick, according to the complaint Judge Traeger issued the warrant the complaint says, in the absence of the district attorney.

Valley Co-Ops Join Push For New Federal Milk Order

Firms at Black Creek, Shawano, Manitowoc Ask Government to Re-establish Chicago Market

Three Fox Valley Area dairy farmer cooperatives are among eight in Wisconsin and Illinois to petition the U S Department of Agriculture Wednesday to re-establish a federal milk marketing order for Chicago.

They are the Outagamie Producers Cooperative, Black Creek; Consolidated Badger Cooperative, Shawano, and the Lake to Lake Dairy, Manitowoc

The proposed order would combine the Milwaukee, Madison and Rock River Valley orders into a single marketing area.

Request Hearing

A hearing on the proposal was requested jointly by the Pure Milk Assn representing most dairy farmers in the Northern Illinois-Southern Wisconsin area, and the Association of Operating Cooperatives, representing seven other Wisconsin groups.

The proposed single market order would regulate the handling of milk in the Northern Illinois-Southern Wisconsin marketing area, including the area covered by the terminated Chicago order, and the territory presently covered by the Milwaukee, Madison and Rock River Valley orders. Also included would be McHenry, Lake Kane, Kendall and Will counties in Illinois.

The Rock River Valley order covers the Rockford-Freeport, Ill., and Janesville-Beloit, Wis., areas.

The Pure Milk Assn based in Chicago, said the proposed order is designed to improve returns to all milk producers serving the enlarged market area

A L McWilliams, general manager of the association, said this would be accomplished by insuring a fair and reasonable Class I price, minimizing the cost of operating and maintaining the market's necessary reserve and standby facilities, and distributing to all producers their fair share of the class prices established by the proposed order.

Other Wisconsin groups represented by the Association of Operating Cooperatives are Alto Cooperative Creamery, Alto; Antigo Milk Products Cooperative, Antigo, Wisconsin Dairies Cooperative Union Center; and Hillpoint Cooperative, Reedsburg

Suggest Wolf River Recreation Project

One of Three Federal Proposals to Revitalize Menominee Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction of year-round recreational facilities along the Wolf River in Menominee County, Wis., is recommended in a report announced Wednesday by the Economic Development Administration.

The year-round resort, according to the study by Ernst & Ernst, a consultant firm, would cost an estimated $2,680,000 An estimated 150 jobs would be created, and the resort, according to the study, would generate $800,000 in increased payrolls and $168,000 in property tax revenues.

Provide Jobs

The sawmill project, the report says, could provide 57 new jobs and add $1,062,000 to the county's tax base The rehabilitation and expansion would require an investment of about $1,369,000, the report says.

Menominee Enterprises would provide the land for the resort and homesite project and would provide the money for the sawmill project.

Family Service Organization at Half of Goal

Needs $35,000 Before Opening Doors in Spring

The new Family Service Association of the Fox Valley, Inc., is about half-way toward the goal of $35,000 needed to open its doors this spring.

A financial report of the campaign, being held in Appleton and Neenah and Menasha, was given by Mrs. W. C. Stach, a board member and a Kings Daughter at a board meeting at the Menasha Hotel Tuesday noon. The seven Kings Daughter Circles are in charge of the fund raising effort.

Included in the approximately $17,000 raised so far, are pledges by the Kings Daughters Circles, Junior Woman's Club, Outagamie Mental Health Association, and funds now held by the Family Service, Inc., Neenah-Menasha. About $3,462 has been raised in industrial, business and private solicitation.

In other business, Art Malin, president, made two appointments to standing committees. Mrs. Victor Zeuthen, Neenah, accepted a position on the finance committee, and Mrs. M. P. Gilbert, Neenah, to the policy committee.

Policy Committee

The additional policy committee appointment was made, Malin said, to balance the personnel among Appleton, Neenah and Menasha.

There have been some reports that there will be no Family Service in Neenah and Menasha if the new agency is located near Appleton, Malin told the board. Although the housing committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ruth Bohl, has located some properties that the board is considering, no site has been picked, he said.

Malin emphasized that if the agency is located in Appleton, there will be a casework office in Neenah or Menasha, and if it is located in Neenah or Menasha, there will be an office in Appleton. He said the housing committee is looking for quarters that will appear to be informal, since the best casework atmosphere is one of "hominess" rather than of business appearance.

A report from Scott Brammer, personnel committee chairman, indicated that one person is in the process of testing for the executive director's position. He received permission, however, to place ads in professional journals for the top position, and for one caseworker opening. Both jobs are open to applications from qualified personnel from the Fox Valley.

Answering a question after the meeting, Malin, also president of United Community Services, said he has heard comment about his taking the presidency of an agency which might some day be included in the Community Chest and UCS campaigns. Malin said when and if this happens, he will resign from the Family Service board, but he feels there is no conflict of interest at the present time.

"As a psychiatric social worker, with an extensive background in casework, I felt it was my obligation as a citizen to accept the presidency of Family Service, when asked. I am doing my best to help see that this agency moves in the right direction — to give the Valley professional casework service to help solve family and individual problems," he said.

The staff will total six, including Tom Dietrich, Lawrence artist in residence, and a number of secondary school teachers from Milwaukee and Chicago. Dates of the session are June 19 to August 11.

More than 40 of the original 50 students who attended the Lawrence program last year are expected to return. The vacated places will be filled by other seniors.

Youths Burned Slightly In Well Gas Explosion

Lighting Cigarette in Abandoned Well Pit Near Apple Creek Causes Fumes to Detonate

Five youths escaped serious injury late Tuesday night when "well gas" exploded in an abandoned well pit used as a storm shelter on the Elvy Lillge property along Apple Creek Road, near Plamann Park.

Only one of the youths required treatment at Appleton Memorial Hospital. He was identified as Garfield (Tony) Trudeau, 18, route 2, Menasha, whom police said suffered first and second degree burns about the hands and face. He was taken to the hospital in Lindy's Ambulance, and was released after treatment.

Although the other four youths were not considered injured, police said each had his hair singed in the explosion which occurred about 9:45 p.m.

Youth Identified

The other youths were identified as Tom Van Handel, 17, 3917 N. Ballard Road; Michael Rupiper, 16, 2113 Lynndale Drive; Larry Lillge, 17, 1911 E Aple Creek Road, son of the owner of the property on which the well was located; and Steven Wadel, 15, 2617 Lynndale Drive. All were able to walk to the Lillge home from where an ambulance was called.

State Fire Marshal Earl Schwabe of Green Bay said this morning there did not appear to be any "foul play" connected with the explosion that rocked the six-foot-square, concrete-lined pit. Schwabe was not called in specifically on the case, but was in Appleton Wednesday on another matter

He was at the scene this morning with Outagamie County sheriff's investigators. Schwabe termed the explosion, "a freak accident."

According to county police and one of the youths who escaped injury, the explosion occurred when one of the boys attempted to light a cigarette. All five boys had previously descended into the six-foot deep pit by ladder.

At least a couple of the boys had been in the pit on previous occasions, it was learned. The pit is about 150 feet north of Apple Creek Road, across from the Lillge home.

A well was once at the site, but it no longer is in operation and the pump has been removed. One of the boys involved in the accident said the pit now is used as a "tornado shelter." The pit has a wood cover.

Feared Gas Leak

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. crewmen and officials were summoned but it was determined that the explosion was not caused from a leak in a gas line. Authorities indicated an "explosive situation" existed because gas remained in the well casing following the accident.

Vincent Baum, Grand Chute fire chief, said it apeared the explosion was the result of "well gas" which sometimes collects in abandoned well pits such as that on the Lillge property. Baum said it is a form of natural gas, but should not be confused with the type of natural gas used commercially and carried through pipe lines.

Police said there have been other instances of "well gas explosions" in the Apple Creek area in past years.

Lillge reportedly has been ordered to fill in the well pit, as required by state law.

Paying for the State Budget

In spite of the biennial clamor about it and the evidently uncontrollable tendency for its money outlays to rise in huge jumps, we suspect that the Wisconsin state budget is only vaguely understood by even the most attentive Wisconsin citizens and taxpayers.

There is not yet a sufficient appreciation of the fact that huge chunks of that budget represent, not Madison services, or even state field services, but direct grants-in-aid to localities — cities, counties, villages, towns, and school districts. Without those commitments, the legislature would not confront a recurring fiscal crisis. It could balance state spending demands with ease. Without those commitments, the localities of Wisconsin would confront a financial emergency of dimensions not yet imagined.

Conversely, we observe an inaccurate assumption about the source of state budget funds. Perhaps because the process of revising our tax base, and incorporating the sales tax idea into the Madison revenue structure was too hotly disputed over a long period, there is an exaggerated belief in the productivity of sales taxes. In point of fact, however, this state now realizes far less in its state budget income from the sales tax than does the average state of this country. Wisconsin continues to put its primary reliance upon the income tax, and more particularly, the personal income tax.

The revenue officers at Madison in the recent submission of the new executive budget to the legislature provided an illustration in the style of the familiar "pie" graph. As it happens, almost exactly half of all of the general purpose revenue of the state for the present fiscal biennium came from individual income taxes. "General purpose revenues" are those which flow through the state treasury and are subject to biennial appropriation, as distinguished from the numerous segregated funds and institutional receipts that are dedicated to special purposes, notably the state highway fund's receipts.

The individual income tax share of the state's revenue "pie," therefore, was equal to the income from all other state taxes combined, the sales tax, the numerous excise taxes, inheritance, gift, insurance and public utility taxes, and the corporation franchise taxes which are income taxes reclassified by the 1965 legislature's action. Currently the individual state income tax is yielding $651 millions for the biennial budget, the selective sales taxes only $185 millions, or substantially less than a third of that amount. The ratio may be a useful one to recall the next time there is an argument about state tax policy in the barber shop, the club, or the union meeting.

A Matter of Terminology

It's rather heartening that the popular word "escalation" is to be removed from the American vocabulary regarding the Vietnamese war. As President Johnson explained, the new military moves are not escalation at all but are "more far-reaching . . . to provide the maximum deterrent" at the minimum cost — to both sides, he said.

The trouble with former references to escalation was that it was feared, by those opposed to the escalation at any rate, that the other side would escalate too and that would mean more casualties and destruction on our side as well as more on the other which of course was implied in our escalation.

But by making the American activity "more far - reaching" — specifically by shelling North Vietnam by our heavy artillery stationed south of the demilitarized zone and by naval forces and by sowing mines in North Vietnamese rivers — we apparently can avoid any North Vietnamese or Viet Cong activity being equally more far-reaching.

By the end of the press conference, it began to sound doubtful that "more far-reaching" really was. "We have fired from ships before," said the President. "We have done what we could to stop supplies coming down before." The President specifically denied that the new actions — if they were new actions — represented a failure of efforts to bring about peace.

This is patently nonsense. Any war represents a failure of diplomacy or political pressure or military threat depending upon who starts the fighting or refuses to be overrun. The trouble is that the Administration cannot admit that we are in a war because it is so hard to explain how we got embroiled in this one.

Since the efforts for negotiation have so obviously failed, the President ought to stop his political maneuvering at home and concede that he is merely getting on with the war come what may.

High School Evaluation

Dr. James Conant has joined those who feel that a certain amount of taxes raised by the federal government should be returned to the states. Dr. Conant specifies that they should be used for "education as each state sees fit." But he also strongly recommends that the local financing of public schools be changed so that the state has the primary responsibility.

The latest Conant report was made after a survey of 2,000 medium-sized comprehensive high schools which offer college preparatory, general and vocational education. While many of the schools had considerably improved their programs, according to Dr. Conant's criteria, over that which they had ten years ago, the educator found that there were wide and alarming differences among the opportunities at various schools. "Inadequate finances spell an unsatisfactory school," his latest report states. And while that statement is probably accurate in most cases, it certainly does not tell the whole story.

The criteria which Dr. Conant lists as essential for the academic or college preparatory program can hardly be disputed. They include four years of English, four years of one modern foreign language and of mathematics, the latter to include calculus, and the availability of programming so that a student may study English, foreign language, mathematics, science, the social sciences, art and music all in one year. Obviously this is a tough program but not for the academically able adolescent. He also specifies that each English teacher have a pupil load of not more than 120.

But Dr. Conant is concerned with what his report considers the highly conservative use of modern technology in education. Only 10.8 per cent of the schools investigated used television as a major teaching device. Only 16.2 per cent used teaching machines or programmed instruction. But the fact remains that these aids have not yet been proven to be highly reliable unless the teacher using them is exceptional. Television instruction indeed has been declared considerably inept and valueless by some in the field who would like to see it succeed. And education, as of course Dr. Conant knows, is difficult to measure by any sort of statistical equipment.

To a great extent Wisconsin is overcoming the problems of different financing in different districts through the merging of small districts and through equalized valuations. To some extent the state can control subject matter by different rates of state aid. Equipment variations are narrowing because of matching fund programs with the federal government. The danger of complete state control of public school financing is inadequate understanding of the local need.

Dr. Conant's study ten years ago did succeed in encouraging local school boards and administrations to improve their college preparatory programs. Later reports picked up the much needed vocational programs. His study of teachers' colleges emphasized that a lot of elementary and secondary school lacks originated at that level.

But true equality of opportunity is a will o' the wisp. We can and must continue to work toward it, but we must also remember that diversity is more important than conformity and equal opportunity does not mean identical programs for all.

Tragic Fire in Washington

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Feb. 1867

The burning of the President's conservatory is a great public calamity. The damage to the building can be repaired for $5,000 but the money value for the plants conveys an inadequate idea of the real loss.

It will probably reach two or three hundred thousand dollars. Many of the plants were rare, and have been accumulated for the past 15 or 20 years.

They cannot be replaced for any sum.

Among the plants destroyed was a very large lemon tree, four strillitza regina in full bloom, the largest plant in America; a screw pine, very rare and large; one cycus revolvula imported during the administration of Washington, and a large number of camelias and japonicas.

Anti-Ballistic Missile System Appears Far Off at This Time

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — A couple of days ago I described some of the games disarmers had to play in order to get a treaty on non-proliferation of nuclear weapons.

An even more complicated charade is being played out to head off the new arms race that might be set in motion if this country moved to deploy an anti-ballistics missile, or ABM system.

The central protagonists in this struggle are the United States Army and Defense Sec. Robert McNamara. For nearly a decade the Army has been arguing that the ABM system should be moved from research to deployment as a means of saving American lives in the event of a nuclear attack.

Secretary McNamara has argued against deployment on the grounds that defensive missiles were not very effective to begin with; that any technical improvements in the defense could easily be more than matched by improvements in the offensive missiles; and that it was exceedingly costly — ranging from about $5 billion for the "thin" system necessary to block a crude attack to an estimated $40 billion for a defense against a sophisticated attack.

NEW TURN

Events gave the debate a new turn in the fall of last year. In the course of the year, the Chinese made progress toward missiles, and the Russians were detected supplementing a fairly crude ABM system set up in Moscow with another, undetermined, kind of system set up to the north of Moscow and called, after a Soviet city, the Tallinn System.

These changes, coming against the background of the struggle in Vietnam, brought a unified stand on the part of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for deploying the ABM system. And there were some sympathetic noises from Republican leaders.

At that point, the administration widened the fight to include an international charade. The President, in the State of the Union message, invited the Soviet Union to discuss with this country possibilities for putting a lid on new ABM developments. With great show, the American ambassador to Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, was armed with a letter on the subject to Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin.

The well-publicized approach to the Russians on the ABM has generated all kinds of curious noises from Soviet officials Mr. Kosygin, during his visit to London two weeks ago underlined the difference between offensive and defensive missiles — an apparent indication the Russians might discuss offensive missiles but not the defensve ABM system. However, Pravda interpreted the Kosygin statement to mean that Moscow was prepared to talk about both offensive and defensive missiles. Then next day the Soviet foreign ministry disavowed the Pravda interpretation.

That same day two high-ranking Soviet officials — Gen. Pavel Batitsky and Gen. Pavel Korchkin — asserted that Russia's ABM system would down all missiles shot at the Soviet Union. But a day later the head of Russian civil defense, Marshal Vassily Chuikov, expressed the view that at least some missiles might get by the Soviet ABM system.

REPUBLICANS IN ACT

The meaning of this disarray is by no means clear. And the ABM proponents are still active in this country. In the past week both the Joint Chief and the Republican National Committee have put out statements in effect advocating ABM deployment at an early date.

But the Republican statement, while citing Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, did not cite a single Republican from the congressional leadership. And the statements of the Joint Chiefs harked back to complicated differences within the intelligence community about what the Russians are doing.

My feeling is that the proponents of ABM deployment are now on the defensive. There is obviously something to discuss with the Soviet Union in the missile field. If nothing else, the administration can always arrange for cabinet-level talks on the matter. And in the interim it can use the prospect of talks as a barrier against early deployment.

Messy as it may be, in short, the charade seems to be doing the trick. At the very least, ABM deployment seems not for now.

Massive Sea Turtle Won't Land in Soup

Oyster Rejects Sold To Cuban Exiles Who Prefer Midget Species

MIAMI (AP) — Cubans like small oysters. Exiles here found only big ones until enterprising Pedro M. Martinez located a supply source in Maryland's Chesapeake Bay area.

"Out there the oysters are so big that people throw away the little ones," Martinez reported. "So I arrange for the rejects."

As a result, exiles are eating something similar to "ostiones de Sagua" (oysters from Sagua, Cuba, a midget species), to which they were accustomed at home.

They put them in a glass with lime juice, ketchup and hot sauce. No fork needed. Just drink them down.

Wisconsin Report

Knowles, LaFollette Dispute Over Crime In State Misses Point

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Is there a problem of organized crime in Wisconsin, as some of the highest public officials have asserted periodically over a period of several years?

If there is such a problem,

there may also be the danger that public opinion which ought to be alerted will ultimately ignore the warnings because they appear to resemble the repetitious cry of "wolf" in the fable.

The most recent and unfortunate publicity exploit in connection with the claim of syndicate criminal activity in Wisconsin has provided a hostile exchange of letters between Gov. Warren P. Knowles and Attorney General Bronson LaFollette.

The attorney general publicly asserted his knowledge that there is a problem of hoodlum syndicate organization in Wisconsin.

The governor wrote to ask for details. His evident purpose was to say "put up or shut up" to the man who is now being boomed as a candidate for Knowles' office on the opposition Democratic ticket next year. LaFollette replied, in substance, that his allegation about syndicate criminal activity reflects common knowledge. He, in effect, accused Knowles of naivete in his demand for an explanation and details.

QUESTION OF THEATRICS?

All of which may strike some citizens as a tiresome kind of political harangue between two high ranking officers who don't particularly like each other, who are obviously political rivals, and who are as obviously aware of the sensitivity and publicity space-commanding nature of the issue in their debate.

More seriously, it may also persuade many otherwise concerned citizens that this is the ordinary politicians' talk, so that if there is in fact a problem of criminal apprehension and prosecution, it may very well be hindered by the theatrics.

Mrs. LaFollette says, as firmly as it is possible to say it, that there is a crime organization in Wisconsin, that it is involved basically with commercial gambling, that attempts have been made to prosecute it, and that it is a kind of extension or overflow of the crime syndicate of Chicago and is primarily confined, therefore, to the neighboring urban regions of southern Wisconsin.

It is perhaps a fair question, therefore, if the law-abiding citizen concerned about the integrity of public institutions asks why the combined efforts of the FBI, local enforcement organizations, and the state attorney general's office, which was given a special criminal enforcement budget several years ago, have not yet stamped out what they know to exist.

THE STORIES PERSIST

The public affairs reporter is peculiarly exposed to the generalizations about the supposed crime problem. For at least four years, this correspondent has been given "off the record" confidences by high ranking public officials about their worries that organized criminals have penetrated this heretofore law abiding state.

The long, costly and widely heralded John Doe investigation into Milwaukee law enforcement several years ago was inspired by the conviction of some high ranking state officials that it would expose the operations of a crime syndicate. It did not do so. In fact, it did very little to justify the enormous effort and cost involved, as far as the average citizen could determine.

Mr. La Follette has indicated that he has some information that cannot be made public because it is "confidential," but that it relates to the problem of crime organization. Yet it should not be difficult for the attorney general and the governor, if the confidential information is as serious as implied, to persuade the legislature to take emergency action — even to the extent of providing a special policing and investigating bureau. The present investigating service is admittedly modest in its resources.

What would the state do if it had evidence of an organized income tax cheating ring, or a cigarette smuggling operation, or a deer poaching syndicate?

Strictly Personal

Thoughts at Large Occupy Harris Today

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When I hear of men being "forced" to retire at 65, I think of Kant writing his "Anthropology" at 74; Tintoretto painting "Paradiso" at 74; Verdi composing his opera, "Otello," at 74; Goethe completing his "Trilogy of Passion" at 74 — and Titian painting his historic "Battle of Lepanto" at 98!

Harris

The structure of authority is so precariously balanced that almost no ruler, or man in power, will publicly and voluntarily admit he has made a mistake; and most governmental crises are compounded not so much by the malice or greed as by the felt necessity for defending and camouflaging past mistakes.

If we can't win the war against poverty here, how can we win the war in Vietnam — whose troubles are caused largely by poverty — and what meaning will it have if we do win it?

We know that knowledge today is rapidly becoming obsolete, and we must continually renew our education to keep up with new developments; whey then do both liberals and conservatives cling to the naive notion that their past ideas of how society should be run are still practical, relevant, and valuable to the new generation?

The person who does nothing at all about a problem is not as morally culpable as the person who does less than his best; we realize we can expect nothing from the former, but the latter betrays us by assuming a responsibility he does not intend to fulfill.

When the implied motto of an executive is "Don't make waves," it is generally because he feels that any motion will knock him overboard.

Being busy may be better, for many people, than being idle — but, in the end, it is no substitute for having purpose.

Worth pondering are the words of Robert H. Snow in a recent issue of the Journal of Higher Education: "Despite all our riches and our comforts, we live in an age of dehumanization such as never before existed in history. In many respects, the bushmen of Central Australia live more humane lives than do the majority of inhabitants of our cities and towns in 'civilized' America."

There are no "superior" or "inferior" nations: there are only nations whose time has passed, whose time is here, or whose time is yet to come.

The law must always change, it cannot be static, it must develop in response to new conditions; yet the paradox is that unless it changes around a permanent axis, it does not deserve to have the legitimacy of what we mean by "law."

Judge Orders Hoffa to Begin Serving Term

ing on the pending new trial motion — Hoffa's fourth — which was filed here Tuesday, one day after the U.S. Supreme Court refused to reconsider its rejection last Dec. 12 of a Hoffa appeal.

The pending motion alleges "new evidence" that the Justice Department used wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping during the 1964 trial here, and is supported by 20 affadavits from persons who say they participated in it or knew it was going on.

"There's no showing that any of these defendants need to be present to expedite these matters (further appeals) and there's no showing that they won't lead to cumulative delays," said Justice Department attorney Theodore Gilinski in urging imposition of the prison sentences

Appeals Pending

Appeals based on two other new trial motions, the second and third filed by Hoffa, are pending before the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals. However, Judge Clifford O'Sullivan of the appellate court Tuesday refused to allow Hoffa's bail to stand pending their disposition.

Maktos indicated Wednesday that he expects an unfavorable ruling from the 6th Circuit Court on the Appeals.

Wilson first ordered Hoffa to appear here for execution of the sentence next Monday, but delayed it until Tuesday after Maktos said the union leader needed time to "get his union affairs in order."

Hoffa said Wednesday he would fight to stay free and to keep the nation's largest union strong.

In a four-minute news conference at a Baltimore hotel, the short, stocky teamster's chief affirmed that Fitzsimmons, his long-time friend, would be in command of the union if he is jailed.

Hoffa refused to comment when asked if he would try to continue running the union from behind prison walls.

Closed Meeting

He spoke to newsmen following a closed meeting with representatives of the 53 union area councils in the United States and Canada. Hoffa said the representatives agreed unanimously with the giving of president's powers to Fitzsimmons in the event of Hoffa's absence.

Fitzsimmons, 58, was named vice president of the union last July. Hand-picked by Hoffa, he was serving at the time as vice president of Hoffa's home local in Detroit.

Although making plans for leaving his job even before the judge's announcement, Hoffa had harsh words for those he felt might try to take advantage of his union if he is jailed.

"There are those who would like to see the union destroyed," he said without mentioning any names. He said this would not happen At another point he said: "There are some employers who are trying to take advantage of the situation that grew out of the litigation.

"I serve notice to them that our members will not surrender one paragraph of their contract They will get the benefits they deserve."

National Debt Soaring Toward $336 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national debt ceiling is headed for the $336 billion mark, with chances good it will be boosted once more before the year is out.

House approval Wednesday of a measure hiking the temporary debt limit $6 billion sent it to President Johnson, who asked the increase The Senate earlier passed the bill.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler had said the government couldn't pay its March bills without the measure.

Some congressional sources predicted Johnson would ask within the next four months for another increase in the ceiling.

into the southern part of North Vietnam last week, but again no damage to the 175mm American cannon was reported

The Viet Cong fired 180 mortar rounds at the U.S Marines' big guns today, the U.S. command said, bringing the total enemy fire in the last three days against U S. Marine positions just south of the demilitarized zone to more than 1,800 rounds. The mortar fire today came from within the demilitarized zone, the American command said.

1,000 Mortar Rounds

In one attack Tuesday, a U.S. spokesman reported, the Communists fired about 1,000 mortar rounds which combined with infantry assaults inflicted heavy casualties on two Marine companies. Among the dead were a battalion commander and two company commanders.

The heavy actions just south of the demilitarized zone appeared to be of increasing concern to the U.S. command. A spokesman said earlier today that "it was safe to assume" the Communists had utilized the four-day Lunar New Year truce in February to move massive amounts of war material into the area.

The Marines in the area are understood to have been somewhat thinned out in the past few months when actions expected adjacent to the demilitarized zone area failed to materialize The Marines were needed for operations in other parts of the 1st Corps area where the Communists still control large sectors.

ning the national economy "from the vest pocket of one man."

But Romney didn't waste his day in Washington. His engaging personality and striking television appearance probably made him new friends. His own personal assessment of the day's venture into national political circles was it had been "very useful."

'Good Impression'

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, thought Romney made a "good impression." But another Republican senator, who asked not to be identified, said that while he had hoped to support Romney he felt the governor "can't cut the mustard" for a winning presidential campaign

There was some speculation that Romney, a candidate of the GOP moderates, was angling for conservative support when he told Republican senators at a luncheon Wednesday that he's opposed to repeal of the law which permits states to ban the union shop

Romney was said to have explained he couldn't advocate this publicly in Michigan, where the labor vote could be decisive

The audience greeted Reagan with an ovation that exceeded applause given Romney when he arose to speak. Reagan's quips kept the audience laughing

Senate Minority Leader Everett M Dirksen also drew laughter when he announced at the beginning of the evening's final speech that "I accept the nomination " He invited the audience to take up the chant "We want Dirksen!"

Treasury Saving Money on Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury is saving money on the cost of printing it.

The cost per bill of more than two billion printed in last fiscal year was less than nine-tenths of a cent; fifteen years ago, it was almost exactly a penny per note

The cost is the same, officials said, whether grinding out singles or $10,000 bills (you'll recognize this one, next time one comes your way, by Salmon P. Chase's picture).

Advances in printing technique, the Treasury said, have pushed the cost of producing 1,000 bills of any denomination down to $8 42 It is likely to fall to $8 30 during the present fiscal year and to $8 11 the year after, officials said.

Texan Protects Native Toads

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The harmless horned toad has found a defender in State Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso.

Christie said he was burned up when he learned that hundreds of thousands of the toads are being shipped out of Texas for pets and curiosities

"They go into strange environments in other parts of the country and die," he said. One toad eats more than 40,000 insects a year.

To protect the horned toad, Christie introduced a bill in the legislature Wednesday to make it unlawful to trap the creatures for commercial purposes. Violators could be fined up to $200 and sentenced to jail up to 60 days.

House Refuses to Give Powell Congress Seat

reporters. "I'd take the case to court right away. I think he's got a good case."

And Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr., the West Virginia Republican who fought alongside Celler for adoption of the censure proposal, referred reporters to his statement midway through the five-hour debate: "If we turn him out, his constituency will turn him back with an even greater majority."

The galleries were packed but orderly. Although Powell, 58, was absent, his lawyers were there They listened intently but left when the outcome became clear.

Later, they issued a terse statement through Powell's office which said: "Within a few days an announcement will be made by or on behalf of Mr. Powell as to any future course of action."

The House floor was hushed during most of the debate, although at one point the hum of conversation rose so much that presiding Rep. Hugh L Carey, D-N.Y., reminded members: "Gentlemen, we're voting on a matter involving decorum in the House — there is no decorum in the House."

Salary to Stop

Although his future was uncertain, the action meant that as of 6:55 p.m. Wednesday, Adam Clayton Powell ceased to be either a member or a member-elect of the 90th Congress His $30,000 annual salary will stop and he will have to vacate his plush Rayburn Office Building suite, though he will get a few days to pack.

The action came just 51 days after Democrats voted to strip Powell of the Education and Labor Committee chairmanship he had held since 1961. The next day the House voted to keep him out, pending a report by a select committee to be established to investigate his qualifications.

Then Wednesday it rejected the unanimous recommendation of that committee, that Powell be seated but censured for "gross misconduct."

In a series of three votes, the House made Powell the third member-elect to be excluded from membership in the 20th century.

Wisconsin Socialist

The only persons suffering similar fates since 1900 were Victor Berger, a Wisconsin Socialist convicted of sedition, and Brigham Roberts, a Utah Mormon who had been convicted of polygamy

Members have received heavy mail from constituents urging that Powell be ousted, and public opinion polls have reported similar feeling. "The voice of the country and the emotion that was part of it finally prevailed," Moore commented

The select committee tried to sell the censure proposal to the House as the stiffest practical penalty that could be applied without tangling with the courts Moore called it "annihilation of a member of this House by total humiliation."

But Rep. Albert W. Watson, R-S C., contending a resolution could not humiliate Powell, said :"As far as I know, he's down in Bimini with a glass in one hand and a woman in the other."

Staff Dismissed

Powell was last reported fishing, accompanied by his secretary Corrine A. Huff. The censure resolution would have dropped her from her $19,000-a-year job on Powell's staff, but by ousting Powell, the House automatically dismissed his staff as well.

The key vote came on a move to shut off debate, block all amendments and bring the censure proposal to an immediate vote. This was rejected 222 to 202, with 113 Republicans and 109 Democrats joining to defeat 71 Republicans and 131 Democrats.

Then, by a vote of 248 to 176, the House substituted the proposal by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., to exclude Powell for the seat and censure plan proposed by the committee. Finally, it voted 307 to 116 in favor of the amended resolution and thus barred Powell.

'Maintain Dignity'

Curtis, who said later he had been picked by Republican leaders to offer the exclusion motion, said the facts revealed by the Celler committee "warrant his (Powell's) exclusion from this body, not to punish him but to maintain the dignity of this body."

The committee had accused Powell of converting to his own use more than $46,000 in government funds and of contemptuous behavior to the courts of New York — in connection with a longstanding libel judgment — and to the Celler committee itself.

Ironically, the report of the committee — and even the actual resolution passed by the House — appeared likely to become weapons for Powell to use in any court challenge to the House action

Although the House voted to exclude Powell, it also adopted the committee's finding that "Adam Clayton Powell possesses the requisite qualifications of age, citizenship and inhabitancy for membership in the House of Representatives and holds a certificate of election from the state of New York"

Two Challenges

Through a parlimentary quirk, this part was adopted after the House had approved the exclusion. Asked if action had been completed on this section, one member nodded yes and then remarked: "I don't know how well it matches the rest of it."

Celler, 78, said he thinks the action could be challenged on two constitutional grounds: First, that the House in effect wrote new constitutional qualifications for membership, and second, that the action was approved by a majority rather than by two-thirds of the members.

Expulsion of a member must be by a two-thirds vote, but exclusion before the member is sworn in is by a majority vote. "This was expulsion by a majority," the Democrat and dean of the House said.

30-40 Days

As for the special election, a spokesman for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said one must be called within 30 to 40 days after the governor receives official notice of the House action. New York City officials made it clear that Powell could run and be elected without ever setting foot in New York, where he is under an arrest order in connection with the libel judgment

Powell was asked last week-end in Bimini what he would do if the House failed to seat him. He said he would run and win, adding "even if I'm dead, as long as they keep me propped up, I will be elected."

Curtis predicted that if Powell is elected and seeks his seat "he'll get the same thing again."

25 Million In U. S. Said To Have TB

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Twenty-five million people in the United States are infected with tuberculosis, although their cases aren't active, a U.S. Public Health Service physician estimates.

Dr. Sidney Dressler said of the 50,000 or so new active TB cases discovered in this nation yearly a majority involve persons who would have had positive responses if they were given tuberculin tests.

Dr. Dressler, in Los Angeles from Washington, D.C., to attend a symposium on the control of tuberculosis, told a news conference that tuberculin tests must be given to whole generations of school children.

Although cases of tuberculosis are increasing statistically, the reason is a better reporting and detection system rather than any actual increase in TB, said Dr. A. A. Grabau of the Erie County Health Department, Buffalo, N.Y.

Harlem Likely To Re-elect Powell Again

United African Nationalist Movement, called for Negroes to "adopt the slogan of Watts — 'burn, baby, burn.'"

Seven major civil rights leaders warned of possible violent reaction in Negro ghettoes.

Bayard Rustin, director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, said the Powell issue "will bring more disorder and disarray into the relations between whites and Negroes. The majority of Negroes will conclude that this is a racist action."

No Voice in Ghetto

McKissick said, "Congress may well regret the fact that it will not have a voice that touches the ghetto and reaches the masses to articulate their feelings, frustrations, aspirations, anger and desires."

A. Philip Randolph, vice president of the AFL-CIO Executive Council and a leading figure in the civil rights movement, said the Powell matter "could generate a racial reaction with overtones of violence and disorder and misguided revenge."

Randolph is a resident of Harlem's 18th Congressional District, which Powell represented.

Whitney Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, said the House action was "shocking" and "unprecedented." It "denies the basic right of his (Powell's) constituents to representation of their own choosing," he said.

Rusin said Randolph would probably call a summit conference of civil rights leaders in the next few weeks to decide on a course of action.

"The civil rights leadership will stand together on this issue," he said.

But in a Harlem coffee shop, a black nationalist said the Powell matter "would soon dissolve."

"Remember all the excitement after Malcolm (X) was killed," he asked? "Everything died down after a while. The same thing will happen here. Black people aren't angry enough yet."

Supreme Court Probably Will Remain Liberal

Johnson Unlikely To Jeopardize Long-Term Programs

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal justices dominate this Supreme Court and even if some of them retire in the next few years, so long as Lyndon B. Johnson remains President the court probably will remain liberal.

With his far-reaching liberal programs, some involving welfare in many ways, Johnson seems unlikely to jeopardize them by appointing conservatives to the high bench.

Justice Tom C. Clark said this week he would step down by the end of June. At age 67 he is very close to the average retirement age of justices — 67½ years — down through American history.

But there are four other justices 67 or older: Chief Justice Earl Warren, 75; and Justices Hugo Black, 81; William O. Douglas, 68; and John Marshall Harlan, 67.

Notable Exceptions

If Warren, Black and Douglas were guided by the average retirement age, they'd be gone now. Their average age is 74. But there have been some notable exceptions to the average.

The best example is Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes who didn't quit until he was 90.

As the history of the 96 men who have sat on the court shows, the age of a justice doesn't necessarily mean he is not a good justice simply because he is up in years.

Some justices, including some of the best, weren't appointed until they were in their 60s. Holmes was 61, Louis D. Brandeis, 60, and Benjamin N. Cardozo, 62.

Chief Justices

And these three chief justices were in their 60s when they were appointed to take charge: Warren, 62, William Howard Taft, 64, and Charles Evans Hughes, 68.

All these bits of arithmetic prove is that there is no mathematical formula for predicting when any justice figures he has had enough. Justice William Brennan is 60. Only three justices are under that age: Abe Fortas, 56, Potter Stewart, 52, and Byron R. White, 49.

Thus, while the average age of the present members is 63½ years, this court has had a continuity of outlook, starting with the 1954 decision outlawing public school segregation, that has made it the strongest in history and the most liberal.

Four Holdovers

Yet, only four of the present justices — Warren, Black, Douglas and Clark — were on the court at the time of the 1954 ruling. All four of them approved it.

Youth — or comparative youth — is no guarantee that a justice will be more liberal than his elders. The two youngest members of this court — White and Stewart — along with Harlan are the most conservative.

The three oldest members — Warren, Black and Douglas — along with Brennan and Fortas make up the dominant liberal majority.

Not Bloc

This doesn't mean they vote together on every issue, but do so enough times to give the court its steadily liberal direction. Sometimes, when one or more of them dissents, the remaining liberals can't get a decision through unless joined by one or more of the conservatives.

Next to the school desegregation ruling, perhaps the most courageous act of the Supreme Court since 1954 was the decision requiring state legislatures to reapportion themselves to give more equal representation to state citizens.

The court long had held back from butting into this political ambush. But the court also showed courage in banning compulsory prayers in public schools, in toning down the hysteria about communism in the 1950's, and protecting the rights of individuals, including criminals.

Plan Allows Unmarried Persons to Purchase Birth Control Devices

MADISON (AP) — A Senate committee has voted 5-0 to introduce a bill to permit sale of birth control devices to unmarried persons.

"This is because of the tremendous illegitimacy in our state," said Mrs. Walter Raushenbush of Madison, chairman of Wisconsin Citizens for Family Planning.

The bill proposed by her group would allow social workers and other officials to offer information on birth control devices. It also would eliminate the portion of the state law barring sale to single persons.

"Only Massachusetts and Wisconsin limit contraceptives to married persons," Mrs. Raushenbush said.

Three From State Vote Against Seating Powell

Representatives O'Konski, Schadeberg, Stiger Stand Against Harlem Democrat

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Three members of the Wisconsin House delegation Wednesday voted to exclude Harlem Rep.-elect Adam Clayton Powell from membership in the House of Representatives.

The vote to exclude the New York Democrat was approved 248 to 176. Representatives Alvin E. O'Konski, Henry C. Schadeberg and William Steiger were the three who voted with the majority as all other members from the state voted with the minority.

Only Course

On an earlier vote, the same three House members, voted against accepting committee recommendations on disciplining and punishment of the flamboyant Negro former House member.

During debate on the committee recommendations Rep. Vernon W. Thompson, R-Richmond Center, who had been a member of the select committee to investigate Powell's activities of alleged misconduct, received applause from both sides of the aisle when he said that the only constitutional course the house could take would be that outlined in the committee recommendations.

These recommendations included the seating of Powell but the censuring of him after he had taken the oath of office, attaching his salary at the rate of $1,000 a month for the remaining 22 months of the 90th Congress, and stripping him of all seniority and fringe benefits.

Thompson, who was introduced by minority leader Gerald R. Ford, Michigan, as one highly qualified to sit on the investigating committee because of his legal experience as a attorney general of Wisconsin in addition to having been the state chief executive, told the house he had been "drafted as a member of the committee."

(As a matter of fact, Thomson did not know he had been appointed to committee until this bureau informed him his name was on the list of members).

Sought Exclusion

Rep. O'Konski, said he voted to exclude Powell from the House because he originally voted to unseat him, pending the result of the investigating committees report on charges of Powell's misdoing.

The Wisconsin Republican also added that apparently the committee findings were much more damaging to Powell than the original charges.

"If I voted to unseat Powell on Jan. 10 how could I vote to seat him now when he has made no attempts to clear himself of extremely serious charges and as a matter-of-fact is enjoying himself more than ever while we in congress are struggling with the problem of what to do with him?" he concluded.

Steiger added he believed Powell's actions were "such that it was obvious steps had to be taken to discipline him."

He also said he would continue to press for the establishment of an ethics committee in an attempt to keep such problems as Powell had presented from occurring again.

Son Finds Father's Body

Herman Nett, 57, Dies After Car Stalls in Snow

HILBERT — Herman F. Nett, 57, route 2, was found dead, slumped across a fence, by his son John, about 2 a.m. today.

According to police Nett's car was found stuck in a snow drift less than a quarter mile from his home on county Trunk B.

Police said the son was pulling the car back to the house with a tractor when he found his father on the fence along the driveway.

Nett had attended a church meeting at Sherwood until 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

An autopsy has been ordered by Otto Arndt, deputy coroner, to establish the cause of death.

Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Sherwood, with burial in the parish cemetery. Friends may call at the Kapitzke Funeral Home, Hilbert, after 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Survivors are the widow, one son, two daughters, three sisters, two brothers and seven grandchildren.

Safety Councils Pick Delegates to Highway Hearing

The Greater Appleton and the Outagamie County Safety Councils will have representatives at the state Senate hearing March 20 on Gov. Warren P. Knowles' highway safety bill

Frank A. Sanders, county safety council chairman, said that Edward C. Schroder, past council chairman, will be the unit's official representative at Madison, while Harvey Priebe Jr., president of the Greater Appleton Area Safety Council, will represent that group.

Sanders said his group has endorsed the highway safety proposal and Priebe explained that the Appleton council will discuss the bill at a March 7 meeting.

The March 20 public hearing, first on Knowles' highway bill, will start at 1 p.m.

Knowles, in a telegram to heads of local safety councils in the state, this week appealed for support and asked for "a personal appearance" from each of the locals.

Knowles Told State Might Get Okay on Highway Bonds

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Gov. Warren Knowles Wednesday received assurance that Undersecretary of Transportation Lowell K. Bridwell would consider the governor's request for permission to float bonds in lieu of the release of $25 million in federal funds now frozen in the federal roads program.

Knowles, who stopped in Washington after a Great Lakes Governors Conference in Toledo, Ohio, explained the bottleneck now existing in Wisconsin on the interstate highway system, which is completed except for the stretch between Tomah on the south and Eau Claire on the north.

The governor said that Bridwell promised to take up his request with the Bureau of Roads and Bureau of the Budget. However, Knowles indicated he was keeping his fingers crossed on the eventual decision.

No Injuries Reported In Two-Car Collision South of Hilbert

CHILTON — No injuries were reported in a two-car accident about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, 2½ miles south of Hilbert on State 57.

Involved were cars driven by Sister M. Mathe, Sacred Heart parish, Sherwood, and George S. Schmitz, route 1, Hilbert

County police said that Sister Mathe was traveling South on State 57 when her car hit an icy spot and slid across the center of the road. Schmitz, traveling north on 57, said he saw the approaching car skid and pulled on to the shoulder to try and avoid the crash. The left side of the Schmitz vehicle was damaged.

UW Young Democrats Reject LBJ Leadership

MADISON (AP) — University of Wisconsin Young Democrats voted 33-21 Wednesday night to reject President Johnson's leadership despite a professor's plea against the move.

Prof. Davis Taar of the political science department told the group the rejection resolution amounted to "character assassination."

The resolution expressed opposition to renomination of Johnson in 1968 unless administration policies changed. The proposal complained Johnson has not lived up to 1964 campaign promises in the areas of peace and domestic affairs.

Britain Reviews Efforts to Save Southeast Asia

Commonwealth Also Vows Never Again To Tackle Problem

LONDON (AP) — Britain is giving details of its efforts to save part of Southeast Asia from Indonesian control. In the same breath it is saying: Never again.

The review of defense policies published this week makes these points in telling how Commonwealth forces repelled the confrontation policy of President Sukarno:

"Without their (British forces') contribution to the Commonwealth effort, much of Southeast Asia might have collapsed into disorder, perhaps inviting competitive intervention by other powers with the consequent risk of general war.

"Our aim is that Britain should not again have to undertake operations on this scale outside Europe. The purpose of our diplomacy is to foster developments which will enable the local peoples to live at peace without the presence of external forces.

Presence Helps

"But, provided they are needed and welcome, the continuing presence of British forces can help in the meantime to create an environment in which local governments are able to establish the political and economic basis for peace and stability."

The Defense Ministry asserted that the campaign against confrontation "was never allowed to escalate above the level of local conflict" although it was fought out on two fronts 1,000 miles apart, and over a vast area.

This is the story as the British tell it:

British, Australian and New Zealand naval and air units controlled over 3,000 miles of coastline and the air space above it.

Simultaneously ground forces, including Malaysian and Singapore elements, dominated 1,000 miles of frontier jungle in Borneo for three years against superior Indonesian guerrilla units.

Little Contact

This was made possible because Commonwealth troops won and held the confidence of the natives. Many in remote areas had little contact with the 20th century.

"The 'hearts and minds' campaign was as critical to Commonwealth success in containing the conflict as the dangerous jungle patrols and the system of helicopter supply," says the white paper.

Summing up the white paper proclaimed:

"Confrontation was constrained by the limited use of armed force very carefully judged and applied.

"We had sufficient military power in the area to deal with hostilities on a larger scale.

"Fortunately this was never needed."

It reports 150 Commonwealth dead, military and civilian, and 602 Indonesian dead.

Lawrence Elects David Chambers Student President

David Chambers, St. Louis, Mo., was elected president of the Lawrence University student body Tuesday by a 607-288 vote majority over Paul Hennigsen, Whitefish Bay.

Chambers has been active in the Student Senate, is a member of the President's Committee, and a resident of the honors dormitory. He is also a member of the editorial board of the literary magazine "Tropos," and holds the office of spokesman for the Lawrence chapter of the Students for a Democratic Society.

The latter group has been conducting campus vigils in protest of the Vietnamese war, and recently picketed a representative of the Dow Chemical Company who visited Lawrence.

Chambers has also been active in productions of the Lawrence University Theatre Company, has attended a student government encampment and has sung in the Messiah.

In January his father, Prof. William N. Chambers of Washington University in St. Louis, addressed the Lawrence student body at the conclusion of a conference on political extremism.
